ALL COAL UNDER WAR RULES

DRASTIC STEPS BY GOVERNMENT TO AVERT FAMINE

Hereafter Only Essential Consumers, Included in First Five Classes of the War Priority List, Will Be Allowed Coal.

ORDER WILL FORCE CLOSING OF PLANTS

Dr. Garfield, in Explaining Action, Says That Situation Makes It Necessary That Coal Be Used Only for Essential Purposes.

Washington, December 1.—Wartime restrictions on the nation's use of coal, more stringent even than those applied during the war, were ordered into effect today to stave off a cuel famine.

Moved by reports of diminishing coal stock and growing danger of distress in numerous sections, the government sought no compromise with striking mine workers whose walkout forced the emergency, but asked for national determination to endure privation and discomfotr until coal mining was resumed on its terms.

Fuel Administrator Garfield, acting in conjunction with the railroad administration, gave notice that hereafter only the essential consumers, included in the first five classes of the war priority list would be supplied with coal, and asked the help of all state and municipal authorities to make rationing effective.

The order, which made national those restrictions alreay put into local effect by regional committees where the pinch of fuel shortage has been felt, cuts off supplies from all with the exception of transportation agencies, which includes inland and coastwise shipping, as well as railroads, federal and local government institutions and establishments, including concerns working on government contracts; public utilities, including newspapers and retail dealers. Railroad administration officials conceded that it meant widespread cessation of industrial operations, only justified by the gravity of the situation.

Only for Essential Purposes.

"It is necessary that coal shall be used only for essential purpoess," Dr. Garfield said in giving public notification of the step. "Public utilities consuming coal should discontinue to furnish power, heat and light to non-essential industries, and should consume only sufficient coal to produce enough light, power and heat to meet the actual urgent needs of the people. Advertising signs and displays of various kinds necessitating the use of coal should be curtailed, and no coal should be distributed for such purposes."

Officials said that the terms of the order as given were framed to allow the greatest possible variation in local arrangements, so that emergencies could be met by action best suited to that result. Industrial establishments operating their own power plants will be forced to shut down when present supplies are exhausted, while the operations of those whose power is supplied from public utility plants will be curtailed or continued in the discretion of local agencies and officials. Dr Garfield noted further that the "government would be glad to leave supervision and control of distribution by retail dealers entirely to any state, county or municipality which may make provision therefor."

These arrangements, it was suggested, would all be maintained while they proved adequate, but the federal government would hold a final power to intervene by cutting off coal supplies where rationing measures are not being fairly or fully taken.

Explanation by Garfield.

"It is necessary that coal shall be used only for essential purposes," said Dr Garfield's statement explaining the government's action "Public utilities consuming coal distinue to furnish power, heat and light to non-essential industries and should only consume sufficient coal to produce enough light, power and heat to meet the actual urgent needs of the people. Advertising signs and displays of various kinds necessitating the use of coal should be curtailed and no coal should be distributed for such purposes.

1920 Jury List In Fulton Shows Great Increase

The Fulton county jury list for 1920 showing an increase of 22 per cent in the number of petit jurymen, was completed late Monday afternoon by Clark Lewis, the clerk of the jury commission. This jury list is the most complete in the history of the county. It shows 11 699 petit jurors and 606 grand jurors. The list from which the juries have been drawn for the past two years was compiled in August of 1917, and showed 9,821 petit jurors and 606 grand jurors, the same number on the list this year.

The list was completed within thirty days as allowed by law, although it took several days' additional for the clerk of the commission to transcribe his notes.

Much credit is due the members of the commission for the methods they used to revise the list and bring it up to date. The commission was composed of George W. McCarty, John R. Dickey, J. L. Sims, George H Sims, James A. Massey and W. M Brown. Clark Lewis, deputy clerk of Fulton county, acted in the capacity of secretary for the commission

ATLANTA STREETS IN BAD CONDITION

Joint Responsibility Placed on City and Georgia Railway and Power Company by Investigating Committee.

Joint responsibility for the bad condition of many of Atlanta s streets was placed on the city and the Georgia Railway and Power company, in a report submitted by the chief of construction to the street committee Monday afternoon. Consideration of the report for adoption was deferred until the next meeting of the committee.

The lack of finances and department equipment are the shortcomings of the municipality, while cheap construction of foundations on some streets, rails too light and too long delayed repairs, are the street car company's faults, says the report.

Inspection on which the paper was based was made on November 25 by a committee composed of Mayor Key, the chief of construction, four members of the street committee, two officials of the street car company and two aides to Mr. Collier in the construction department.

Investigate 50 Streets.

About fifty streets were investigated, all of which were named as in bad repair in the report.

"In rebuilding car tracks and repaving our streets," says the report, "we must insist on first-class construction. No rail less than 7 inches or lighter than 90 pounds per yard, laid on thoroughly creosoted ties, should be allowed. Under heavy traffic these ties should be laid on first-class concrete or thoroughly tamped ballast, well grouted, with at least a one-to-three mixture.

"All the streets inspected, whether paved with sheet asphalt, bricks, granite blocks, water-bound macadam, bituminous macadam or bitulithic, are badly in need of repavement. They have been patched and repatched until very little can be accomplished by patching."

The street car company is criticized for permitting low joints and loose rails to remain a part of its track equipment. The committee declared that following their inspection they have no hesitancy in declaring that the next street work necessary to be done should be the rebuilding of the pavement from curb to curb, including the track, on Broad street between the railroad bridge and Alabama street and the rebuilding of the tracks from Alabama street to Mitchell street with granite blocks on six inches of concrete base.

Paving Work Urged.

Paving is also urged for the intersection of South Forsyth and West Hunter, and South Forsyth and Mitchell streets. Many other streets are named as being urgently in need of repairs, both as to paving and street car tracks.

With reference to Park, Lee and Gordon streets and Cascade avenue the report says:

GROCERY STORES TO REMAIN OPEN UNTIL 6 O'CLOCK

Meat Markets and Milk Depots Will Be Governed by the Same Hours. Several Modifications Made in Rulings of the Committee Monday.

WOOD, OIL, CANDLES BARRED AFTER HOURS

No Exception Made Where Manufacturers Use Hydro-Electric Power—Dance Halls Classed as Public Amusements.

The use of wood, oil and candles for heating and lighting purposes during hours when coal and electricity are prohibited was barred by a supplementary order issued by the coal committee for the southern region on Monday. That grocery stores, milk depots, and meat markets, strictly as such, will be allowed to remain open daily until 6 o'clock, and on Saturdays until 9 o'clock, was another important ruling announced by the committee.

Several modifications in previous rulings of the committee were announced, most of them making the rules more stringent, and a few cases appearing in which the committee saw fit to lighten certain restrictions where it seemed absolutely necessary.

The request from certain cotton mills to be allowed to continue the practice of operating three shifts was denied, and the ruling was made that strict compliance to the 48-hour week for manufacturing plants be observed.

Exempted From Orders.

Cotton ol mills, however, and fertilizer plants will be classed as continuous process operations by the administration, and will be exempted fro mhte closng regulations.

No exception was made by the committee in the cases where manufacturers use hydro-electric power, the ruling being made that forces them to the same regulations as those plants using coal to furnish their power. The ruling of the coal committee on this question was as follows:

"This question was given most serious consideration. The decision was based, both upon the well known fact that most of the hydro electric utilities consume a certain amount of coal, varying with the amount of water power available, and upon the conviction that to make any exception would involve indefensible discrimination and endanger the whole plan of conservation, the execution of which is imperative for the safety of the country. In this connection, it may be stated that hydro-electric power now is being diverted under the direction of this committee from various points of production to distant communities where users are largely dependent upon steam-produced electricity and, therefore, power saved by the restrictions at points of production is saving coal elsewhere."

Banks, clearing house associations and business houses may remain open after 4 o'clock to do accounting and invoicing, that is absolutely necessary to the successful transaction of their business, but must not remain open for work that is not absolutely necessary.

Dance Halls, Amusements.

The request of the dance halls to be allowed to remain open until 10:30 was granted under the classification of public amusements. The same right was granted to poolrooms, provided that they sell nothing, such as cigarettes, tobacco, drinks, etc.

The request of fraternal orders that they be allowed to hold meetings at night was granted, with the provision that they close their sessions at 10:30.

Further important decisions rendered by the coal committee Monday on various questions made to them are as follows:

"Cigar and tobacco stands in hotels, restaurants and office buildings, railroad stations and other public places will be required to observe the hours fixed for mercantile establishments generally, except that such stands may open for the sale of newspapers and periodicals without restriction.

Observe Same Hours.

"Fruit stands and confestioners will be required to observe the same hours as other stores. Where

American Girl, First Woman to Sit in English Parliament, Formally Sworn in.

By Raymond G. Carroll.
(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

London, December 1.—(Special Cable Dispatch.)—Lady Astor took her seat in the house of commons this afternoon.

Entering from the lobby at 3:35 o'clock, Lady Astor was met by a group of members just outside the door at what is traditionally known as the "Bar of the House." Near her stood her brother-in-law, Colonel Spender-Clay, pending her introduction. Facing her at the extreme opposite end of the chamber, was the speaker in his wig and black robe. In front of the speaker was a big oblong table to accommodate three clerks of the house and the famous dispatch boxes used by the

CHURCHES OF ATLANTA EXCEED THEIR QUOTAS

No Statements Yet Received From Twelve Associations, Which Are Rated Among Largest and Most Dependable in State.

ORPHANS SUBSCRIBE $3,000.

Eighty-five boys and girls in the Baptist orphans' home at Tapeville have subscribed over $3,000 to the Baptist $75,000,000 campaign. The children at the home are given opportunity to make money in addition to their regular work, and through the effort of the management a spirit of thrift has been promoted until nearly every boy and girl has a definite medium of creating a personal fund.

The campaign embraced the ages beginning with the junior B. Y. P. U., and Manager T. S Scoggins stated to a campaign official at headquarters last night that the campaign was the most remarkable experience they had ever had at the home. He called the state headquarters and let the officials hear the children singing the campaign song, "Millions for the Master."

With $7,623,139.75 in pledges already received and recorded and with many other reports in the offices of the Atlanta campaign headquarters, which have not been officially tabulated because they did not come through the regular channel of reporting subscriptions, Georgia has now passed her qpota of $7,500,000 in the Baptist $75,000,000 drive and all indications are that

Twenty Days to Shop And Short Ones, Too, Before Xmas Comes

Ordinarily it could be said that there are twenty shopping days until Christmas. But the fuel order brings on complications.

Things may be better, but then things may also get just a bit worse. The consensus of opinion is, then, that in view of all the potentialities extant in the case, Chirstmas shipping had better hurry up.

The day has been cut shorter; those that have heeded the hackneyed call to shop early are crying, "I told you so," the less fortunate are getting a move on—or should.

$25,000 TO MAKE AUDITORIUM SAFE VOTED BY COUNCIL

Money Will Be Used to Construct New Exits and to Make Other Necessary Improvements.

INCREASED PAY VOTED MANY CITY OFFICIALS

Southern Railroad Asked to Put Watchman at Crossing—Baldwin Taxicab License Revoked.

City council, Monday afternoon, voted to ask the 1920 finance committee to appropriate $25,000 to construct new exits and make other improvements at the Auditorium to eliminate the danger from fire which is said to exist while the building is in itsp resent condition. The resolution was introduced by Councilman J. C. Little, chairman of the police committee.

A resolution was passed requesting the Southern railroad to install at its grade crossing on North Boulevard, near the end of Tenth street, some safety device to safeguard traffic, such as automatic alarm bells. The resolution asks that a watchman be stationed at this crossing tempoarrily until the safety device can be installed.

Baldwin License Revoked.

City council, by unanimous vote, on Monday afternoon revoked the license of the Baldwin Taxicab company. This course was commended by the police committee of council, who made an investigation after receiving a communication from the Fulton county grand jury expressing the opinion that revocation of its license would be the proper course to pursue.

According to the communication, Baldwin is under two indictments—one for receiving stolen goods and one for selling liquor.

Aldine Chambers renewed his request to council Monday afternoon to act without further delay on his proposition submitted several weeks ago to purchase from the city the waste steam at the crematory. He offered a price not to exceed a maximum of $40,000 a year.

His proposition was originally referred to the finance committee, and by that committee to a subcommittee for consideration. Alderman Harvey Hatcher, chairman of the committee, reported that they had taken no action on his proposal, and moved that his latest communication be referred to the finance committee, also. This was done.

Council passed a resolution establishing a new voting precinct for the ninth ward, at the corner of Highland avenue and St. Charles avenue. This was made necessary through the creation of the new eleventh ward from apart of the ninth ward. R. A. Agnew and J. C. Buchanan were named as new electionmanagers in this ward.

Salaries Are Increased.

Salaries for numerous city officials were fixed for next year, many of them at an increase. The salary committee had considered the schedule, but failed to agree unanimously on all the petitions for increase, a majority and a minority report being sent to council.

Those on which the salary committee had agreed were passed by unanmious vote, but the others were voted on separately. The minority report, which favored the largest increase, was sustained throughout.

The new salaries of the officials and employers under controversy will be as follows, unless the aldermanic board nonconcurs:

City physicians, $2,400 each; sewer flushers, $1,430 each; sanitary and health inspectors, $1,620 each; superintendent of street cleaning in the sanitary department, $2,040; assistant superintendent, $1,740; fumigating inspector in the health department, $15 a month; public welfare nurses, $1,500 each; clerk of the board of health, $2,400; clerk in the sanitary department, $2,100.

Chief food inspector and veterinary in the health department, $2 200; chief plumbing inspector, $2,400; first assistant, $2,000; second assistant, $1,800; third assistant, $1,500 A petition from the employees of Carnegie library for more money was referred to the salary committee.

Employment Bureau.

An appropriation of $100 was sanctioned by council for the establishment of an employment bureau in the office of the city clerk. This bureau will be in charge of an expert formerlie connected with the government bureau in the office of the city clerk. This bureau will be in charge of an expert formerly connected with the government employment service. Equipment will be furnished by the government, the city paying only for the services of the person in charge.

The resignation of Alfred C. Newell as a member of the board of trustees of Grady hospital was accepted by council. He has removed from the eighth ward, in which he lived when elected to the place, and resigned for this reason.

City council unanimously accepted an invitation formally tendered the body by Alderman J. H. Ewing, "to assist in consuming a lot of quail" next Saturday evening at his home, 106 Indian circle.

Wholesale Butchery To Avenge Execution Of General Angeles

Villa Forces Attack Carranza Regiment of 676 Men and Massacre All Save Two Members.

El Paso, Texas, December 1.—Fighting like madmen to avenge the death of Felipe Angeles, 1,000 soldiers under command of Francisco Villa fell upon the eightieth regiment of the federal army, 676 men, at Rancho Espejo, 21 miles north of Santa Rosalia, Chihuahua, Friday morning, November 28, at 6 o'clock, exactly 24 hours after the Chapultepec officer had been shot down by a firing squad in Chihuahua City, and massacred all but two members of the regiment.

Such was the word brought to El Paso tonight by L. M. Gomez, of this city, and Los Angeles, an American citizen, who fought for eighteen months as an aviator with the American army in France. Following the arrest of Angeles, Gomez, in behalf of friends on this side of the line, went to Chihuahua to intercede for him. He was with him all night and up to 6:55 o'clock when Angeles was executed, and also attended his funeral.

On going to Santa Rosalia, 360 kilometers south of Chihuahua, he learned the story of the massacre, which, he declared, has been censored by the Carranza authorities He left there on his return trip Sunday morning.

The account of the fight he heard from Colonel Rivas and Lieutenant Colonel Marroqui as they related it to a mutual friend in Santa Rosalia. These two officers are the only men who escaped.

General Santo Sanchez, the chief officer, was missing when Gomez left Santa Rosalia, and there was little doubt that he had been killed

City's Part of Work Will Total $227,150.98, Says H. L. Collier—Officials to Confer With County Board.

In addition to grading and paving Spring street, which the Fulton county commissioners have promised to do free of cost to the city, they will be asked Wednesday by the mayor and members of the street committee, to assume part of the cost of readjusting buildings, constructing retaining walls and other preliminary work which the city had agreed to do.

The commissioners have indicated their intention to be ready with a big working force to start on the project by December 15, and no one anticipated the city's objection to carry its share of the cost and the sudden interruption of plans which developed at a special meeting of the street committee Monday afternoon.

Acting upon the suggestion of Mayor Key, the chairman named the street committee, members of the steering committee of the Spring Street Improvement club and the mayor to appear before the board of Fulton county commissioners, who will meet in regualr session Wednesday afternoon, and ask the commissioners to share in the appropriation which it will require to meet the cost of readjustments.

Estimates Are Made.

Estimates of what the cost of the street will be to the county, to the city and to the property owners have been made on two sections of Spring street by City Engineer C. E Kaufman. The aggregate cost to the city for these portions will be $227,150.98.

On section 1, from Marietta street to Carnegie way, including Carnegie way, the estimted cost to the county will be $37,453.70.; the city's part $22,209.72; the property owners' part $5,624.20.

On section 2, from Carnegie way to North avenue, the estimated cost to the county will be $110.138; the city's part, $205, 41.26; the property owners' part, $34,231.75.

This the mayor stated, creates

TWO GUILTY PLEAS IN NEWBERRY CASE

W. E. Rice and Allie K. Moore, Indicted With United States Senator, Appear in Federal Court and Plead Guilty.

Grand Rapids, Mich., December 1. Unexpected progress was made today by federal officers in preparing the way for an early trial of the 135 men, including United States Senator Truman H. Newberry, who were indicted by a federal grand jury here Saturday on charges of corruption, fraud and conspiracy in connection with the Newberry election campaign in 1918. Service was secured on a number of those indicted and first arraignments were held before Federal Judge Sessions half a dozen of the defendants appearing in court.

Something of a sensation was caused today when two or those cited in the true bills, but whose names did not appear in the list, announced Saturday, came before Judge Sessions and pleaded guilty to counts contained in the indictments. These were William E. Rice, a Grand Rapids printer, who this morning pleaded guilty to conspiracy and was released under bond of $1,000, and Allie K. Moore, formerly a Grand Rapids newspaperman, and later a publisher at Marquette, Mich., who pleaded guilty late today to four of six counts.

Several Appeared in Court.

Several others of the 121 whose names had been withheld pending service of the warrants, correctly suspected they had been named in the indictment and appeared volun-

NO MORE LIQUOR FOR LOUISVILLE

United States Circuit Court of Appeals Grants Supersedeas and Stops Booze Sales in Kentucky City.

Cincinnati, Ohio, December 1.—By granting an order for supersedeas, the United States circuit court of appeals here today ordered a stop put to liquor sales being made in Louisville in the injunction granted there by District Judge Evans. The court ruled that sales made after the granting of the district judge's injunction and up to the time of the order were not illegal.

New Orleans, December 1.—Judge R. W. Walker in the United States circuit court of appeals, announced today he had taken under advisement the petition of the federal districtattorney for an appeal from the recent decision of Judge Rufus E. Foster, restraining government authorities from interfering with the sale of liquor here.

Judges W. I. Grubb, of Alabama, and Foster, of New Orleans, sat on the bench with Judge Walker. Judge Foster, however, did not take part in the deliberations because of his having granted the injunction. Judge Walker said it "might be a day and it might be a week" before he announced his decision.

NO "NEAR BEER" FOR KANSAS CITY.

Kansas City, Mo., December 1.—Federal Judge Van Valkenburgh today denied the application of the Muehlebach Brewing company and the Kansas City Food Products company for a temporary injunction restraining the district attorney and the collector of internal revenue from interfering with the sale of 2.75 per cent beer.

BLUNT CHARGE THAT CARRANZA CLOUDS ISSUE

The American Note Is Couched in the Sharpest Language Yet Addressed to Mexican Government.

NO TIME LIMIT FIXED BY THE AMERICAN NOTE

But Carranza Is Plainly Told That the United States Expects Immediate Release of Consular Agent Jenkins, Now in Jail at Puebla.

Washington, December 1.—Setting aside as unfounded the various arguments with which the Mexican government clothed its answer to the first American note calling for the release of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, Mexico, the American government in its second note, made public today, renewed its request for the "immediate release of Mr. Jenkins from further imprisonment."

The note takes strength not so much from its language as from the fact that it dismisses all the contentions but one made by the Carranza government as being merely endeavors to becloud the issue, and then characterizes the remaining charge, that Mr. Jenkins "is imprisoned 'for false judicial testimony'" as "merely an expression of opinion on the part of the Mexican government as it is entirely unsupported by evidence."

That the state department regards the latest diplomatic document as the gravest step that has yet been taken in its relations with Mexico was made plain this afternoon, when Secretary Lansing did not deny such a statement on the part of newspaper men attending his conference.

Mexic Statements Untrue.

In no less than five places in the body of the note the Mexican government is told in diplomatic language that the United States government considers statements made in the Mexican reply to be untrue, and only designed to draw the United States into a "subtle argument," a thing it will not consider.

No ultimatum was served and no time was given in which this government expects Jenkins to be released and neither was there any statement in the note as to what the course of the American government would be if the renewed request for his release is denied.

After a conference with Secretary Lansing late today, Chairman Porter, of the house foreign affairs committee, expressed the opinion that "the state department means business this time." Chairman Porter indicated that he was in thorough accord with the government's present policy in dealing with the Mexican situation. He refused to discuss what additional information had been given him by the secretary, but said that he personally could not see how the United States could avoid intervention except in the case of immediate compliance by Carranza with the American request.

Fall Sees Lansing.

Senator Fall, of New Mexico, chairman of the foreign relations subcommittee investigating the Mexican situation, returned here tonight and later conferred with Secretary Lansing at the latter's home. After talking with Mr. Lansing, Senator Fall saw Senator Brandegee, of Connecticut, another member of the subcommittee, but declined to say what had been discussed.

State department officials refused comment as well on press reports from the border that Mr. Jenkins had been released. They said that no word had reached them officially and it was intimated that such action was hardly possible, in view of the fact that there had been no indication that the second note had been received by the Mexican foreign office.

"The Mexican government maintains that it can not grant the request of the United States for Mr. Jenkins' release, for the reason that under international law no diplomatic intervention is appropriate unless a denial of justice has occurred, and because the Mexican government is not in a position to demand Jenkins' release in view of the separation of the executive and judicial powers under the Mexican form of government, and the independence of the state courts, by one of which Jenkins is held. The succinct answer to this contention is, as everybody knows, that a denial of justice has already taken place, and also because the Mexican constitution specifically gives the federal tribunals jurisdiction of 'all cases concerning diplomatic agents and consular officers.'"

It is suggested in some quarters here that Mexico is enabled to answer this note by producing evidence of Jenkins' contradictory statement, which, however, would only meet legal and not moral requirements; and that, if it should be proven that Jenkins has made contradictory declarations, Mexico, on account of the American note, is enabled "as an act of grace" to free Jenkins, the United States, during the civil war, having freed a British subject as "an act of grace," although his release was demanded by England.

How Mexico Can Argue.

Mexico can argue, it is pointed out, that if the judicial charge is substantiated, the courts have jurisdiction, and that the United States has no right to intervene diplomatically; and if this is not considered sufficient, it was believed tonight, that on account of the question of Mexico's executive limitation is concerned, the Mexican government might seek to force the United States to commit itself, in words as well as in principle, and practice, in a manner that would seem to conflict with the position taken by the United States in the negotiations with Japan concerning the California alien land-ownership question. There is reason to believe that diplomats of other countries are greatly interested in the correspondence between the United States and Mexico, more for the development of principles than for any practical developments.

It was officially explained at the state department that the first note to Mexico did not "demand" the release of Jenkins. The announcement by the department on November 20, of the despatch of the first note, stated that it was "calling for the release" of Jenkins. The department at that time declined to make public the text of the note on the ground that it was sent in cipher, and to give the English of it would disclose the code.

On November 27, a translation of the American note, made public at El Paso, Texas, contained the words: "therefore, I am ordered to demand the immediate liberation of Mr. Jenkins." It was explained at the department today what the erroneous translation was not given out by the Mexican government; that the word "request" in Spanish is "domando," and that it should not have been translated into English as "demand."

It had everywhere been believed here that the original note contained a demand, as the first statement by the state department did not employ the word "request," but the expression "calling for," and this was everywhere regarded as meaning a demand.

Text of the Note.

"I have not failed to transmit to my government the note of the Mexican government dated November 26, 1919, with reference to the case of William C. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, and I am now in receipt of a reply from the government of the United States, which I am instructed to transmit to you.

"The government of the United States declines to be drawn into a judicial discussion of irrelevant matters or unimportant incidents brought forward in connection with this case. The Mexican government cannot be misled, as it intimated, by the citation by the United States of 'no principle or precedent of international law, and not even a reason' for Jenkins' release, for obvious no such citation is necessary for the enlightenment of a government of the present day. The Mexican government believes, and rightly so, that the American request for Jenkin's release is not based on 'solely the strength of the country which makes it,' for it knows the request is founded on the justice of the right of an American citizen and United States consular officer to fair treatment while residing and discharging his duties within Mexican jurisdiction with the knowledge and approval of the Mexican government. The Mexican government may contend that the imprisonment of the victim is necessary for the investigation by a judge under the 'constant vigilance of public opinion' of the truth regarding his abduction and that a right of release on bail is a palliative for such wrongful imprisonment, but the United States is constrained to the opinion that such arguments are mere excuses.

Full Investigation Wanted.

"The government of the United States invites and desires the fullest possible examination and investigation of this case, but it cannot admit that it is necessary in order to ascertain the facts that Mr. Jenkins should be retained in prison even with the privilege of applying for bail. My government will not and is satisfied that Mr. Jenkins will not place any obstacle in the way of a complete and full examination of himself or his witnesses, or of the events leading up to and connected with his abduction.

"The Mexican government prefers to attribute the American note to an imperfect knowledge of the Mexican penal laws and proceeds to explain with refinement the intricacies of Mexican penal proceedings. But the government of the United States fails to discern in their application to this case at the hands of Mexican authorities any approximation to impartial treatment of Jenkins and the Mexican government knows the absence of such treatment is the reason for the American request.

"The Mexican government maintains that it cannot grant the request of the United States for Jenkins' release for the reason that under international law no diplomatic intervention is appropriate unless a denial of justice has occurred and because the Mexican government is not in a position to demand Jenkins' release in view of the separation of the executive and judicial powers under the Mexican form of government and the independence of the state courts, by one of which Jenkins is held. The succinct answer to this contention is, as everyone knows, that a denial of justice has already taken place, and also because the Mexican constitution specifically gives the federal tribunals jurisdiction of 'all cases concerning diplomatic and consular officers.'

Mexico Must Show Cause.

"The United States is not to be driven by such subtle arguments into a defense of its request for the release of Mr. Jenkins. It is for Mexico to show cause for his detention, not for the United States to plead for his liberation. Stripped of extraneous matter, with which the Mexican note of November 26 endeavors to clothe it, the naked case of Jenkins stands forth: Jenkins, a Untied States consular agent, accredited to the government of Mexico, is imprisoned for 'rendering false judicial testimony,' in connection with the abduction of which he was the victim. This is the substance of the Mexican note.

"My government is pleased to learn that the imprisonment of Jenkins stands on this single and well-defined ground, and that the reported statements that Mexican authorities had caused the imprisonment of Jenkins because of collusion with his abductors and rebellion against the state are not seriously regarded by your government.

"In whose interest then is the charge of false swearing brought against Jenkins? His abductors'? He is in equity the complainant in the case of his abduction, not the defendant as the Mexican government makes him out to be. The Mexican government is prosecuting the victim instead of the perpetrators of the crime. While the outlaws who endangered his life and took away a large part of his fortune enjoy their freedom, the Mexican authorities now deprive Jenkins of his liberty. Moreover, the ground expressed for the imprisonment of Jenkins, namely, that he is supposed 'to be responsible for the crime of rendering false judicial testimony' must be taken—and my government directs special attention to this point—as merely an expression of opinion on the part of the Mexican government as it is entirely unsupported by evidence. There is not produced any of the testimony rendered by him or any extracts from such testimony tending to show the correctness of this opinion.

No Valid Excuse.

"The Mexican government cannot expect the United States to accept in the grave circumstances of this case such a bare unsupported statement as a valid excuse for the imprisonment of an American consular officer, particularly in view of the fact that the investigation of the case by the representatives of the United States in Mexico, so far as it has proceeded, fails utterly to support this opinion of your government. On the contrary, the investigation gives the government of the United States every reason to believe that Mr. Jenkins has not knowingly given any false testimony in respect of vital points in his case; although he ahs been harassed by Mexican authorities to give such testimony, even while lying in the hospital too weak and exhausted to make them as a result of his treatment by the abductors, and while he knew evidence was being obtained against him through intimidation of witnesses. So stands the single, unsupported and, my government believes, utterly unfounded, ground alleged for Jenkins' imprisonment.

"What conclusion is to be drawn from such reply of the Mexican government other than there has been a studied effort on the part of Mexican authorities to ensnare Jenkins in the intricacies of legal proceedings by alleging the commission of technical offenses, and by bringing unsupported charges against him, for a purpose: In the first place, to divert the attention of the American public and the American government, and indeed of Mexicans themselves, from the actual situation, namely that Puebla, the capital of the state of Puebla, and perhaps the second largest city in Mexico, is without adequate protection from outlaws who infect the immediate neighborhood and who were accustomed openly and freely to visit the city without hindrance, that by the failure to furnish adequate protection in this district the Mexican authorities have, through their negligence, made possible the abduction of Jenkins, and that in harmony with such an attitude on the part of the Mexican authorities they have failed to carry out the duty and obligation incumbent upon them to apprehend and punish the bandits concerned in the crime of which Jenkins was the victim.

Wilful Indifference.

"And in the second place it appears to have been the purpose of the Mexican government to assume a wilful indifference to the feelings of the American people that have been aroused to the point of indignation by the exposure, hardships and physical suffering endured by Jenkins during his abduction and his subsequent treatment at the hands of Mexican authorities.

"In view of the considerations which have been set forth and in view particularly of the belief of my government that the charge against Jenkins of deliberate false swearing is unfounded, the government of the United States must renew its request for the immediate release of Consular Agent Jenkins from further imprisonment.

(Signed) "LANSING."

Chairman Porter Hopeful.

Chairman Porter was with Secretary Lansing for half an hour discussing the Mexican situation in general, and later appeared hopeful of a solution of the trouble.

"The danger to the United States of this condition of continual unrest and feeling of hostility toward us in Mexico," Mr. Porter said, "lies in the fact that it provides a fertile field for anti-American propaganda and even for a base of attack upon the United States by any foreign country that effected a combination with Mexico. By this the spirit, if not the letter, of the Monroe doctrine would be violated.

"Property rights have been violated and the Mexican courts have declared constitutional the confiscatory provisions of the Mexican fundamental law against which we have taken a strong stand. I have a copy of the Mexican court's decision in this matter. If we permit the property rights of our nationals in Mexico to be thus violated, where can we stop? Suppose Brazil and Argentina and Germany and other nations adopt such a confiscatory law. Our interests abroad would be wiped out.

"For three years or more I have been firmly convinced that either amicable or forceful intervention in Mexico by the United States is inevitable. I have heard nothing here that leads me to change my mind.

"And I wish to say that I am convinced that the state department means business, this time. I also believe that when the state department's firm stand is put before congress we shall give it our strongest support."

RUMORED JENKINS HAS BEEN RELEASED.

El Paso, Texas, December 1.—An unverified report was current here today that William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, Mexico, had been liberated from jail. Andres G. Garcia, consular general for Mexico here, said he had heard the report but no verification of the rumor had been received.

Over a Million Emergency Rations To Be Sold by Army

Washington, December 1.—The government has in store at various depots, it was announced today, over a million emergency rations which were prepared for our troops in France and which will shortly be placed on sale to the general public in army retail stores in Atlanta and elsewhere.

Each ration tinned weighs one pound and is composed of 8½ ounces of meat and wheat component; 3 ounces being lean beef ground to a powder and mixed with 5½ ounces of cooked wheat which has been kiln-dried after removal of the chaff, parched and ground to a coarse powder, and the whole seasoned with salt, with extra salt and pepper wrapped in separate packages for such as desire it. In addtion, there are three 1 ounce tablets of the best quality of sweetened chocolate wrapped in tin foil.

This condensed ration affords an agreeable variety and may be used alone or in combination with other foods. Only the highest grades of material have been used in the preparation of these rations, the announcement adds, the manufacture of which has been carefully supervised by government inspectors.

THE FRANKLIN SEDAN

That enclosed cars offer most among automobiles, and the Franklin Sedan most among enclosed cars, is becoming apparent to more people every day.

Franklin Sedan performance is continually proving that a light, flexible enclosed car can travel unusually long distances in a day without exhausting rider or driver. And more motorists are seeing daily that this car can go where heavy, rigid ones can not. This explains the rapid increase in Franklin Sedan ownership.

Then, too, the general advertising tendency toward light weight and flexibility—Franklin principles for seventeen years—is teaching people what gives economy, comfort, usability and long life to a car. And the value of year-round usefulness, only possible with Direct Air Cooling (no water to boil or freeze) has become apparent through owner comparisons. No one disputes today the advantages of the proved economy resulting from

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50% slower yearly depreciation

Wide Observation Windows giving unobstructed outlook, and two Wide Doors increasing vision and making access easy, combine with the Slanting V-shaped Windshield and the Sloping French-style Hood to distinguish the Franklin Sedan from commonplace designs. They also identify it as the car of unequaled performance.

Let us prove the Franklin Car to you. Whatever preconceptions you have of what a car should do, or whatever recollections you have of what your Cars have done, will be exceeded by Franklin performance, over roads of your choice.

OTHER ERANKLIN TYPES

TOURING CAR—Franklin performance embodied in a Full Size, Five-Passenger Open Car. It is the most economical car of its type.

FOUR-PASSENGER ROADSTER—A convenient, attractive car. Compact, yet having ample room for four.

Smoking jackets and pajamas sticks and gloves and belt buckles which we engrave for you free of charge There are silk socks too and silk mufflers in many charming combinations of color. And a complete selection of gloves for every purpose.

And now lets go up stairs. Here we find Furs; a royal gift. There are scarfs and stoles and coatee effects there are coats, too, in mole seal and nutria. There are black wolf pieces as soft as fox and the fox pieces in every desired style.

On this floor are blouses too The kind that women really long for. And negligees from the artisans of our own country and from Japan. Quilted silk robes for women and bath robes of blanket material. And intimate gifts of hand embroidered lingerie or of silk lingerie. There are wool things, too. Sweaters, slipovers and morning things and shoulder scarfs for breakfast time Really beautiful breakfast negligees.

And way up front to the right there is a section devoted to the needs of their majesties The Babies of the land. Here are things to make the heart of the mother glad. Dainty wearables of every possible sort for the baby. Dolls wonderful creations, all dressed and ready for the party. There are rattles and, oh, so many dainty alluring things you will want to buy them all if you have a baby in mind.

And for the junior girls there are dresses. Perhaps you have a niece or for that matter a daughter, who will delight in a pretty dance frock. Here they are in fascinating array. There are middies and sweaters there are suits and furs.

And speaking of suits and dresses just across the way is the regular section for women in which are shown the most beautiful conceptions of the mode artist of the world. Perhaps you hadn't thought of a suit or a dress for a Christmas present but don't you think it would be practical and really a worth while gift?

And now for the third floor where art holds sway. Gathered here are reproductions of the art of all ages and many climes. The Heart of Nippon is shown in a Great God with fixed and gloomy features. He brings luck, they say therefore an excellent gift. There are vases from Chinese motifs ancient looking and unique in every respect. There are candle sticks and figures for ornamentation and for other purposes book blocks for instance. There are boxes for jewels. there are humidor boxes for cigars. And pictures. reproductions of masterpieces and worthy of serious consideration

There are dishes. too, in sets and separate pieces. tea sets and glassware and everywhere you will find quality of the sort you have learned to expect from this institution.

Our Art Department is on this floor also. and you will find everything here for the decoration of the home and pleasant folks who will help you to make dainty rose buds. lamp shades or show you how to embroider the dress for the baby or a kimono. Every morning except Saturday is given over to assisting people who want to become expert in the art of making beautiful things.

There are Oriental Rugs on this floor which are worth the time you may take to examine. From Persia and Armenia and from Turkey. hand woven. many of them very valuable. Designs and colorings we cannot duplicate in this country. An ideal gift.

One more floor finds us in the realm of furniture. easy chairs to right of us smoking stands to left of us and a hundred and one things which make superb gifts in front of us. Magazine stands, book racks, desks, and a fine console table in the renaissance period of Italy. Wicker furniture, a chaise lounge, a sewing table for Mother and here is a beautiful little chair for the bedroom. And we are told that furniture is hard to get and selections should be made without delay and laid aside for Christmas delivery.

One department we missed on the third floor demands attention and that is the Victrola department. You love music, of course, and if you haven't a Talking Machine in your home you really must look into the Victor or the Sonora and order early.

And as we go out lets take a peep into the basement. You will be glad you did, for here is a section devoted to traveling things, Trunks, suit cases, bags for every purpose, and toilet rolls. There are military brushes, too, and picture frames of leather. there are sewing baskets and manicure sets. And just look at this fitted suit case.

Wonderful leather and so beautifully lined. why it would last a life time!

But over here is a department for the housewife, there are many things here to delight the heart of the woman who loves to keep house and keep it right. Pyrex in gift boxes, "WEAR EVER" aluminum, pans and things for the kitchen and an oil heater for the bedroom. If you have a youngster who wakes up nights here is an electric heater to warm quickly, it radiates just like a fan. And just a moment, here are some andirons and fire sets, old fashioned and cozy looking, aren't they? In brass or wrought iron, and combinations of both, they speak of evenings before a log fire with a favorite book and pleasant memories. Wouldn't they make a fine gift, though?

Taken all in all, there are few places in the South where the real spirit of Christmas is so evident as here. We enjoy having you and you will enjoy your visit, and, too, your gift list will diminish so quickly here that Christmas will present no problem at all.

$5,000,000,000 ASKED BY GLASS

For Conduct of Government During Fiscal Year 1921—$1,017,500,000 of Total for Interest on Debt.

Washington, December 1.—The record billion-dollar congress of ordinary peace times faded into the past today when Secretary Glass, presenting the annual estimates, proposed appropriations of practically five billion dollars for conducting the peace-time activities of the government during the fiscal year 1921.

According to these figures, it will cost more than five times as much to conduct the peace-time affairs of the government as it did in the year immediately preceding the world war.

The greatest individual estimates for expenditures, of course, go to the army and the navy. The yearly interest on the war debt, however, is $1,017,500,000, which sum alone is greater than all eht appropriations for all purposes whatsoever of any peace-time congress.

All in all, the estimates justify the predicitons made on the floor of congress during consideration of the war tax bills, that the present generation would not see the government conducted at an expense of less than fourb illions a year.

Legislative —(congress)—$9,025,297.25.

Executive (white house and government departments) — $149,111,465.27.

Judicial—$1,634,190.

Navy—$542,031,309.80.

Pensions—$215,020,00.

Public Works—$283,921,810.17.

Foreign Intercourse — $11,243,250.91.

The total of all estimates, including some comparatively minor items not included in the foregoing is $4,865,410,031.62, the greatest sum ever asked of any congress when the country was not actually at war.

Rivers and harbors estimates include:

Flood Control—Mississippi river $10,000,000; Southwest Pass, Mississippi river, $2,191,000; Mobile bay $300,000; Black Warrior and Tombigbee rivers $200,000; waterway, Mississippi river to Sabine river, $332,000.

Cumberland river below Nashville $460,000; above Nashville, $10,000. Tennessee river, Chattanooga $210,000; Chattanooga to Riverton, $864,000; below Riverton, $[illegible],000.

Galveston harbor, $203,000; Galveston channel, $1,202,000; channel, Galveston to Texas City $88,000; channel, to Port Bolivar, $34,000; Houston ship channel, $700,000; Freeport harbor, $471,000.

Other rivers and harbor estimates include:

Apalachicola bay and river, $58,000; upper Chipola river, $5,100 Flint river, Georgia, $44,000; Chattahoochee river, $50,000; St. Andrews Bay, Fla. $35,000; Choctowhatchee river, $9,000; Holmes river, $4,000; Santa Rosa Sound Narrows, $3,000; Escambia and Conecuh rivers $10,000; Alabama river, $68,000; Coosa river, $25,315; channel, Mobile bay to Mississippi sound, $7,000 Tombigbee. Demopolis to Walker's bridge, $10,000; Pascagoula, $130,000; Gulfport and Ship Island pass, $130,000; Pascagoula river, $11,000. Biloxi, $7,000; Wolf and Jordan rivers, $7,000; East Pearl river, $7,000; Lake Pontchartrain, $3,200; Chefuncte river and Boguefalia, $3,500; Amite river and Bayou Manchac, $3,000; Bayou Plaquemine,—$20,000; Bayou Grossetete, $5,000; Atchafalaya river, $60,000; Bayou Vermilion, $6,500; Calcacasie, $15,000; removing water hyacinth, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas, $20,000.

Red river, below Fulton, Arkansas. $70,000; Ouachita and Black rivers, $502,000; Tensas river and Bayou Macon, $50,000; Bouef river, $5,000; Yazoo river, Mississippi, $16,000; Tallahatchie and Coldwater rivers, Mississippi, $10,000; Big Sunflower, Miss., $25,400; Steele and Washington bayous and Lake Washington, Mississippi, $8,450; Arkansas river, $29,350; White river, Arkansas, $27,000; Black river, $21,700; Current river, $8,550; St. Francis and Big L'Anguille rivers, $10,000; Anhauc channel, $8,300; Chocolate bayou, $5,000; Waterway, West Galveston bay to Brazos river, canal $25,600; Brazos river to Matagorda bay, $38,000; Pass Cavallo to Aransas pass, $25,300; Brazos river, Old Washington to Waco, $140,000; Port Aransas, $160,000; Sabine Pass harbor and Port Arthur canal, $140,000; Sabine Neseches canal, $140,000

FRIENDSHIP BAPTISTS OVER TOP IN CAMPAIGN

Americus, Ga., December 1.—Dr. Carl W. Minor, associational director of the $75,000,000 campaign in Friendship association, stated early today that in his opinion Friendship association has already gone over the top in the big Baptist missionary campaign. The campaign for contributions was conducted in America yesterday, and $21,000 in pledges was received by committees in the First Baptist church alone. Churches in Dawson, Plains, Leslie, Smithville, Bronwood and Hebron represent the other large congregations within the association, but few of these have as yet made definite reports.

The assessment of the First Baptist church here was fixed at $35,000, and Fred Smith acted as general organizer. He was assisted in his campaign by C. C. Hawkins, F. F. Gatewood, Sr., Dr. S. F. Howell, Lee M. Hansford, W. T. Calhoun, Edgar Shipp, George M. Bragg and T. E. Bolton as committee chairmen. James Lott, of Americus, acted as associational publicity agent during the campaign.

Calhoun Ginning.

Anniston, Ala., December 1.—(Special.)—Cotton ginned in this county prior to November 14, 1919 totaled 14,264 bales, as compared with 11,079 bales to the dame date in 1918, it is announced by James S. Morris, special agent.

U. S. DELEGATES URGED TO REMAIN

France Objects to Departure of American Peace Representatives Until Germany Signs Protocol.

Paris, December 1.—The French representatives in the peace conference are urging the American delegates to delay their departure for home until the protocol is signed putting into effect the peace treaty with Germany, it was learned today.

Although today was the date set for the exchange of ratifications of the treaty, no definite news was at hand regarding the intention of the Germans as to the signing of the protocol in which they are expected to guarantee the carriyng out of the armistice terms.

The supreme council today adopted the terms of the reply to the recent German note regarding prisoners of war. The contents were not given out.

How French Feel.

The feeling in French circles, which is shared in by some of the other delegations, is that the departure of the American delegates at this time would be misinterpreted in Germany as a sort of abandonment of the conference, although it would in no wise change the relation of the United States toward that body.

The decision of the American delegates to leave as soon as possible after December 1 was made long in advance of any sign that the Germans would hang back when the time came to make the Versailles treaty effective, and long before it could be foreseen that the United States would adjourn without ratifying the treaty. Hence their departure now is entirely unconnected with either of those developments.

Intimations to Germans.

Intimations have been made to the German representatives that it would be a mistake on their part to count upon the departure of the American delegation as at all weakening America's support of her associates. The Americans are leaving because the work of the conference has reached the stage where it can be finished without the maintenance of a large mission here, with the Bulgarian treaty out of the way and the Hugarian treaty all ready for submission to the Hungarian delegates as soon as they arrive.

A serious phase of the situation as viewed here is the evident progress of reactionary sentiment in Germany which the French fear will encourage resistance to execution of the terms of the treaty, particularly if American and British delegations leave Paris following the failure of the United States senate to ratify the treaty, creating the impression that the peace conference is a thing of the past and that the allied and associated powers are no longer in close cohesion.

ATTEMPT TO MAKE TREATY WITH HUNGARY.

Paris, December 1.—An attempt to make a peace treaty with Hungary through the new Huungarian government was decided upon by the supreme council today.

The council reached this decision after listening to the report of Sir George Clerk, the peace conference emissary who recently retprned from Budapest. It was resolved to ask the government of Premier Huszar to send to Neuilly, near Paris, as soon as possible, a Hungarian delegation empowered to negotiate peace.

CAPITOL GOSSIP

The office of Attorney General Cliff Walker was yesterday in receipt of checks aggregating $25,077.65 to cover the taxes for several years past of the defunct Georgia Coast and Piedmont railway which was sold under the hammer recently to a party of capitalists represented by H. H. Dean, of Gainesville. The above named sum is to be divided between the state and the counties, municipalities and school districts traversed by the road. The state's share of the fund is $6,778.89.

Copies of special instructions to tax collectors revised so as to cover the amendments to the general tax act enacted by the last general assembly were being mailed out to each county yesterday by the clerical force in the comptroller general's office. There will be some increases in 1920 in the license taxes for certain lines of business. The last tax act also exempts Spanish and world war veterans from the payment of peddlers' licenses as well as confederate veterans.

Governor Dorsey will go to Waycross on next Saturday in order to fill an engagement to deliver an address at an Elks' lodge of sorrow at that place. From there he will proceed to Savannah, where he will preside over the southern governors at their meetings held in connection with the southern commercial congress on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

State Tax Commissioner H. J. Fullbright yesterday mailed out invitations to the chairmen of each of the county boards of tax assessors in the 155 counties of the state to be present at the tax meeting to be held in the hall of the house of representatives on December 12. It is highly important that every county be represented at this meeting, which will discuss plans for the equalization of tax assessments between the counties for the coming year. Board chairmen are urged to delegate some other member to represent their counties in cases where they find it impossible to attend themselves.

No instructions as to 4 o'clock closing were received at the capitol yesterday, and most of the offices continued open until the usual hour of 5. Any steps towards changing the usual hours of work at the state house in conformity with movement to conserve coal would have to be taken by the governor, and he has not yet been asked to take any such action in the matter.

Secretary of State S. Guyt McLendon declared yesterday that applications for automobile licenses for this year were still being received by his office daily in considerable numbers. Licenses issued now are, of course, good until the end of December; although the charge is half of the annual license tax. Mr. McLendon attributes this continuous flow of applications for 1919 tags to the extraordinary demand for new cars, and to the sheriffs and ordinaries charged with the collection of the tax.

Since his induction into office Mr. McLendon has called these officials' attention to their duties in the premises monthly, and he says he has every reason to believe that these officials are doing everything in their power to enforce the law in their respective counties.

BOSTON MAYOR SAYS WEALTHY BACK RADICALS

Boston, December 1.—A conference was held today with the object of marshalling the forces of the army, navy, department of justice, state and city, to stamp out radicalism in this city. At the invitation of Mayor Peters, officials of the secret service and intelligence departments met in executive session in city hall to consider the situation and methods of meeting it.

The mayor said that Boston was a center of radicalism for New England, that wealthy citizens were supplying funds for the movement.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE WORK IS DISCUSSED

Dr. Howard H. Russell Makes Address to Evangelical Ministers.

The monthly meeting of the Atlanta Evangelical Ministers association, held Monday morning in the Wesley Memorial church, was addressed by Dr. Howard H. Russell, of Columbus, Ohio.

Dr. Russell was the founder of the Anti-Saloon league of America, and is now the assistant general superintendent of the league. He is very prominent in the civic and religious affairs of America, and is a noted speaker.

His visit to Atlanta marks the beginning of a campaign in Georgia for part of a fund of $25,000,000 to carry on the work of the league; $15,000,000 of this sum will be used in America for the purpose of helping to enforce the present bone-dry laws. The remaining $10,000,000 will be used in an effort to make the world "bone-dry" by 1930.

The quota for the state of Georgia in this drive for funds is $650,000, Dr. Charles O. Jones, state superintendent, confidently expects the state to easily raise the amount. The campaign in Georgia will be under the direction of E. Y. Clarke.

Cotton Badly Baled.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, December 1.—Carelessly baled raw cotton from the United States "arrives in France in an extremely bad condition almost invariably, the bales bursted open and the cotton yards deep in the holds of vessels," says the fortnightly information review of the American Chamber of Commerce in France.

THE HOOVER electric SUCTION SWEEPER

THE HOOVER is the only electric suction sweeper which beats as it sweeps, and this is a most definite advantage. Lifting the rug from the floor and dislodging the dust from the minute resting places afforded by the warp and woof, getting gently but firmly with the pile of the rug, it cleans as nothing else possibly can.

With a Hoover in the house you are free from the worries and the expense incident to the sending of rugs to dry cleaning establishments, for with a Hoover the work is accomplished better and without removing the rug from the floor and tearing up the house.

The Hoover uses little electricity, it is simple and staunchly constructed and there is a Hoover service station in the Arcade Building here, so that in case an adjustment or a slight repair be necessary, you can have it done without loss of time.

The Hoover will be demonstrated for you at any time, either on our third floor or in your home. A phone call or a card will bring a representative to you.

NEW CONFERENCE ON LABOR UNREST

Seventeen Men Named by President Wilson Meet in Washington—No Labor Man Named.

Washington, December 1.—Under the permanent chairmanship of Secretary of Labor Wilson, another attempt to harmonize relations between capital and labor was begun here today with the opening of the second industrial conference called by President Wilson. Herbert Hoover was elected permanent vice chairman and Stanley King, of Boston, temporary secretary, until an executive secretary, not a delegate, could be obtained.

Unlike its predecessor, the second conference began behind colsed doors after newspaper men present had been asked to leave. Speaking for the conference when the first meeting adjourned after more than three hours of discussion, Mr. King said that executive sessions would be continued "for the present" and that the question of opening the doors had not yet come before the delegates, several of whom are understood to favor the utmosts publicity on deliberations which may affect vitally the entire country.

Executive Sessions.

Secretary Wilson explained before he called the delegates to order that he believed executive sessions advisable to permit frank discussion while allowing the delegates to keep their minds open until a decision was reached. He declared their ideas should not be "chained" to first expressions of opinion before hearing what other delegates had to say.

In opening the confeernce, Mr. Wilson recited the geenral situation which required new deliberations by delegates, all of whom have been prominent in public life, and few of whom have been identfied with either side in industrial controversies of the past. All of the 17 members except George T. Slade, of St. Paul, who is in Europe, were present. The general fiel dof activities to be covered and the best methods of dealing with each subject were discussed without a decision beiny reached. The cost of living, collective bargaining and other problems of the day entered itno the talk.

None of the delegates would venture an opinion as to when he conference would finisl. ts task, though several commented that President Wilson had assigned them a very broad field.

Organized labor has expressed dissatisfaction with the personnel of the conference because of the fact that no labor men were named although, they claimed, every other interest was represented.

List of Conferees.

Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson.

Thomas W. Gregory, Austin, Texas former attorney general.

Frank Taussig, Washington, political economist, former college professor and chairman of the United States tariff commission.

Martin H. Glynn, Albany, N. Y., newspaper man and former governor of New York.

O. D. Young, New York lawyer.

FAIR AND WARMER FORECAST TODAY BY WEATHER MAN

"Fair and farmer" is the weather man's prediction for the weather for the next few days. The reported cold wave expected in Atlanta Sunday was little more than a cold snap, but cool enough to put a rosy complexion on a rougeless face.

While a temperature of below freezing was expected, according to a report from Washington, the lowest point the mercury touched was 36 degrees. Nowhere in Georgia did the thermometer register below freezing.

"It will be no colder within the next few days," stated the weather expert, "but, instead, fair and warmer weather will prevail."

DeKalb Court Convenes.

Decatur, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—DeKalb superior court convened Monday and arrangements were made to dispose of the criminal docket next week and the civil cases this week. Judge John B. Hutcheson is presiding and R. H. Tripple was made grand jury foreman and A. F. Bellingrath clerk.

PROBE CONTINUES INTO GRAFT CASES

Hints of Additional Arrests Given by Chief of Detectives—Every Clue Will Be Rigidly Investigated.

Hints of additional arrests as a result of the sweeping probe of possible graft conditions in the Atlanta police department, ordered by Chief of Police Beavers, following the arrests of John Daniel, Jr., and James L. Key, on charges of having accepted "hush money" from bootleggers, were made Monday by Lamar Poole, head of the detective department, who is supervising the work of investigation.

"I don't know where the bolt will strike next," said Chief Poole, "but sensational developments are probable. Crookedness cannot exist in the department, and every means at our disposal will be used in this probe.

"The arrests of Daniel and Key may be the last," continued the chief. "And they will be, unless we find some sort of evidence that graft is being resorted to by certain members of the department. But all who have been extorting money from victims they have placed under arrest will be known when the investigation is completed, and they will be brought to the bar of justice."

Chief Poole's statement followed a conference with Daniel, who has confessed his part in the affair, and implicated Key as the leading worker in the alleged extortion game. At this meeting, at which several of the witnesses who will appear at the trial of the officers were present, Daniel reiterated his confession of Saturday, and his statement was corroborated by the witnesses.

Key still maintains that he is innocent of the charges made by Daniel in his confession. "It's all a frame-up, and they're using me as the 'goat,'" he said.

Daniel talked freely of the incident. "I have nothing to hide," he stated. "I simply did something I regretted from the minute the act was committed; I didn't try to deny it when Chief Beavers asked for an explanation, and I told the whole truth. I couldn't lie about it; I wanted the whole thing through, and regardless of the punishment I will always have the satisfaction of knowing that I told the truth."

PROFIT OF $11,000,000 FOR ROADS IN OCTOBER

Washington, December 1.—Railroads, under federal control, made a net profit of $11,000,000 in October, although estimated figures showed only $2,000,009, the railorad administration announced today in a preliminary report.

This $9,000,000 discrepancy, the administration explained, was due to the reinstatement of per diem charges on freight cars and the coal strike, which caused coal traffic to be held in transit, and earnings from these sources will be included in the November totals.

The net operating income for the month was about $86,000,000, but due to the causes mentioned in the report, the income amounted to only $77,000,000. Operating expenses were abnormally large because of the extraordinary shifting of open-top equipment in order to furnish the maximum number of coal cars and to large expenditures for mantenance of equipment which was in need of repair on account of the strikes of shopmen.

For the ten months of this year the railroads have shown a net loss of $269,768,158, but since July net gains have been reported.

Both freight and passenger traffic showed an increase over October, 1918.

TOLEDO CAR MUDDLE IN FEDERAL COURT

Toledo, Ohio, December 1.—Mayor Schreiber engaged in a verbal war with attorneys for the Toledo Railways and Light company in United States district court here today, and when he had presented his argument as to why the company should accede to his demands in the controversy announced to the court, "I hereby withdraw my application for the return of street cars."

The court then ruled that the withdrawal of the mayor, who is responsible for the suspension of street car service here more than three weeks ago, through an ouster ordinance he drew up and submitted to the voters on November 4, would not be permitted.

The incident resulted at the close of the reading of a proposed amendment to the ouster ordinance which the company wishes to submit for referendum. It would include statement of definite street car fares of 7 cents and 3 cents additional to be placed into a special fund to provide, among other things, for paying company employees for the time they had lost and to take care of extraordinary damage suits that might result from the company's operating after the ouster ordinance was passed.

Hair Tonic May Lose Popularity As a Beverage

Under Prohibition Law, Dealers in Barbers' Supplies Must Make Bay Rum Unfit for Use for Cocktails.

By J. H. Benton.
(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, December 1.—Assurances of 100 per cent co-operation in the enforcement of the prohibition laws were given by representatives of the barbers' supplies and perfumes' trade organizations at a hearing before Prohibition Commissioner John F. Kramer and officials of the bureau of internal revenue today to discuss ways and means for rendering certain alcoholic preperations now on the market undrinkable. After January 16, the date the national prohibition act becomes effective, such preparations cannot be legally manufactured or sold if fit for beverage purposes.

Commissioner Kramer said it was not the purpose of the bureau to destroy or cripple any legitimate industry, but to render aid wherever opssible to those manufacturers whose intent is to obey the law. To this end he urged that it be impressed upon each member of the trade organizations his duty in this respect.

Dr. A. B. Adams, chief chemist of the bureau of internal revenue, declared there are on the market many hair tonics whose principal ingredient is alcohol, and that they are hair tonics in name only. Such preparations, he said, must be modified to conform to the law. The bureau, he said, has under consideration a requirement, that in the manufacture and sale of bay rum there be added a quarter of a grain of tartar emetic fo reach fluid ounce.

W. L. Crounse, representing the Manufacturing Perfumes' association and the National Wholesale Druggists' association, urged that in framing regulations governing the manufacture and sale of non-beverage alcoholic preparations, reasonable provision be made for the sale of stock now on hand.

A further conference between representatives of the barbers' supplies and perfumes' trade organizations will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. A hearing on alcoholic medical compounds will be held Wednesday and on flavoring extracts on Friday.

FALSE AFFIAVIT LAID TO DELAVAN SMITH

Indianapolis, Ind., December 1.—Delavan Smith of The Indianapolis News, when arraigned before Judge Anderson in federal court here today on an indictment charging him with making false affidavit to defraud the government, filed a demurrer to the indictment.

Mr. Smith, it is alleged, made affidavit he was sole owner of The Indianapolis News. When the will of the late Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, was probated, however, it was brought out Mr. Fairbanks had a three-fourths interest in the newspaper and the government action followed.

500,000 POPULATION FOR ATLANTA PLANNED

Important Meeting of Industrial Promotion Committee Today.

Atlanta a city of 500,000 population by 1930, will be discussed by the subcommittee of the committee on industrial promotion of the chamber of commerce, which will meet at noon today at the chamber of commerce.

James L. Logan, chairman of the committee, said Monday night that "it will be the test of our brains to conceive the plan and our energy to push it to a successful conclusion." He asks that each member of the committee come with a plan, and the best features of these will be included in a report to the general committee.

It is expected that there will be a full meeting of the subcommittee today, and a movement will be launched to place Atlanta in position to reach out and secure the location of hundreds of new enterprises.

Baldwin Will Appeal To Courts to Block License Revocation

"This is not the last move in the case," said W. H. Baldwin last night, after council had voted to revoke his taxi license. "The revoking order was 'railroaded' through, and I don't propose to let it be final.

"An injunction against the city will be filed Tuesday morning," he continued. "And the case is going to the supreme court before I'll ever be convinced that the Baldwin Taxicab company is going out of business.

"My cars will be running until the supreme court tells me to sell out. They have never given me an opportunity to have my side of the case presented in an unbiased manner, and I won't admit defeat until the courts have acted."

GOVERNOR KILBY BACK TO ALABAMA CAPITAL

Anniston, Ala., December 1.—(Special.)—Governor Thomas E. Kilby, who has been in Anniston since Thanksgiving day, returned to Montgomery this morning. The governor spent the time quietly at his home here, devoting a part of his brief vacation to conference with his business associates here. Before leaving for Montgomery, Governor Kilby said that "every department of the state government is now moving forward smoothly and end efficiently with the exception of the public service commission."

SAVANNAH HOSPITAL MAY BE GIVEN MONEY

Washington, December 1.—Government estimates for the fiscal year 1921 submitted to congress for appropriations, call for $178,000 for additional buildings and remodeling the present building of the Savannah marine hospital, and $125,000 for the Cape Fear, N. C., quarantine station.

W. H. Darden Recovers His Discharge Papers By Constitution Story

Through a paragraph published in The Constitution a few days ago, the discharge papers of White H. Darden, lost by him in Balimore, have been returned to him.

A letter from a Baltimore newspaper informed The Constitution that the papers had been found, but that they were not able to locate him. As the papers bore the address of Darden as Atlanta, the matter was referred to The Constitution.

Soon after publication of the information that the papers had been found, Darden communicated with the newspaper in Baltimre, with the result that they were mailed to him.

PLANS FOR REOPENING OF BANK CONSIDERED

Fairburn Institution Stockholders Will Meet Again Today.

Plans for the reopening of the Fairburn Banking company were discussed at a lengthy session of the directors and stockholders of the institution in Fairburn Monday.

No intimation was given out regarding decisions reached by the officials of the bank, but it is believed that some means of rehabilitating the company will be devised at the meeting.

The session adjourned late Monday afternoon to meet again at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, when important announcements concerning the bank's future are expected to be made.

Surgeon General Blue Asks for Appropriation To Treat War Veterans

Washington, December 1.—A deficiency appropriation of $6,000,000 to be used by the public health service for treatment of war risk insurance patients was asked of congress today by Surgeon General Blue, who reported that the $4,000,000 granted for the year ending next July would be insufficient.

SHIP BOARD BUILDING BIG ARMY TRANSPORTS

Washington, December 1.—The shipping board is building twelve 7,500-ton vessels for the army transport service, Chairman Payne announced today. In return, the war department waives all claim to former German vessels as they are turned over to the board by the transport service, instead of retaining a right to operate a number of its former transports when it so desired.

MARINE CORPS PLANS BIG AVIATION PROGRAM

Commandant Makes Annual Report to Secretary of Navy.

By J. A. Holloman.

Washington, December 1.—Three marine flying fields in this country and flying detachments for the marine forces in Haiti and Santo Domingo are the active aviation program of the marine corps, according to the annual report of the corps' commandant, just made to the secretary of the navy.

The detachments with our island forces have been in operation during the past year, while construction and improvements in the three flying fields are nearly completed. The fields from which marine aviation operations will be conducted are the Dutch Flats barracks, at San Diego, Cal.; Paris Island barracks, S. C. and Quantico, Va.

Operations In Haiti.

In Haiti and Santo Domingo the flying equadrons are making a reputation for themselves in co-operating with the United States forces on duty there. One squadron, consisting of seven water planes and six land planes, is operating with the expeditionary brigade in Haiti, and one flight of six land planes is operating with the expeditionary brigade in Santo Domingo. These two organizations have proved of great help in breaking up the guerilla warfare being conducted by natives in both those islands, and the commanding officers in charge of the marine brigades at both stations are enthusiastic about them.

Among their duties are offensive operations with machine guns and bombs against these guerilla bands, photographing various operations of the enemy and photographic map-making; contact patrol and co-operation with ground troops; quick transmission of messages, papers and officers as well as keeping up a regular mail service between various uits.

In addition to their military operations, the flying units are conducting contour and coast line photographic operations at the request of and in co-operation with the interior department. In this manner they are affording the government here information that would take several years of surveying to secure by ordinary land methods.

Commandant Pays Tribute.

The authorized strength of the marine corps aviation section is 100 officers and 1,020 enlisted men. The pilots are selected from eligible officers of the corps, and the mechanics are especially trained in the navy mechanics school, at Great Lakes, Ill. The marine corps also has a small lighter-than-air dirigible like the British Blimps under construction.

In speaking of training of marines for the war, the commandant paid a high tribute to the officers and men who did training work on this side during the war.

"I think I can safely say that never before in the history of the corps have better drilled or more generally efficient men been turned over ready for duty upon the completion of their recruit training, and to this factor is, I believe, largely due the splendid record made by the marines during the war," he said in his annual report. "Accordingly, I cannot give too much praise to the officers and enlisted men who were engaged in the training of our recruits."

SERBIANS IN A CLASH WITH THE HUNGARIANS

Belgrade, December 1.—A frontier clash between Serbians and a Hungarian detachment is announced in a dispatch received from the vicinity of Prekomury. A Hungarian force comprising civilians, it is stated, attacked frontier posts on Saturday and raided the township of Lenova. The garrison of Lenova offered resistance and inflicted losses upon the Hungarians, who were forced to retire over the line of demarcation. The Serbian casualties are declared to have been slight.

A Special Event for Their Majesties
THE BABIES

What is Christmas for any how? Of course, it is a time when expressions and feelings of good will should and do prevail, but isn't it really a time when a good excuse is offered to make a BABY happy? Your own, or if you haven't one, some one else's child. Well, on Tuesday and Wednesday, on the Main Floor, Center Aisle Tables, we will assemble some of the cutest things for the BABY and for growing children, too, you ever saw.

There'll be rattles and teething rings, teething beads, too; clamps and straps and little hangers for their clothes; Baby records which please mothers. Pink and Blue Leather Straps, Comb and Brush sets, Commode seats, Hot Water bags, Safety Pin holders and Bootees, hand-crocheted and hand-knit Wool Bootees, edged with pink and blue. And the prices asked for this fresh, dainty new assortment of things for the baby are surprisingly low.

Rattles	25c to 89c	Commode Seats	$1.50
Clamps	85c to $1.50	Hot Water Bags	$1.25 to $1.95
Straps	$1.50 to $3.50	Teething Rings	35c to $2.00
Hangers	75c to $1.50	Teething Beads	35c to 75c
Baby Records	65c to $7.50	Safety Pin Holders	65c to 85c
Pink and Blue Leather Straps	$1.50	Bootees	50c to $2.00
Comb and Brush Sets	50c to $7.50	Dolls	75c to $1.25
		Ducky Doo	$2.50

The Dolly is dressed, perhaps for the party, then maybe the little mother has ideas of her own about styles, so we have some undressed, too. And the Ducky Doo is the cunningest sort of a thing to keep the baby quiet. He can rock as hard as he pleases and he won't fall over. But you come in and see for yourself. You will enjoy every minute of the visit and reduce your Christmas list.

Announcement by the Trustees of Shorter College

The Trustees of Shorter College, Rome, Ga., in order that the Baptists of Georgia may be informed regarding the position that the college occupies in relation to the Baptist Seventy-Five Million Campaign, take this method of acquainting the Baptists of the state with the following resolution passed by the Georgia Baptist convention at its recent session in Macon:

"Resolved, that the Convention direct those in charge of the Seventy-Five Million Campaign, to credit upon the Church and Association quotas, all gifts and donations designated for the use and benefit of Shorter College."

If, therefore, those Baptists wishing to contribute to Shorter, desire to make their donations effective, such donations must be designated for the college, either upon pledge cards, checks, or to their church treasurer or to the Mission Board.

Signed, BOARD OF TRUSTEES, SHORTER COLLEGE.

SHOTS AT WOOD BY POINDEXTER

United States Senator Rents Theater to Attack General, Who Will Be Indorsed by South Dakota G. O. P.—Democrats for Wilson.

Pierre, S. D., December 1.—At the close of a day of conferences and political activities in connection with the presidential preference convention here tomorrow, Senator Miles Poindexter, of Washington, a republican candidate, rented a theater, and addressed a mass meeting in furtherance of his candidacy.

Earlier he had charged that four men controlled South Dakota republican politics and were "running things to suit themselves." This brought a declaration from Governor Norbeck that he favored the candidacy of Major General Leonard Wood.

The conventions to indorse party nominees for president will be held tomorrow, and, incidentally, candidates for state offices, in addition to expressing preferences for federal offices.

At the outset of his address Senator Poindexter declared that leading South Dakota republicans told him "it was useless" for him to attempt to bring his candidacy before the republican convention because the delegates were overwhelmingly in favor of Wood. The law declares that candidates indorsed for office by proposal conventions should discuss issues involved with any other candidate or candidates who seek the office as independents, an in this connection Senator Poindexter suggested that as General Wood is considered certain of indorsement tomorrow he was ready to return to South Dakota to discuss presidential issues with the major general, "should Wood become an avowed candidate for president.

Some Questions for Wood.

He said he would submit to Wood these questions:

"Did you approve or support the gerat principles of government for which Roosevelt stood?

"Did you vote for his election, or advocate his policies, either privately or publicly?

"What is your policy as to fulfilling our international obligations and protecting the lawful rights of American citizens in Mexico?

"Are you in favor of an immediate declaration of peace with Germany?

"Are you for or against the American union with Europe under the league of nations?

"What means do you propose, if any, for protecting essential industries, such as coal mining and transportation from bolsheviki interferences?

"You are reported to have said 'I thoroughly approve our country's reception of various devastated areas in Europe for the purpose of reconstruction.' Would you accept a mandate for Turkey or Armenia?

"It is estimated 250,000 troops would be required for this work. If sufficient troops did not volunteer, would you raise them by conscription to police Turkey?"

Democrats for Wilson.

Democratic leaders announced that their state convention tomorrow will indorse President Wilson for a third term if he is willing to be a candidate. Some of the democratic delegates pointed out this will leave the delegates free to make a further indorsement if necessary at the March primaries.

E. H. ALSOP DENIES PUBLISHED REPORT OF SALE OF HOME

E. H. Alsop, former Atlantan who is now a resident of Washington, D. C., on his return to the city yesterday on a business trip, denied the published report that his home on Pace's Ferry road had been sold to W. D. Manley. Mr. Alsop states that his residence, which is one of the most beautiful of Atlanta's country places, is still for sale and that his visit here is largely for the purpose of arranging the details of putting it on the market.

Large Financial Interests Backing Goldwyn Pictures

A new combine involving many millions of dollars and effecting the Goldwyn Pictures corporation and a powerful group of American financial magnates was officially announced yesterday by Arthur Lucas, district representative for Goldwyn.

This group, headed by H. F. Dupont and Eugene E. Dupont, of the Dupont Powder company, includes the following names: W. W. Laird, of Laird & Co., of Wilmington; R. R. M. Carpenter, vice president of the Dupont Powder company; C. C. Kurtz, vice president of the Wilmington Trust company; E. V. R. Thayer, president of the Chase National bank; Duncan A. Holmes, vice president of the Chase Securities corporation; William Topkis; George T. Bissell; G. W. Davidson, vice president of the Central Union Trust company; Macmillan Hoopes; Abbot M. Wittenberg, of H. Content & Co.

This merger is regarded in theatrical circles as one of the most far-reaching in the history of the amusement world.

Two Immense Deals.

The latest announcement following closely upon the recent affiliation of Goldwyn with the Shubert-Woods-Selwyn theatrical enterprises marks an epoch in motion picture industry. Just as the former amalgamation reserved, for Goldwyn, exclusive rights to many modern stage successes, so this later combine offers Goldwyn unlimited financial resources.

The most extensive newspaper advertising campaign ever attempted by a motion picture concern is now being conducted by the Goldwyn advertising department. This is a highly effective method of gratis advertising for all motion picture exhibitors, and a means for acquainting the ever-increasing motion picture public with the qualities of Goldwyn pictures. This newspaper campaign will be carried on permanently, and will be augmented by advertising in magazines, on billboards and with novelties.

In addition to its storehouse of dramatic successes Goldwyn possesses exclusive rights to the present and future works of the Eminent Authors' corporation, formed a few months ago by Mr. Goldwyn and Rex Beach, and including such noted names as Rupert Hughes, Leroy Scott, Mary Roberts Rhinehart, Basil King, Governeur Morris, Gertrude Atherton and Octavus Roy Cohen. Stories of these authors are now being produced under their personal supervision at the Culver City studios in California. New studios are now being erected in the east.

Presented by Goldwyn.

These future Goldwyn masterpieces will be presented to the motion picture public through the medium of the Goldwyn Distributing corporation.

The Goldwyn Pictures corporation has under contract for a period of years the following famous film stars: Geraldine Farrar, Mabel Normand, Tom Moore, Will Rogers, Madge Kennedy, Pauline Frederick and Jack Pickford.

It is interesting to gauge the advance of the cinema art by the brief but meteoric history of Goldwyn, where the combined qualities of story, production, acting, photography and mechanical and artistic details have resulted in pictures of wide appeal.

Merchants Are Warned Against Inflammable Holiday Decorations

The fire-prevention committee of Atlanta, composed of E. A. Erwin, Chris Rauchenberg and Martime Harmsen, well-known Atlanta fire insurance men, has issued a warning to the merchants of Atlanta against the use of inflammable holiday decorations in their display windows and in the interior of stores. The committee called particular attention to the use of inflammables and open-flame lights in displays.

The committee stresses the fact that the tissue and crepe paper festoons and decorations often used to represent snow are very inflammable.

COLORED CHURCHES RAISE LARGE SUMS IN VIGOROUS DRIVES

Many of the colored churches of Atlanta held big financial drives Sunday for raising funds to make improvements, paying off various debts, and for more progressive programs.

Friendship Baptist church, corner raised $5,151 in a campaign to pay raised $.151 in a campaign to pay off indebtedness. Dr. E. R. Carter, pastor of the church for more than 37 years, is recognized as one of the ablest colored ministers in the south.

More than $1,700 was raised at the Reed Street Baptist church Sunday night for the completion of the main auditorium of the new rock church that is now in process of erection on the corner of Fraser and Crumley streets. Dr. E. P. Johnson is pastor of this church. He holds several responsible positions in the state convention and of the denomination in Atlanta.

Rev. A. D. Williams, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church, corner of Auburn avenue and Jackson streets, announces that his church went over the top Sunday in its big effort to raise funds. A total of $5,135 was raised for the financing of the new church.

Dr. Willaims is rounding out his twenty-sixth year as pastor of his church. During his pastorate the membership has greatly increased each year.

NO LOTTERY BONDS FOR GREAT BRITAIN

London, December 1.—The proposal to issue premium bonds was defeated, 276 to 84, in the house of commons today. Horatio W. Bottemloy, independent for South Hackney, argued that such a measure was necessitated owing to the existence of £2,000,000,000 floating debt, which might cause a run on the Bank of England should labor unrest revive and bolshevism spread.

NO INTEREST COMING ON THE RUSSIAN LOAN

New York, December 1.—The National City bank announced today semi-annual interest due today on the imperial Russian government five year 5½ per cent external loan will not be paid. Default on this issue follows suspension of interest on the 6½ per cent imperial Russian bonds announced several months ago. The total issue of the 5½ per cent loan amounted to about $25,000,000.

Eiseman Represents Southeastern Retail Clothiers at Meeting

M. D. Eisemanfi president of the Geoorgia Retail Clothie's' and Furnishers' association, has been appointed as one of a special committee to represent the retail colthiers of the United States, which will confer with H. A. Figg, assistant United States attorney representing the attorney general's office, and also with the officials of the department of justice at Washington.

MORRIS EISEMAN.

This committee, in which Mr. Eisema represents the southeastern states, are endeavoring to go into the question of price fixing with the Washington officials, so that the working out of the law will be done in such a fair and impartial way that there will be no hardship worked on any of the retail clothing merchants through its enforcement.

Mr. Eiseman received a telegramm Monday morning calling him to Washington, and leaves for the capital this morning.

The delegation representing the National Association of Retail Clothiers will also have with their committee representatives of the National Dry Goods association, also the National Shoe Retailers' association.

It is believed that this conference with the department of justice officials will result in some practical plans for the operation of the law which will insure the necessary safeguards for legitimate business.

Rules for Sending Xmas Gifts Abroad Announced Monday

Regulations governing the shipment of all Christmas parcels and packages to troops serving overseas for the information and guidance of all concerned have just been given out at the local Red Cross offices. They are as folows:

1. For shipment to members of American forces in England, France or Germany:

(a) If Christmas parcels are sent by parcel post, they must conform to the postal regulations, and in addition packages containing candy and tobacco must be inclosed in tins or light wooden boxes.

(c) Mail and express matter should be addressed as now prescribed by postal regulations, that is, plainly marked with name, rank and organization of the person to whom consigned, and both classes of shipment should be marked, "Christmas Box," and should be sent care of the Commanding General, Port of Embarkation, Hoboken, N. J.

(d) Packages should arrive at the port of embarkation, Hoboken, N. J., not later than December 8, 1919.

BOUND OVER, CHARGED WITH HUGGING GIRL

E. C. Rowls, 18 years old, a street car conductor, living at 58 Walton street, was bound over to the city court in $100 bond by Recorder Johnson at police court Monday morning.

Rowls was arrested Sunday by Police Captain A. J. Holcombe and Call Officers Fain and Anderson following the complaint of a 15-year-old girl, Miss Helen McConnell, of 180 West North avenue, who charged that Rowls hugged her while she was a passenger on his car on Georgia avenue Sunday morning.

Rowls told the recorder that the girl was the only passenger on his car, and that she appeared to be lost. He asked her where she wished to get off, and she said she was uncertain of her destination. He stated his only action was in placing his hand on the back of the seat as he leaned over to talk to her.

REV. WILLIAM DUNBAR ANSWERS FINAL CALL

Lawrenceville, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Rev. William Dunbar died at the parsonage of the Methodist church of this city, provides for superannuate ministers, last night. He was sent to this charge in 1917 and continued until June 14, 1918, at which time he was stricken with paralysis, which finally resulted in his death. He had been confined to his bed for several months.

Rev. Dunbar was a minister of great ability and was very popular. He had filled many important charges in the state and was in demand as a minister.

Isbell, Jefferson; Miss Caroline Dunbar, Atlanta; Miss Vagina Dunbar, of this city; Mrs. A. B. McNeese, Macon, and Mr. Charles Dunbar, Macon. Rev. Dunbar was a prominent Mason and Shriner.

The funeral will be held at Lawrenceville Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. H. Eakes, assisted by Rev. C. C. Cary, both of Atlanta. The body will then be carried through the country to West View cemetery for interment.

C. C. Cater Is Dead.

C. C. Cater, aged 63, one of the leading colored men of Atlanta, died at his residence, 32 North Jackson street, yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, after a week's illness from pneumonia. He had been a resident of Atlanta for 50 years, and was prominently connected in all matters of progress in his race. He was treasurer of the Carrie Steele Orphanage, president of the board of management of the colored Y. M. C. A., cashier of the Atlanta State Savings bank, member of a number of fraternal organizations and deacon of the First Congregational church. He was also connected with a number of business organizations, having by his thrift accumulated a snug fortune. He is survived by his widow and five children, all of whom were at his bedside when he passed away. The funeral services will occur at the First Congregational church. The exact time of the funeral will be named later.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. MORRIS HELD ON MONDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. G. W. Morris, former Atlanta woman, who died Saturday afternoon at her home near Hapeville, were held Monday morning at 11 o'clock at Jones chapel. The Rev. W. J. DeBardeleban, pastor of Payne Memorial church, in Atlanta, assisted by the Rev. J. M. Radford, pastor of Jones chapel, officiated. Interment was in the churchyard.

Mrs. Morris was the daughter of the late Rev. J. F. Tillman, of Atlanta. She is survived by two sons, Charles D. and R. E. Morris, three brothers, Charlie D. Tillman, the noted gospel hymn writer, and J. T. Tillman, both of Atlanta, and D. E. Tillman, of Birmingham, Ala., and one grandson, Charles Morris, of Atlanta.

WILLIAMS IS SLAIN BY MAYRON JARRELL

Camilla, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Mayron Jerrell shot and killed Pate Williams at Sale City early Sunday afternoon after, it is alleged, Williams had struck Jerrell over the head with a walking cane. The origin of the trouble between the two is unknown.

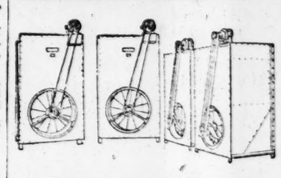

Jerrell shot five times, three of the shots taking effect in Williams' body. Jerrell was placed in jail at this city by Sheriff Crow awaiting investigation of the case. Both are well-known in this section.

ATLANTA GAS LIGHT CO.

HEAT

1. Between the hours of 7 a. m. and 4 p. m. only enough heat (obtained from coal, gas or steam) may be used in offices, stores, warehouses, manufacturing plants as to keep the average temperature at 70 degrees F. This temperature may be maintained in theaters, moving picture houses and other places of public amusement between the hours of 1 p. m. and 10:30 p. m.

Exception: On Saturdays the temperature may be maintained at 70 degrees between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m., in case of stores handling food and wearing apparel.

2. After closing hours on Saturdays and after 4 p. m. on the remaining week days and on Sundays, only enough heat is to be used to prevent freezing of water pipes or sprinkler systems. Where exceptions are made in certain classes for lighting, heat will be allowed during allowable lighting period.

3. In manufacturing plants or plants coming under power curtailment rules, heat (to 70 degrees) will be allowed only during that time for use of power.

4. No curtailment on use of coal, steam or gas for producing hot water for hotels, restaurants or barber shops.

POWER

1. No manufacturing plant or factory shall operate in excess of forty-eight hours per week.

Exception: (a) Dairies, ice and refrigerator plants, bakeries, plants for the manufacture of necessary medicinal products, waterworks, sewerage plants, gas manufacturing plants, plants operating continuous processes (such as acid manufacture, blast furnaces, etc.), printing plants for the printing of newspapers, periodicals, battery charging outfits and plants producing light or power for telephone, telegraph or public utility companies are exempted.

2. Elevator service must be curtailed as much as possible.

General exception to light, heat and power provisions—necessary operation of federal, state, municipal and county institutions and buildings.

LIGHT

1. No ornamental lights, white way or other unnecessary street lights, outline lighting, electric signs or illuminated billboards are to be operated. This does not affect street lighting necessary for the safety of the public.

2. Stores, manufacturing plants and warehouses must not use electric or gas lights (except safety lights) except between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m.

Exception: (a) Drug stores, for the sale of drugs only, and restaurants, may remain open according to present schedule, but must curtail number of lights 50 per cent.

Exception: (b) Railroad stations, hotels, hospitals, telephone, telegraph and newspaper offices are not included in so far as necessary lighting is concerned.

Exception: (c) Lights may be used in offices of manufacturing plants for necessary accounting purposes at any time.

Exception: (d) General and office lights must be cut off at 4 p. m. in office buildings except where office operation of vital industries is involved.

Exception: (e) Moving picture houses and theaters and other public places of amusement may burn lights only between 1 p. m. and 10:30 p. m.

Exception: (f) Barber shops may remain open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Exception: (g) Dairies, ice and refrigerator plants, bakeries, plants for the manufacture of necessary medicinal products, waterworks, sewerage plants, gas manufacturing plants, plants operating continuous processes (such as acid manufacture, blast furnaces, etc.), printing plants for the printing of newspapers, periodicals, battery charging outfits and plants producing light or power for telephone, telegraph or public utility companies are exempted.

Exception: (h) On Saturday nights, time of closing mentioned under paragraph 2 will be extended until 9 p. m. for stores selling food and wearing apparel.

PALMER WARNS AMERICAN PEOPLE

Not to Be Stampeded by Threats Into Making Coal Concessions That Will Insure Unreasonable Prices.

Washington, December 1.—Attorney General Palmer called upon the American people tonight "to refuse to be stampeded by threats of lack of coal into concessions which will insure unreasonably high prices in all commodities for at least three years to come."

A statement of the government's attitude was made by the attorney general in a telegram to the chamber of commerce at Moberly, Mo., from which had come a request that another conference of operators and miners be called.

Mr. Palmer opposed further conferences, saying the wage increase proposed by Dr. Garfield equalized the average miner's wages with the present high cost of living without increasing the price of coal. This, he said, was fair to the miners and protected the public.

"The cost of living is now at the high point, "Mr. Palmer said. "To grant the demands of the miners would make the cost of living still higher. The new wage would run up three winters and therefore, would maintain a higher cost of living for substantially three years. Such a situation cannot be tolerated.

To Investigate Situation.

"In addition to this, Dr. Garfield suggested a consultative body to investigate more completely the whole situation, to be composed of representatives in equal number of the miners and operators, and to be presided over by the secretary of the interior. Such a body would investigate, among other things, the profits of the operators. If these should be found to be unreasonably high, the public should receive the benefit in a decreased price of coal, after the miners have had their wages finally adjusted on fair basis. I understand this plan is acceptable to the operators. If the miners return to work and agree to this plan, a way would be immediately open for permanent settlement.

"In the meantime, however, the operators have posted the advance in wages proposed by Dr. Garfield, so that working miners will immediately receive the benefit of this increase. The production of coal now closely approximates 50 per cer cent of normal and I have confidence that a sufficient number of miners will comply with the wishes of their government and respond to the needs of the people to increase this production in the near future to a point which will supply the demand if economy and conservation in industry are employed.

Would Delay Production.

"Any other plan to reopen negotiations for a new wage scale between the miners and operators would be futile and would delay rather than advance production. As long as the leaders of the miners' organizations believe that their unlawful strike will force the public into a condition of suffering and loss which will compel further increases of wages, continued conference on the subject will only result in influencing miners not to return to work.

"The situation calls for the steadfast support by the public of the government's position as announced by Dr. Garfield. The public should refuse to be stampeded by threats of lack of fuel into concessions which will insure unreasonably high prices in all commodities for at least three years to come."

ALL COAL PLACED UNDER WAR RULES

quested the railroad administration in the distribution of coal now or hereafter in its possession to limit distribution to these essential and urgent uses. As far as practicable until the conditions warrant a change, the distribution of coal will be limited to the first five classes of the property list.

"Retail dealers who distribute coal for household requirements, heating, hotels, buildings, hospitals, etc., should take every precaution to see that coal is only delivered where it is absolutely required and then only in such limited quantities that the supply may be distributed widely and prevent suffering.

"The state and other local authorities can materially aid in inspecting and supervising such distribution by retail dealers and the United States government will be glad to leave the supervision and control of such distribution by retail dealers entirely to any state, county or municipality which may make provision therefor. The distribution to the retail dealers must necessarily be administered by the railroad administration in pursuance of the orders already made by the United States fuel administration in carrying out the priorities which have been prescribed under the Lever act."

Hope Miners May Return.

Officials were hopeful that the advance of 14 per cent in the mine workers' wages would result in getting some of the men back to work, especially in view of the fact that coal operators generally were backing up the offer. But at the same time it was said that a period of several days would be required before the effect of this could be determined. Members of a mine operators' committee were in Washington watching the situation and preparing for a general session Wednesday, when details of application of the 14 per cent increase will be arranged, but had no reports of work resumption.

REGION BOARDS TAKE OVER COAL IN MANY STATES

Chicago, December 1.—Further stringent regulations for conservation of fuel supplies, made necessary by the strike of bituminous coal miners were in effect today over virtually the entire country between Ohio and the Rocky Mountains and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Regional fuel committees took control of coal stocks in many states and non-essential industries continued to close down because of lack of fuel while the hours for operating stores, theaters and office buildings were curtailed.

In Kansas City, Mo., and Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., all schools were closed today, and officials of many other cities discussed the advisability of closing the schools until the fuel shortage is relieved.

Reports today from the large bituminous fields of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania gave no assurance that the union miners intended to accept the offer of an increase of 14 per cent in wages made by the federal fuel administration. Neither was there any indication local settlements would be effected between miners and operators.

In West Virginia union officials asserted most of organized mines in District No. 17, which includes the Kanawha fields, would be idle today. The operators, however, claimed the output in the New River district would be increased during the week.

Governors of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Tennessee, and a representative of the governor of Kansas, who met here yesterday in response to a call issued by Governor Gardner, of Missouri, to discuss means for ending the threatened coal famine, recommended to the federal government that a fuel administrator be appointed in each state to have full charge of distribution of all coal available for his state. It was also recommended that all coal mined and in stock be distributed equitably among the 48 states on the basis of their needs developed during the war regardless of the state where mined.

The governors left for their homes today after agreeing to meet again at St. Louis next Sunday. Miles C. Riley, secretary of the conference, was directed to go to Washington to lay the situation before the federal authorities.

The calling off early today of the strike of railway switchmen, which began at Kansas City Saturday, it was stated, would greatly relieve the situation confronting that city and some other parts of the southwest because of the fuel famine.

Plans for operating the coal mines of Kansas under a receivership of the state supreme court went forward today and Governor Allen announces actual digging by volunteers will begin tomorrow. Twelve hundred Kansas national guardsmen and 600 federal troops were in the Pittsburg mining district today, and it was announced all volunteer workers would be protected.

In Chicago T. W. Proctor, chairman of the regional coal committee, told the 280 coal dealers of the city they did not own a pound of coal, as he had control and would distribute it.

"None of you own a pound of coal," said Mr. Proctor. "Non-essentials will be crippled, manufacturing will be stopped, commerce will be slowed down, and luxuries—if not certain conveniences—of trave will be eliminated."

VOLUNTEERS WORK IN KANSAS MINES.

Pittsburg, Kan., December 1.—Production of coal in the strip pits of the Pittsburg field by volunteer workers under the state receivership plan began today and before dark operations were in full swing in four pits, with three others ready for work by morning. Cars were placed for loading and tomorrow will see the first coal mined by the state on its way to western Kansas, where Govegnor Allen directed the first shipment be sent.

The strip pit mines in the northern and southern districts of Crawford county were under military control tonight. Colonel Perry M. Hoisington, fourth Kansas infantry, was in charge. Companies of state guards had been distributed at the various pits for the protection of workers, while the federal troops remained in camp here.

A large proportion of the volunteer workers wore army uniforms and on the shoulders of many were the insignia of the divisions with which they had served overseas. They were dressed for work. Heavy boots and hobnailed shoes worn in France again were doing service. Crowds of miners gathered to see the incoming volunteers and expressed surprise at the size and evident strength of the men.

Topeka, Kan., December 1.—Governor Henry J. Allen left here tonight for Pittsburg where he expects to confer tomorrow with the state receivers, military and civil authorities, regarding the situation in the coal fields and the mining operations. It was understood he will be in the district two days.

Five hundred additional volunteer coal diggers tonight were sent to the Pittsburg coal district to work in the strip Pittsburg operated by the state, it was announced. That brings the total number of volunteers already sent to the mines to approximately 900.

SECOND MONTH OF COAL STRIKE.

Indianapolis, Ind., December 1.—The strike of bituminous coal miners entered its second month today with all parties to the controversy apparently waiting some move on the part of the others. At headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America here no action looking toward acceptance of the government's plan for resumption of operation of the mines had been taken. John L. Lewis, acting president of the organization, was at his home in Springfield, Ill., and it could not be learned when he expected to come to Indianapolis. William Green, secretary treasurer, is expected here tomorrow.

Operators in the Indiana fields had posted notice of a 14 per cent increase in miners' wages, but no response to the offer was reported today.

Government officials charged with enforcement of the strike or interference with production completed arrangements today for securing reports of violation of the mandate and arrest of miners who in any way appear to encourage continuation of the strike are expected soon.

Governor Goodrich today pledged the support of state officers to the federal agents in enforcing the injunction. The governor also called a conference in his office tomorrow to consider beginning operation of Strip mines of the state on an extensive scale as a means of bringing about resumption of operation in this state. All mines have been closed in Indiana since the strike went into effect a month ago.

MINERS STRIKE IN TENNESSEE.

Chattanooga, Tenn., December 1. Dissatisfied with the terms of settlement promulgated by the federal fuel administration, all the miners employed in the Soddy field near here again went on strike this morning. Leaders of the union declare that the men will stay out until the new industrial conference in session in Washington has taken some action.

It is reported that four hundred and fifty miners are out at the Soddy mines. The men had returned to work and worked until Saturday, but did not show up for work today.

RECEIVERS TO TAKE TENNESSEE MINES.

Chattanooga, Tenn., December 1. Governor A. H. Roberts, of Tennessee, who was in the city tonight to address a law and order mass meeting, announced that he had ordered State's Attorney F. M. Thompson to file proceedings against each coal mine in the state not being operated because of the refusal of miners to work, with a view of having receivers appointed for the property and thus forcing their operation.

The governor also issued an order directing that all coal mined at the state mines at Petros be kept in Tennessee, the state having formerly been disposing of some of the output to other sections.

Court action against idle mining properties in the state may be expected at once, said Governor Roberts.

COAL SHORTAGE TO STOP TRAFFIC.

Oklahoma City, Okla., December 1.—Suspension of all traffic over the Frisco line out of Oklahoma City is a matter of hours unless the coal shortage facing the railroad is relieved immediately, while all railway traffic here may be tied up by the end of the week, it was made known tonight by local railroad officials.

NEARLY HALF MINERS RETURN TO WORK.

Knoxville, Tenn., December 1.—Nearly 50 per cent of the twenty thousand miners in district 19, Kentucky and Tennessee, were working today, according to a statement issued by the Southern Coal Operators' association here tonight. This was taken to indicate a break in the ranks of the strikers and the news was welcomed in Knoxville, where this morning there was but a small supply of domestic coal in the yards. Practically all of this had been sold by noon.

GROCERY STORES OPEN UNTIL 6 O'CLOCK

sandwiches or other food is served at such stands or at soft drink or cigar and tobacco departments of stores, such stands or departments may open before 9 o'clock a. m. and close after 4 o'clock p. m. solely for the purpose of serving food. No drink, except coffee, tea or milk, tobacco, or any other thing except food may be sold at such places except between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m.

"Educational establishments, including business colleges, are not subject to the regulations.

"Docks, elevators and warehouses engaged in loading and discharging of vessels and the unloading of railroad cars are not subject to the restrictions.

"Stores and business houses after closing their doors to the public and shutting off heat may use the necessary minimum amount of light for janitor service. Necessary light may also be used out of business hours for essential repairs and painting."

Must Close at 4 O'Clock.

Drug stores that operate as drug stores may follow their usual schedule for the sale of drugs and necessities, with a 50 per cent curtailment of lights.

A 50 per cent curtailment of lights must also be observed by restaurants, which will be allowed to observe their usual opening and closing schedules.

Wholesale packers are exempted from the stringent regulations to the extent that they may operate at whatever hours are absolutely necessary to the conduct of their business. It was shown to the committee that many such wholesale houses have to receive and make shipments at various hours of the night and that a compliance with the absolute letter of the original regulation would entail serious loss, and cause great inconvenience, if not actual suffering, to those dependent upon the places for their food supplies.

Argument of Grocers.

The argument was advanced by the grocers, especially those operating under the "cash-and-carry" plan, that at least 50 per cent of their customers were those that made their purchases on their way home in the afternoon, and that a 4 o'clock closing hour would preclude this possibility. They may now remain open until 6 o'clock.

Garages were granted permission to use such lights as are absolutely necessary for safety, and to maintain, by heating, a temperature sufficient to keep the water in radiators of automobiles from freezing, but nothing above that which is absolutely necessary.

The offices of the coal committee were besieged all day Monday with callers and telephone calls with the purpose of straightening out certain and variant doubts about the regulations. Many people desired interpretation of the rulings as they applied to their businesses, and in many cases special requests to be allowed latitude in the furfilment of the regulations were heard. Some of these the committee saw fit to grant, while others they denied.

Many Requests Heard.

During the day the committee heard many requests of the sort from various Atlantans, representing various lines of business. The request of the grocers to be allowed the privilege of staying open to take care of the afternoon business was presented by George Lowman. His contention was supported by Douglas Lawhon, of the Chamber of Commerce, who offered to the coal committee every assistance possible on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce.

Among the complaints received was one that said the drug stores that remained open after 4 o'clock would certainly sell some articles other than drugs, thereby injuring the trade of other stores handling the same lines that were forced to close at 4 o'clock.

Places selling wearing apparel or food may remain open until 9 o'clock on Saturday nights.

Laundries were exempted from the closing regulations on account of the fact that they are considered necessary from a sanitary standpoint, which would have influence on the health of the community.

Exceptions to Order.

Exceptions to the closing regulations are: Drug stores, for the sale of drugs only; restaurants, which, like drug stores, must curtail lights 50 per cent; railroad stations, hotels, hospitals, telephone, telegraph, newspaper offices, dairies, ice refrigerator plants, bakeries, laundries, plants for the manufacture of medicinal products, waterworks, sewerage plants, gas manufacturing plants, plants operating continuous processes (such as acid manufacturers, blast furnaces, etc.), battery charging outfits and plants producing lights or power for telephone, telegraph or public utility companies.

Householders are urged by the committee to conserve electricity, gas and coal as much as possible, but the use of the latter is automatically lessened by the one-ton limit and the uncertainty of being able to purchase coal.

The coal committee is backed by the machinery necessary toward enforcement of its regulations, and a rigid lookout will be observed from now on. It is thought that a certain leniency will be given to those violations that occurred Monday night, since many were on account of ignorance. However, from Tuesday morning, no excesses are valid, and every one will be expected to live up to the letter of the regulations.

Vigorous punishment of offenders is a surety, and continuous offense is entirely liable, it is said, to put the offenders without heat and light in their places of business for the winter.

Boy Scouts May Help.

It is entirely "probable that the coal committe will accept the offer of the Boy Scouts of Atlanta to cooperate with them in the policing that must necessarily be done to apprehend offenders under the new regime. It is also thought that the scouts of other cities in the southern region will make the same offer as the Atlanta Scouts have made through their executive, A. A. Jameson.

The following statement was made by R. I. Barge, president of the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' association of Atlanta, in regard to the fuel situation and the attitude of his organization toward it:

"The association and its members will co-operate with the fuel administration to the fullest extent. The regional committe is to be commended for its action in extending the hours to the food stores. As first announced the shorter hours would have worked a great injustice on the consuming public, especially the working class, who do their shopping after leaving their work.

"Food is a necessity even more essential than fuel, and any measure materially curtailing the present method of distribution would necessarily increase the cost of food, a condition that the retail grocer is doing his level best to hold down.

"The consuming public is urged to give the grocers observing these orders as laid down by the fuel administration the fullest co-operation.

How Auto Dealers Are Affected.

Interpretations of the fuel regulations as affecting automobile dealers were furnished the Atlanta Automobile association Monday and were later given out to the press by Secretary P. A. McGehee, as follows:

"Salesrooms and offices are allowed light between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m.; heat between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m.

"Shops, light between 9 and 4; heat between 7 and 4, and may use electric power between 9 and 4.

"Garages, allowed light between 9 and 4, and heat between 7 and 4. Storage garages are allowed, in addition, only safety lights and enough heat to prevent danger to pipes.

"Filling stations must curtail their lights 50 per cent and cut out all display lights except between 9 and 4.

"Battery service stations are allowed to charge at all times, but may have no light in other departments except between 9 and 4, and no heat except between 7 and 4.

"Tire repair stations which operate road service may use necessary lights and heat all the time, but must not use other lights except between 9 and 4, and additional heat except between 7 and 4."

No action was taken by the association in reference to pay of employees who would lose hours by reason of the new rules, this matter being left to the individual members.

It was decided that the closing of places on Saturday afternoons would be discontinued during the coal crisis, but that this practice, which has become an established custom in Atlanta, would be resumed after conditions become normal again.

It was recommended by the association that all filling stations observe earlier closing hours.

the close of Monday, the second day, witnessed a total subscription of more than $8,000,000.

There are twelve associations which have not reported, and among that number is the Georgia association, one of the largest and most desirable in the state. Other strong associations that had not reported Monday nigh are: Hightower, Campbell, Mt. Vernon, Clarkesville, Rabun county, Gilmer-Fannin, Chestatee and Telfair.

Full Reports Late.

A study of the associations that have already reported will show that many associations listed below with small amounts are among the best in the state. These have quotas ranging from $75,000 to $400,000. The Friendship, the New Sunbur, the Hepzibah, the Colquitt County, the Mallary, the Mell, the Bethel, the Taylor, the Bowen and other associations are among the list that have reported very low amounts, and this group alone will total more than three-quarters of a million when their full reports some in. It is believed that these associations, with those that have not reported at all, will carry the total for Georgia almost to ten million dollars.

The report of Georgia's campaign was given to Dr. L. R. Scarborough, director general for the Southern Baptist convention, at his office in Nashvill by long-distance Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Scarborough was so delighted with the report that he gave a right good illustration of a college yell over the wire.

"I am greatly pleased with your great work in Georgia," said Dr. Scarborough. "You are giving proof of the fact that Georgia is really the Empire state, even in rellgion."

Four States Over Top.

w said that Maryland, Ketucky and New Mexico were the other states that were over the top. Georgia added to this means that four of the seventeen of the convention went over practically on the first day of the drive, because all reports coming in yesterday morn' on work done Sunday.

Dr. Arch C. Cree, the director for Georgia, was too happy over the victory of this state to make any comment last night.

"I have just one word to say now, and it is this: 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow.'"

John W. Jenkins, state organizer, said: "I am too busy receiving these long distances to think about anything else, but I do want to say that I am supremely happy that Georgia Baptists have done such a worthy part."

Mrs. Kate C. Wakefield, director for the women and children of Georgia in the campaign, was asked what she thought of the victory for Georgia.

"Well, I just knew we would do it, but it certainly makes me feel mighty thankful to see the actual figures on the paper and to know that the good women of Georgia have done such a noble thing," she said.

All Greatly Pleased.

Other state officials were greatly pleased and said that the workers all over the state, even to the smallest church, should feel that the great effort had succeeded because of the spirit of co-operation that had always gone into every service.

Atlanta, with the largest quota of any city in the south, was over the top at noon Monday with Ponce de Leon church not reported, with a quota of $140,000. This message was sent to Nashville by wire and Dr. Scarborough passed it out to all the states. The Second church of Atlanta, has made the largest gain over its quota of any of the big churches of Georgia. With a quota of $170,000 it was reported to have above $215,000 at noon Monday.

Kirkwood Baptist church, one of the first churches to report in Georgia, was done an injustice in the story Monday of its campaign. The amount subscribed was $51,000 and through an error in compiling the report the amount published was $41,000. Rev. J. L. Jackson is pastor and his church is one of the leading churches of Atlanta.

Macon was a close contestant for honors among the cities of her size in the south. The First church had the largest quota in Georgia, $210,000, and had raised this amount and was beyond it by several thousand dollars. Tattnall Square church was another outstanding Macon church in the drive. The Tabernacle church had doubled its quota and was headed for $50,000. Every church in Macon was over except the Second and the Vineville.

Savannah, Augusta and Columbus First churches were still under their quotas Monday afternoon. Other churches in the cities named had gone beyond their quotas. Rome First church was among the larger city churches not reported late Monday afternoon.

The most striking features of the campaign to date are the country churches. With large quotas, in many instances, they have doubled and some have trebled their original quotas.

Reports by Districts.

The following report, by districts, was made at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon:

District A, $353,000; B, $997,000; C, $37,500; D, $204,700; E, $892,842. F, $14,000; G, $922,985; H, $1,030,791. I, $467,873; J, $447,923; K, $674,743, L, $309,801; B, $1,173,000.

Additional reports up to 6 o'clock carried the total beyond $8,000,000. A list of associations reporting with the amounts given by the association organizers follows:

Atlanta, $1,100,000; Catoosa, $5,456; Chatooga, $40,356; Coosa, $15,345; Floyd county, $100,000; Gordon county, $25,100; Lookout Valley, $2,000; Middle Cherokee, $73,000; North Georgia, $25,000; Polk county, $66,540; Carrollton, $90,000; Centennial, $82,000; Fairburn, $36,201; Flint river, $233,445; Kimbell, $56,000; Noonday, $81,000; Pine Mounatin, $25,000; South River, $15,000; Western, $363,000; Morganton, $35,000; Notla river, $2,500; Chattahoochee, $115,000; Concord, $20,000; Haralson, $27,000; Hiawassee, $8,730; New Union, $8,000; Roswell, $1,000; Tallapoosa, $24,000; Appalachee, $105,842; Hebron, $160,000; Lawrenceville, $85,300; Mulberry, $15,233; Sarepta, $115,000; Tugalo, $85,000; Central, $105,000; Hepzibah, $275,000; Kilpatrick, $100,323; Morgan county, $102,000; Stone Mountain, $51,000; Washington, $300,000; Daniel, $50,400; Dodge county, $45,000; Ebenezer, $40,000; Laurens county, $140,324; Pulaski, $95,000; Rehoboth, $750,000; Baptist Union, $10,221; Bulloch county, $102,000; Emanuel, $25,000; Friendship, $26,000; Middle, $105,000; New Sunbury, $59,002; Tattnall, $40,000; Consolation, $37,000; Mercer, $122,657; Piedmont, $130,000; Smyrna, $48,000; Valdosta, $93,000; Colquitt county, $136,000; Houston, $160,091; Little River, $98,536; Mallary, $54,307; Mell, $26,315; Turner, $25,392; Tucker, $52,000; Bethel, $19,300; Bowen, $9,000; Columbus, $200,000; Summerhill, $50,146; Taylor, $21,330; Enon, $3,000; Liberty, $11,000.

Church of Epiphany Takes Great Interest In Episcopal Drive

Great interest is being manifested by members of the Church of Epiphany at Inman Park in the nation-wide Episcopal campaign in which the church is participating. The leaders state their confidence that in the final wind-up their parish will exceed its quota.

Several hundred New Testaments were distributed among the members last Sunday by house-to-house visits of the workers, and the whole parish is undergoing a spiritual reawakening that is most gratifying to the officials of the church.

Extension of mission work among the negroes of Atlanta is planned by the church in the near future.

Rev. Rogers, rector of St. Matthias' Parochial school, escorted some thirty of his pupils to the church in Inman Park and subjected them to a rigid examination in the teachings of the Episcopal faith. It is doubtful if any white Sunday school in Atlanta could present a more impressive examination. Following this test, Rev. Rogers related many of his experiences in the years he has been engaged in this work. He stated that if it had been undertaken twenty years ago, there would never have been such a thing as racial trouble. He called particular attention to the fact that not a single negro who has received the benefit of this Christian and practical training could be found behind the bars of Atlanta's prisons.

PRICE OF EGGS HIGHER

Will Now Cost Purchasers 85 Cents a Dozen.

A new high mark in the price of the one-time lowly egg was set Monday when John A. Manget, chairman of the Fulton county fair-price committee, announced that fresh country eggs would be retailed at 85 cents a dozen, a raise of 5 cents, while 60 cents was set as a fair price for the cold-storage product.

"This is really necessary," said Mr. Manget. "A careful investigation, conducted by the committee, developed the fact that country eggs were costing the retailers 75 cents per dozen. A 10-cent margin of profit is very little, when the cost of handling eggs is taken into consideration."

This is the second time eggs have advanced in price during the last thirty days. As a consequence of the raise of Monday, it was announced that the cost of prepared eggs in the restaurants would advance with the boost accorded the retailers.

The next meeting of the fair-price committee has been arranged for the latter part of next week, when additional recommendations for the price of food essentials will be made.

VIVA SOCIALISM! SHOUTED AT KING IN PARLIAMENT

Radical Deputies Leave the Chamber as Victor Emmanuel Begins His Speech From Throne.

ADRIATIC SITUATION DISCUSSED BY KING

He Asserts That Italy's Aspirations Cloak No Military Designs and for the Most Part Lack Economic Value.

Rome, December 1.—King Victor Emmanuel addressed the representatives of the people for the first time since the war ended when the twenty-fifth parliamentary legislature opened this morning. All the streets through which the royal carriage passed were lined with troops from the garrison, including artillery, behind which the people were crowded.

Queen Helena rode in a beautiful silver gala carriage which was followed by another in which sat the ladies in waiting, mounted cuirassirs preceding and following the carriages. The people applauded the queen.

Shortly afterward bugles announced the appearance of the king at the door of the quirinal. Cannon boomed from the Castle St. Angelo and the historic bell of the capitol rang, while the people cried: "Viva Re!"

At the Palazzo Monte Citorio the sovereigns were awaited by five hundred senators and deputies, the diplomatic body, high state officials and a distinguished assembly of guests.

Welcome for Queen.

Queen Helena received a most enthusiastic welcome. Together with the princesses and their suites, she proceeded immediately to the royal box. A few minutes later King Victor Emmanuel entered, followed by Prince Humbert, the cabinet, the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies and the king's military and civil households.

The whole house, with the exception of the socialist deputies, stood applauding the king. The socialists remained seated. Finally when the applause ceased, all the socialists rose, crying "Long live socialism!" and slowly left the hall.

The king, in a firm, sonorous voice read the speech from the throne. The address was received enthusiastically.

To Works of Peace.

The king in his speech from the throne said the confidence and sympathy of the nation was indispensable to parliament, as was its collaboration in all movements for the good of the people. Italy, he said, after her great victory must direct all her efforts to the works of peace.

The king began by greeting the heroes of the army and the navy. The virtues and energies they had displayed during the war would serve to hasten the economic reconstruction, he said.

Italy, through the war, continued the king, had gained some of her natural frontiers, but not all. Her aspirations, he declared, had everywhere been considered just. The aspirations of Italy in the Adriatic, he asserted, did not cloak any military design, and for the most part possessed no economic value. They were confined, he said, to the defense of native ideas.

Protection of Italians.

The protection of Italian populations was the duty and imperishable right of Italy.

"We have no imperialistic views," he continued, "and intend in no way that the peace of Europe shall be disturbed."

Italy regarded with the liveliest sympathy the rise of the popular classes, he said, and the movement should produce in the interior of the country a program of intensive work and production and in connection with foreign politics an increasingly democratic co-operation among nations.

GREAT ACTIVITY PREVAILS AT FIUME.

Belgrade, December 1.—Great activity prevails at Fiume. A destroyer left there Saturday presumably for Zara, according to the Serbian Press bureau. The merchant vessel Adria followed with 1,000 shock troops.

Reports from Fiume stated that "Admiral" Rizzo, commander of the d'Annunzio fleet there, has gone on board a destroyer and purposes occupation of Zenibeco.

MRS. BALLARD HERE ON WAY TO WINTER HOME IN FLORIDA

Mrs. S. T. Ballard, wife of the lieutenant governor-elect of Kentucky, with her daughter, Mrs. David Morton, of Louisville, were entertained by Atlanta friends during a stop-over of a few hours yesterday while en route to Mrs. Ballard's winter home at Eau Gallie, Fla. A retinue of servants accompanied the ladies to their winter home.

Mrs. Ballard stated she would be joined in Florida within a week by her husband, who was unable to leave his duties in Kentucky. He will take oath of office Wednesday, Mrs. Ballard said, and would then leave for Florida.

The Ballards will return to Kentucky during the early part of the new year, so that Lieutenant Governor Ballard may attend the sessions of the legislature which opens in January.

SPANISH MINISTRY GOES OUT OF OFFICE

Madrid, December 1.—The Spanish ministry resigned today.

The proceedings in the Cortes, as indicated by recent dispatches from Madrid, have consisted mainly of a controversial debate over the budget. The government found itself unable to make any progress with the budget bill owing to the opposition of Juan de la Cierra, former minister of war.

TOLD OPERATION WAS ONLY HOPE

"I refused to submit to an operation which I was told was the only hope, but took Tanlac instead and I not only recovered my health, but gained fifteen pounds besides," said Mrs. J. M. Mays, of 1716 Twelfth street, Augusta, Ga., wife of a well-known wood and coal dealer.

"For over a year," she continued, "I suffered from stomach trouble and other disorders and was gradually growing worse. My head ached terribly most all the time, the pain in my right side was so agonizing that I could hardly stand it and my back ached constantly. My appetite failed and what little I did eat seemed to poison my system and make matters worse. I was so nervous and miserable that I could hardly sleep at all so weak and rundown they told me my only hope lay in an operation.

"I decided to try Tanlac first and my improvement was so rapid that it surprised me. Those headaches are gone the pain in my side and back left me, my appetite is fine, and I sleep like a child at night. That weak and rundown feeling has disappeared. I feel stronger and better to-day than I have in a long time."

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 10c and 30c.

PURCHASING AGENT PROBE UNDER WAY

W. E. Chambers Denies That He Meant to Infer That Council Members Had Interfered With His Work.

After a brief hearing in which no sensational testimony was elicited from any witness, the special councilmanic committee composed of Councilman J. N. Landers, Councilman Claude Ashley and Alderman I. F. Styron, who began a probe of the office of city purchasing agent Monday morning, adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman.

The hearing was apparently about to come to a close when Aldermn I. F. Styron expressed the belief that statements relating to an inspection of sewer pipes which were made to the committee by W. E. Chambers, against whom the investigation was ordered, might be construed as reflecting on him, and he asked an extension of the probe when officials connected with the sewer department might testify before the committee.

Statement by Chambers.

No reference was made at the hearing to any neglect of duty on the part of the purchasing agent which had been implied in council by Councilman J. A. Couch but the testimony chiefly centered around a signed statement from Mr. Chambers which appeared in the newspapers some months ago in which he said in part:

"I have recognized that city business was not mine to hand out, and that the concern who submitted the lowest and best bid on city supplies was handed the order whether he had friends in council or not."

This statement, Councilman Ashley construed as implying interference on the part of some member or members of council with the awarding of bids. He also resented Mr. Chambers' statement that he had not received a square deal from council in the matter of furnishing him with the proper facilities for making inspection of supplies bought for the city.

Both Alvin L. Richards, who appeared as counsel for the purchasing agent, and Mr. Chambers denied that the purchasing agent meant to reflect on the integrity of any member o the council, and were surprised that the card should bo so construed by councilmen.

Better Facilities Asked.

Mr. Chambers' contention that he should be given better facilities for making inspections was sustained by testimony of G. H. Morrow, president of the Morrow Transfer and Storage company, and statements of Mayor Key.

Mr. Morrow stated that from his certain knowledge the city was losing money by not conducting more rigid inspection. He recited an instance of where his company was employed to haul steam coal to Battle Hill sanitarium for the city. Much of this coal, he said his foreman told him, was not steam coal at all, but largely dirt, which an inspector would have caught. He related other instances that had come under his notice.

In his statement before the committee Mr. Chambers emphatically contended that the city is losing money every day by not furnishing his office with the required facilities for making necessary inspection, repeated calls having been made by him on the finance committee for an appropriation for this purpose.

Mayor Key told the committee that he was convinced that some provision should be made in the future for more adequate inspection and asked them to include some recommendation to this effect in their report.

American Legion Declares War On 'Work Slackers'

Many Posts of Legion Now Conduct Departments Devoted to Getting Jobs for Ex-Service Men.

By J. A. Holloman.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, December 1.—Eliminating the "work slacker" is the new job which the American Legion has taken upon itself, acting in conjunction with the war department's chain of employment bureaus throughout the country.

This type of ex-service man, while not numerous, is occasionally a serious detriment to the work of placing ex-soldiers and sailors in satisfactory jobs. Their attitude of indifference after getting the place causes dissatisfaction among employers who are really trying to help, and gives a black eye to other service men who still need work.

Practically all the posts of the legion now have employment committees. In some cases these committees have taken over the task of finding jobs for their fellow service men. In other localities they co-operate with the war department. In Bridgeport, Conn., where the work slacker has been a serious evil, the legion keeps a special file of such cases of repeating in jobs. As a rule, a heart-to-heart talk from a comrade in arms has been enough. In other cases a refractory man has been denied the services of the employment office altogether.

Works With Police.

In Detroit the legion works also with the police. When an ex-service man in uniform is taken up for some minor offense, like begging or peddling, a probationary system has been adopted. Instead of sending these men to jail, the authorities have consented to put them on probation with the American Legion. This practice has had a very salutary effect and Detroit's problem of putting to work every returned fighter is no longer so serious.

In practically all states, the employment committee of the legion now makes a canvass of all the employers. Wherever jobs are offered returned soldiers the employers are told that the legion expects to keep a touch with the men in places, in order to see that they give satisfactory service. If this is not forthcoming, the legion gives such men short shifts. On the other hand, if the deserving ex-service man who seeks employment will have his case persisted in until he is placed. Work slackers have to appear before a committee of their comrades.

In many places local chambers of commerce or associations of manufactureres have agreed with the legion to have a job for every homecoming soldier and sailor.

Comments on Legion.

In commenting upon the nation wide co-operation of the American Legion, Major General William G. Haan, assistant chief of staff, in charge of the war department's reemployment program, says:

"Today the American Legion has become an aggressive factor in getting jobs for our fighting men. They are extending the scope of their work so every rapidly that now this influence is felt in every state in the union. While the original plan was for the members to co-operate in employment work, in many communities it has been necessary for them to take over the entire burden because of the withdrawal of other agencies from the field. In every case they are meeting with the greatest success, and eventually the legion will be the great standby of the soldier who needs assistance of any kind.

"If anyone still has any doubt in his mind as to the present attitude of the mass of discharged soldiers, I would advise him to go to any post meeting of the American Legion and say something against the government, advocating bolshevism, anarchy or any other form of destruction. He will then quickly find that the ex-service man has not yet forgotten the art of fighting."

GLASS OF WATER AFTER ASPIRIN

Bayer Company, who introduced Aspirin in 1900, give proper directions.

The Bayer Company, who introduced Aspirin tell in their careful directions in each package of genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" that to get best results one or two glasses of water should be drank after taking tablets.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" to be genuine must be marked with the safely "Bayer Cross." Then you are getting the genuine, world-famous Aspirin, prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years.

Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, and Pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of salicylicacid.—(adv.)

CALOMEL LOSING OUT IN SOUTH

Mr. Dodson, the 'Liver Tone' Man, Responsible for Change for the Better.

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it." Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much, but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day.—(adv.)

Horse Comes Into Own Again In Great Parade on Monday

The age of the horse is not past. That Atlanta horses are still able to earn their own living, and have not yet been relegated to the museums, was proved Monday afternoon at the parade of work horses, held under the management of the reorganized Atlanta Humane society. Beautiful iron gray steeds, shiny bays, and sleek blacks held their heads proudly, confident that they are not only of artistic, but practical benefit. The drivers took an evident pride in their animals, and not only had them curried to perfection, but they drove them with every evidence of pride.

Some of the horses were young. Others had seen active service on Atlanta streets for 15 and 20 years. Some were powerful animals; others were graceful little Shetlands. All of them, however, were independently earning their own living, as becomes those living in the twentieth century. In all of the exhibition of 150 horses there was but one poor looking one. This was the horse near the front of the parade, included to show that the Humane society is endeavoring to take care of just such horses, and to prevent their getting in this condition. The horse was on a float, and was thin and hungry looking.

Hungry Looking Horse.

Members of the society found it sheltered in only a rough shack, exposed to the wind and the rain. It is the property of a negro, who has not the money to keep it as it should be kept. Judges of the parade Monday afternoon voted to take up a contribution and give the horse a good feed, a sort of belated Thanksgiving dinner, including hay, grain and a regular feast.

More than one hundred dollars in prizes were awarded by the judges, who were J. L. DeGive, Dr. H. G. Carnes, Thomas A. Baldwin, David Goldin, and Mrs. Katherine Weathersbee and Mrs. Gertrude B. Kelley, from the Humane society. The committee in charge of the parade included Lucien York, Oscar Mills, Frank Reynolds, William J. Rudland, Colonel B. M. Bailey, A. A. Jameson and Julian Poehm.

The first blue ribbon for the best exhibit in the entire parade was awarded to the remount station horses from Camp Gordon—six bay-face boys harnessed to a government wagon. The American Express company's six black horses won the second ribbon, and another team of six from the remount station won the third ribbon. These horses were also black.

The Morrow Transfer team which was No. 51, won first prize, $25 given by Mrs. E. P. McBurney for the best double team. The second prize was awarded to the R. O. Campbell Coal company's team No. 12, and consisted of $15 given by the Kiwanis club.

American Express Team.

The first prize in the single team group was won by the American Express team, No. 55 the prize being $15 in cash, donated by the Kiwanis club and James E. Belcher. The second prize of $10 given by Frank T. Reynolds and Ginsburg & Co., was given to No. 56, and the third prize given by Peck Bros. was awarded to No. 106. Other prizes were as follows:

First Prize—Prettiest pony horse, merchandise, $10. Given by M. Rich & Bros. company and Maier & Berkele. Awarded to pony and buggy team.

Second Prize—Second prettiest pony horse, merchandise, $5. Given by Davison-Paxon-Stokes company. Awarded to Silvey & Co.'s "Buster," No. 49.

Third Prize—Third prettiest pony horse, merchandise, $2.50. Given by J. P. Allen company. Awarded to No. 48.

First Prize—Prettiest Shetland pony, merchandise, $5. Given by Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company. Awarded to spotted pony.

Second Prize—Second prettiest Shetland pony, merchandise, $2.50. Given by J. P. Allen company. Awarded to No. 100.

First Prize—First best donkey, merchandise, $5. Given by J. Frohsin. Awarded to mule and plow, No. 99.

Second Prize—Second best donkey, merchandise, $2.50. Given by J. Regenstein company. Awared to No. 3.

Honorable mention is made of the following teams:

Nos. 57, 95, 14, 16, 17, 61, 109, 6, 129, 54, 9.

Prizes Go to Drivers.

All the prizes were given, not to the owners of the horses, but to their drivers, to the men who take care of them, and who are responsible for their treatment. It is planned to make this parade an annual affair.

Many of the horses bore placards telling something about them. "Buster," the prize exhibit of Silvey & Co., had a sign which told that he had a service record of 21 years, and that he had hauled $20,000,000 worth of dry goods in that time. A small gray horse driven to a wagon belonging to the Laundable Laundry company, announced by placard that he was 21 years old, and fully grown, although small.

Firms which were included in the parade were: R. O. Campbell Coal company, Acme Coal and Supply company, Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation, American Express company, Randall Coal company, Morrow Transfer company, Trio Laundry, Bell Laundry and Randall Coal company.

Boy Scouts participated, carrying banners bearing slogans of the Humane society, such as "Be kind to dumb animals." Twenty young women from the department stores marched bearing flags.

The parade formed at Baker and Peachtree streets, proceeded down Peachtree past the executive mansion, where the judges were gathered and disbanded at Mitchell and Whitehall. At the end of the parade of work horses came a tank which bore the record "Some horse for work!" Half a dozen men in khaki rode the tank, which was arranged by Colonel Bailey of the army recruiting station.

The Atlanta Humane society has a membership of 15, and it is the ambition of the members to raise the number to 15,000 within a short time. It is stated that this is not too big a goal for a city the size of Atlanta. James Morton is president of the organization and Mrs. Catherine Weathersbee, secretary.

Largest and Smallest Knights Of Grip Visit The Constitution

Having both the smallest and the largest commercial traveler in the world call to see you on the same day is an unusual experience, to say the least; but that was the case when "Major" John Hoops, 36 years old, 37 inches high and 54 pounds heavy, accompanied by H. C. ("Shorty") Clark, 6 feet 10 inches high, both knights of the grip, made a pop call on The Constitution Monday.

Mr. Clark is an Atlanta man, and represents a Tampa cigar factory. It was just by chance that "Major" Hoops, who represents a Brooklyn confection firm, met with Mr. Clark and it was decided to work their territory together.

And these two "extremists" are attracting quite a bit of attention. According to officials of the firm he represents, "Major" Hoops is one of the biggest guns on their firing line, in spite of his small dimensions.

Both are very proud of the fact that they are members of the Travelers' Protective association. The "major" only joined a few weeks ago, while in Macon.

This is not the first time the "major" has visited Atlanta. He came here in 1905 with the Barnum & Bailey circus, billed as one of the "Three Royal Midgets," and has since been here, both on exhibition and on business for his present employers, with whom he has been for the past six years.

The "major" received his title while engaged in Red Cross work. It is said he called at the white house, and, after seeing President Wilson and securing his autograph which he still exhibits with pride, he left the room with a very military salute. He was dressed in a uniform patterned after that of an army officer, and this, together with the snappy salute, was the cause of Secretary Tumulty calling him "major."

NEWNAN OFFICIALS NAME DIN PRIMARY

Newnan, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—In a primary election Saturday the following candidates for the various city offices were nominated:

For mayor, W. C. Kinnard; for aldermen, T. B. McRitchie, A. W. Powers, John B. Nixon and F. A. Willis; for members board of education, T. B. Davis and R. O. Jones, each for a term of two years.

There was no opposition to the ticket—something almost unheard of in city elections here.

Request Bragg Resignation.

Auburn, Ala., December 1.—Eight hundred students of Alabama Polytechnic institute, at a mass meeting tonight, adopted a resolution requesting the resignation of Professor Thomas Bragg, as faculty manager of athletics at the institution.

The resolution was introduced by Captain Pete Bonner, of the 919 football team, and was inspired, it is said, through differences that have existed between the faculty manager, students and members of the alumni association over management of athletic affairs. What effect it will have is problematical, however, as Professor Bragg holds his position by virtue of election by the alumni association.

The Liver, Kidneys and Blood are Your Tripod of Health. When One is in Distress They All Suffer.

Dr. Hitchcock's Liver, Kidney & Blood Powders Tone up the Liver and Kidneys, Purifying the Blood and Keep Your Tripod of Health in Balance.

A Vegetable Compound. Will Not Make You Sick. Eat Anything You Like.

When bilious, suffering with indigestion, headaches, rheumatism and feel out of sorts generally, it doesn't necessarily mean that your liver is the only part of your anatomy that needs attention. This upset condition may be caused by either the kidneys or blood, and the liver simply refuses to function out of sympathy. If you only treat your liver, you are only getting at one-third of your trouble.

The Liver, Kidneys and Blood are so closely allied that when one gets out of order the others fall in line. Therefore, the only way to put the entire system back to its normal healthy condition is to right the liver and kidneys and purify the blood.

Dr. Hitchcock's Liver, Kidney & Blood Powders will clear up these three vital parts of the system—keep your Tripod of Health in balance. This is one of Dr. Hitchcock's favorite prescriptions that he used successfully for over 60 years.

25 cents will buy a large tin box at your druggist. Take a level teaspoonful tonight and it will straighten you out by morning. If you are not satisfied your money refunded.—(adv.)

UNITED STATES QUITTING GAME, ASSERTS GERMAN

Berlin, December 1.—The Tageblische Rundschau, in an editorial today, referring to the American senate's attitude on the peace treaty, says:

"The United States, after accomplishing Germany's defeat, produced the greatest confusion of nationalities and boundaries in Europe through the enactment of the Versailles peace. It now realizes that while it was quite able to create havoc in strange countries, it is wholly incompetent to undo the mischief and is quitting the game and turning from Europe politically as though it were a pest house."

PLAN COMPROMISE ON PEACE TREATY

There Is Disposition, However, to Leave the Treaty Sidetracked for Present — Compromise Privately Sought.

Washington, December 1.—Negotiations for a compromise ratification of the treaty were renewed today, with the reassembling of congress, but the general feeling of senators onboth sides was that it might become weeks before movement reached the stage of formal action.

Republican and democratic leaders found themselves in agreement that the legislative program should not be longer delayed and that the treaty should not be brought again before the senate formally until a way to dispose of it finally had been opened by private discussion. There were indications that more on to declare a state of peace might also be delayed until important legislation had been cleared away.

The disposition to leave the treaty sidetracked for the present was expected by senators generally to be reflected in the message which President Wilson will send to congress tomorrow. None professed to have any definite knowledge of the president's intentions, however, and white house officials were silent tonight regarding the probable contents of the message.

Some Disposition to Compromise.

In the short session today neither the treaty nor the peace resolution was mentioned, but there was much private talk which developed some disposition to compromise on both sides.

Democratic senators who approached republicans on the subject were told to put their proposals into concrete form. They promised to do so within a day or two.

To these discussions, however, Senator Lodge, the republican leader, was not a party. He has announced his opposition to any further compromise, and is understood to have counseled his colleagues to stand squarely behind the reservations accepted by the majority at the last session.

Senator Hitchcock, the democratic leader, predicted that the compromise efforts would succeed and that within a few weeks it would be possible to bring in the treaty and ratify it quickly. He expects to see President Wilson soon and is expected to ascertain just what reservations the president would accept rather than see the treaty die.

Hitchcock May See Wilson.

During the day Senator Hitchcock was in communication with white house officials and is understood to have told them there would be no urgent necessity for him to see the president for four or five days. A conference may be arranged late this week.

Although Senator Lodge is understood to be anxious to bring up as soon as possible his resolution declaring a state of peace, other prominent republicans predicted that action on it in the immediate future would be impossible. The administration forces, contending that peace can be established properly only by ratification of the treaty, was prepared to stubbornly oppose the resolution and it was said a fight for its adoption now would mean another long delay of legislation.

Action on the resolution by the house will be sought at once, however, the republican leaders making plans today to have it presented there in a day or so. So far it has been introduced only in the senate, where it now rests in the foreign relations committee. No meeting of the committee has been called to consider it.

Democrats for Compromise.

Today's compromise proposals are said to have come from democratic senators active in the treaty fight, although not directly from the democratic leader himself. While the republicans who were approached declared they never would consent to any material modification of the majority reservations, they are said to have shown a willingness to consider any concrete proposition.

The qualification of Article X., characterized by the president as constituting rejection of the treaty, and the preamble requirement that other powers must accept the senate reservations, continued to hold the center of interest in all compromise discussions. Some republicans active in the negotiations declared their belief that slight changes in these two parts of the majority program would satisfy the democrats and make ratification possible. On the democratic side, however, no one cared to predict what minimum of modification would be acceptable.

One element which is expected to figure for delay in the compromise efforts is the absence of many senators from Washington. Barely more than half the senate membership answered the quorum call today and a number expect to stay away until after the holidays.

LONGSHOREMEN GIVEN MORE PAY, LESS WORK

Savannah, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Increased pay with shorter working days is granted the deep sea longshoremen of Savannah, according to the award of Judge J. A. Rourke, special commissioner, acting as arbiter of the recent disagreement between these workers and their employers. Experienced headers, loading cotton, will receive 75 cents an hour, and others smaller amounts down to 45 cents for wharf hands. This is 5 cents more than present scales, and 15 cents more than offered by the shippers.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention The Atlanta Constitution.—(adv.)

PERSHING TO O. K. RECEPTION PLANS

General Richardson Now in Washington Conferring With "Black Jack" on Visit Here December 11.

Upon the occasion of General John J. Pershing's visit to Atlanta on December 11 he will find the city decorated more profusely than ever before. The general committee, of which Judge Marcus D. Beck is chairman, and Mrs. Sam Inman is vice chairman, and the executive committee, of which Earl H. Cone is chairman, are exerting every effort to make the general's visit one never to be forgotten in the annals of Atlanta nor in the memory of the man who led the American troops in France.

Detailed plans have been worked out by the executive committee taking care of every minute of the time the distinguished visitor is here, but the committee refuses to make these plans public just at present, preferring to wait until they receive the general's sanction.

General Richardson in Washington.

General Wilds P. Richardson, of Camp Gordon, is now in Washington for a conference with General Pershing in order to let him see just what the people of Atlanta intend to do for him in the way of entertainment and amusement. If the tentative plans are approved by the commander-in-chief his O. K. will be telephoned by General Richardson from Washington today.

The committee wants everything to be just as General Pershing wants it, and rather than plan for something which may be distasteful to America's great soldier, General Richardson went to get an official indorsement of the program. Should General Pershing care to make any suggestions as to what he would especially like to do, the entire program will be arranged according to those suggestions.

It is generally believed that Mayor Key will declare a holiday during the day of the general's visit in order to give all of Atlanta's citizens a chance to see the city's distinguished visitor. It is expected that he will arrive the night of December 10 and leave late the night of December 11. While here he will probably make an inspection of both Camp Gordon and Fort McPherson.

Banquet Planned.

Earl Cone did let out just one little secret yesterday afternoon and that was a monster banquet is being planned for General Pershing the night of December 11 at the Piedmont Driving club, at which more than five hundred guests, or rather hosts, are expected to be present. The dinner will be a subscription affair and every citizen of Atlanta will have an opportunity to make application for a ticket.

While no definite announcement has as yet been made it is expected shortly that the price and place of securing tickets will be announced. Applications for tickets will be filed in the order of time received and when the entire lot of five hundred is exhausted then it will simply be up to those who were a little late to stand in the outside and wait to catch a view of America's military chieftain as he passes out of the door on the way to the station.

WIRE GOODS SHORTAGE MENACE TO BUILDING

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—The wire goods shortage has struck Macon with a vengeance and is seriously interfering with building operations, according to contractors and others who have new work in progress. Some of the hardware stores are unable to secure nails at any price and those that have them are doling them out in small quantities among customers. Lumber dealers who keep nails in stock are refusing to sell them unless the purchaser buys a bill of lumber.

Before the steel strike the production of wire goods was far below normal and 75 per cent under the present output. Local dealers attribute the present shortage to the steel strike and the fact that the European demand has taken much of the supply that would otherwise be available in this country. It is not only the shortage of nails that is giving trouble, but roofing and wire fencing are also scarce. Prices have gone sky high, but the dealers say they could sell enormous quantities even at high prices, if they could only obtain the desired materials. They do not look for any early relief.

ATTORNEY OF MACON INJURED IN SMASH

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—An incomplete account of an automobile accident in Florida in which Attorney Robert L. Berner, of Macon, was injured, were received here today, a message late tonight stating that Mr. Berner is on his way back to Macon and his condition is not thought to be serious. The first message received by Mrs. Berner came from a traveling man, stating that Mr. Berner had been killed.

An automobile containing Mr. Berner and four other men was struck by a train somewhere between Gainesville and Starke. All of the members of the party were injured and Mr. Berner was rendered unconscious for several hours. Mr. Berner was on his way to Starke to attend a land sale in behalf of a client.

SOUTH RECOGNIZES HER OPPORTUNITIES

S. Davies Warfield Makes Interesting Statement on Great Development Prospect for This Section at Savannah Meet.

Savannah, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—That there is a full realization in all parts of the south as to the opportunities offered for the development of this territory, is the opinion expressed last night by S. Davies Warfield, of Baltimore, president of the Southern Settlement and Development organization, following a meeting of its directors, at which reports of progress in organization and improvement work were submitted by the managers of southern state organizations that are affiliated with the Settlement and Development organization.

"This fact has been amply demonstrated at the meeting here tonight," said Mr. Warfield. "This organization has created landowners' associations in seven southern states.

"The owners of not less than 40,000,000 acres of land in the territory stretching from the James' river to the Rio Grande, including the coastal plain, the cutover lands and the great vacant areas of this region, are represented here. Through the efforts of this organization these vast areas are being shown to the world as offering the greatest opportunity for development on this or any other continent. It is the last great remaining area of vacant and readily assimilable land in any country.

"This organization and its affiliated associations include not only the owners of land and farmers, but prominent bankers of southern communities, and the business men backed by boards of trade and commercial organizations. It is apparent that the great south and its people are now in full realization of their opportunities and the reports of the managers of the several associations indicate that the south is prepared to tell the world of the possibilities offered by this territory.

"The advance in the value of farm lands in the upper Mississippi valley and their almost prohibitive rental figures are forcing many men to seek new locations and naturally they turn their attention to the south. The time has now arrived for the south to put forth its best efforts.

"When one looks at what has been accomplished in California, where they have the element of nature to contend with, such as the wet season and the dry season and the irrigation problem, for the people of the south not to grasp the opportunity that is now afforded would show lack of appreciation of their resources, which no one could believe possible."

ATLANTA KENNEL CLUB TO OPEN SHOW TODAY

Some of the Finest Dogs of Country Will Be Exhibited Here.

Atlanta's finest dogs have been groomed, put in condition, and are ready to be shown this morning at the big dog show at Taft hall, city auditorium.

Dogs from out of town have arrived and are still arriving, and all will be here by Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, when the big show opens up. Dogs may be received from Atlanta people as early as 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Judging will start possibly Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and continue until all dogs are judged.

The second day of the show is society day, and many parties are expected on that date for both day an evening. Society is taking a decided interest in this show.

J. Harry Rushton, of Asbury Park, N. J., the judge, will arrive Monday. Mr. Rushton is widely known as a judge of all breeds, and is known as an authority on English bulldogs, having imported many of the country's finest, and being proprietor of the Woodcraft kennel.

Spratt's Patent Limited representative, Mr. Fowler, is in the city, and all the furnishings will be in readiness Tuesday. These furnishings are the same that are used at the great London dog show, the largest show in the world, and the same used at the big Madison Square Garden show and the big Boston show.

Many out of town visitors have written they are on the way or are coming, and several of the owners, such as Mrs. McGlone, owner of Mosholu Blink, and Mr. Weaver, of Albany, N. Y., with his famous bulldogs, are on the way.

Several of the cups are on display in Franklin & Cox's show window, and are attracting much attention.

FLYING TIGERS WORRY LEADERS OF DRY CAMPAIGN

How to combat successfully the efforts of the whisky runners who resort to the use of the airplane in bringing liquor into this country, is one of the problems to be worked out by those in charge of the prohibition enforcement campaign.

Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the enforcement campaign, already is giving this phase of the prohibition question his earnest consideration.

"The menace, which these liquor cases outside the United States offer to law enforcement in this country, especially with the airplane as a vehicle for bringing it in, is very serious," says Mr. Cherrington.

Havana especially, he thinks, will be the mecca and the distribution point of those who would grow wealthy in catering to the alcoholic appetities of the people of this country after the prohibition amendment goes into effect, January 16.

"There also is a small island of the Bahama group," says Mr. Cherrington, "which promises to become known out of all proportion to its size and importance. It lies within 35 miles of the American shore and within an hour's ride by the fast steamers. Liquor dealers, driven out of business in this country, already are preparing to resume their business there. They also are investing heavily in bars and hotels in Cuba, and other islands near the shores of the United States.

"Airplanes have advanced to that stage of perfection where they have become formidable implements of prohibition violation and the air smuggling would not be easy to detect."

The dry forces, concludes Mr. Cherrington, see the need of campaigns to make Cuba, the West Indies, Mexico and other neighboring territory dry, and campaigns in those places will be begun without delay, he says.

QUART OF LIQUOR AND STORE FIGURE IN DIVORCE PLEA

After claiming that her husband treated her cruelly, Mrs. R. J. Davie, in making her plea for a divorce from R. J. Davie, set out that he had no money, property or effects, unless it be a quart of whisky and a vacant store, to which petitioner has no claim to either or any part thereof."

Mrs. Davie was granted her final verdict by a jury in Judge George L. Bell's division of the superior court when eight other decrees were awarded. A number of cases were stricken from the calendar Monday morning owing to the failure of attorneys to answer when their cases were called.

Mrs. Davie claimed that she and her husband were married June 14, 1918, and that he got drunk soon after the marriage and stayed in that condition almost continually until he left in November of the same year. She stated that he beat her and struck her and that when he left her he took some needle work valued at $85 which she had made in order to sell and support herself.

She further set out that her husband had no reason for leaving it except to sell it and appropriate the proceeds to his "own behalf and benefit." Mrs. Davie was represented by Attorneys Graham & Bayers.

Mrs. Savilla B. Miller was granted a divorce from W. W. Miller. The petitioner claims that her husband came home one day and brought a strange woman with him who, she says, he introduced to her as "the baby" that was causing trouble between the petitioner and her husband. On another occasion she said he locked the doors and threatened to cut her throat.

Franklin T. Mikell Assumes New Duties In Insurance Field

Franklin T. Mikell, recently appointed executive special agent for Aaron Hans Son & Howell, of Atlanta, one of the large general insurance agencies of the south, assumed his new duties Monday morning.

He has been in the insurance service for several years, beginning his insurance work with the Royal Indemnity Insurance company.

NEGRO GIVEN ONE YEAR FOR KILLING HIS WIFE

Arthu Wesley, a negro, was found guilty of slaying his wife by a jury in the criminal division of the Fulton superior court, and was sentenced to serve one year by Judge John D. Humphries. Wesley was accused of having murdered his wife by striking her with a smoothing iron. Wesley claimed that he acted in self-defense; that he hit his wife only when she attacked him. The killing occurred on August 3 of this year at the Wesley residence on Auburn avenue.

First Film Play By Harold Wright Crowds Rialto

It is doubtful if any of the living novelists in America have a bigger following than Harold Bell Wrisht. His new books are always eagerly awaited by admirers in every state and they invariably rank among the best sellers of the year.

Mr. Wright has now invaded the moving picture field and Atlantans had their first view of his initial screen production at the Rialto theater yesterday, when "The Eyes of the World" opened a week's engagement. That is, a week's engagement as far as the curtailment imposed by the fuel administration will allow. The performances open at 1 p. m. and close at 10:30, in accordance with the rules for the conservation of coal.

The picture has been produced under the direct supervision of Mr. Wright himself, and by so doing he has been enabled to retain that distinctive individuality that is found in all of his books. The atmosphere of the story, with the style of the author, is thereby retained in the picturization much more accurately than is, unfortunately, sometimes done when works of other authors are picturized without the personal direction of the author to maintain the spirit of the story as it was written.

Therefore, all those admirers of Mr. Wright, who read his novels with such avidity, who eagerly wait at the book stores for every publication from his pen, and who consider him the greatest novelist of the age, will suffer no disappointment by going to see his picture at the Rialto. Because it is, in essence, just the same. And, by the same token, if all his admirers do see the picture, the theater is going to continue crowded to the doors for the balance of the week, and much longer, just as it did yesterday.

The setting of the story is laid in California and some of the scenic effects are as beautiful as have ever been achieved in motion pictures. The vistas of distant mountains that form the background for many of the scenes, are wonderfully effective.

The story, which begins in a prologue laid in 1880, among a previous generation, works gradually to a climax that includes a breath-taking fight on the edge of a cliff, some gloriously beautiful horses, some marvelous horsemanship and an implied leap from the edge of the cliff, by one of the characters, though the actual fall is not shown.

There are a large number of characters in the story, and the work of the performers who portray them indicates that the cast was likewise chosen by Mr. Wright. They do their work as if they actually lived the lives, as truly as do the characters in the book.

All in all, it appears as a picture that must have fully satisfied Mr. Wright when he viewed it as a completed whole and therefore it will undoubtedly bring just as complete satisfaction to those aforementioned thousands of admirers.

Opportunities For Young Women in Telephone Work

The Bell Telephone Company needs a large number of young women to serve as telephone operators in Atlanta and to acquire a training that will qualify them for supervisory positions.

Young women who hesitate about entering telephone work because they are ambitious to be leaders in whatever profession they enter, should bear in mind that one out of every nine women in our service occupies a supervisory position.

These positions are supervisor, assistant chief operator, chief operator and instructor. In an exchange like Atlanta these positions pay from $65 to $150 per month.

To acquire the skill and knowledge to qualify for one of these places it is necessary for the young woman to have the training and experience which can be developed only through actual work at the switchboard.

Women have equal opportunities with men in the Bell System. There is equal pay for men and women under like conditions as to ability and performance, except where a man may get more pay because he is being trained for a job a woman cannot handle.

The opportunities for advancement for women who enter telephone work are equal to those in other professions to which women are adaptable.

We need high-grade, ambitious young women who are not content to serve always at the switchboard, but who have a serious purpose to learn a profession and rise to the higher positions.

Women of superior education need not hesitate about entering telephone work. Their advancement and remuneration will be measured by their ability, as is attested by the many college women now in Bell Telephone service.

The conditions under which telephone work is done are ideal. The operating rooms are clean, well ventilated, well lighted and well heated.

The rest rooms are attractive and comfortable. The dining rooms are bright spots of cleanliness, and the kitchens are among the most sanitary in Atlanta.

Well known and experienced women act as matrons and devote their effort toward safeguarding the health and comfort of the young women.

Annual vacations are given with full pay, and there is protection from financial loss in case of sickness.

You salary begins when your application is accepted and you report for duty.

Visit one of the exchanges with your mother or friends and investigate the work and surroundings and then apply to Miss Nell Prince, 25 Auburn Avenue, for enrollment in our next training course.

WHY BE PALE? TAKE PEPTO-MANGAN

Restores Color and Appetite

Sold in Liquid and Tablet Form—Both Alike in Medicinal Qualities.

Why do pallid, thin, listless, easily-exhausted men and women continue to make themselves, and those around them, unhappy by that condition when they can so easily overcome it?

Unless a man or woman is suffering from some serious, deep-seated ailment, a prompt remedy that will overcome that continual tired, worn-out, sluggish feeling is within easy reach.

Pepto-Mangan contains just the elements needed to change thin, watery blood to good, red blood. Pepto-Mangan builds rich red blood, enabling it to carry strength and vigor to every part of the body.

In a short time the great change is noticeable. The cheeks fill out and attain the wholesome, rosy complexion of health, the appetite returns, the eyes sparkle, the step quickens, the entire system is filled with renewed vigor.

Pepto-Mangan is offered in two forms, liquid and tablet. Both possess exactly the same medicinal qualities.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

sioners during 1919 having repaved with concrete the sides of the streets named, and left the track area in a very unsatisfactory condition. The edges of the new concrete pavements are being whetted and broken off by vehicular traffic, seriously injuring the same and should be remedied without delay.

"The code says that where there is a double track the street car company shall pay for 16 feet and where there is a single track 11 feet. When the city paves the street, the track pavement shall be carried on by the street car company at the same time the city's part is being paved, and the same kind of pavement must be constructed.

"The question is legal rather than engineering, and we would respectfully suggest it be referred to the city attorney."

Mayor Key appeared before the committee and urged that the street car company be ordered to pave the area within the tracks on these streets.

tarily in court today. They included George G. Rogers, former Grand Rapids alderman; George K. Welsh, Kent county manager of the Newberry campaign, Charles Carpenter, former member of the Grand Rapids health board, and Roman F. Glocheski, said to have been employed at a salary of $150 a month to work during the Newberry campaign among the Polish residents of Grand Rapids. All pleaded not guilty, Glocheski being held in $2,500 bail and the others in $1,000 each.

That a bench warrant had been issued for Senator Newberry was indicated today when it was announced that Clerk Charles Potter, of the federal court, had furnished United States Marshal O'Connor with one for each of the 135 persons indicted.

Speculation as to whether Senator Newberry would attempt to resist service of a warrant against him was disposed of when former Circuit Judge James G. Murfin, of Detroit, now of the Newberry counsel, announced today that the senator would appear in court here next Monday to answer the indictment.

Speedy Trial Assured.

Arraignment of the remainder of the defendants is expected to spread over the entire week, but all those named in the indictments, Judge Sessions has announced, must appear in court on or before next Monday, December 8. Trial of the cases will not be permitted to drag, Judge Sessions indicated today stating that an effort will be made to complete them before the 1920 presidential election.

According to present plans Senator Newberry, his brother, John S. Newberry; Paul H. King, of Detroit, chairman of the Newberry campaign, and other leading figures in the case will be represented by Attorneys Martin W. Littleton, of New York city; James O. Murfin, of Detroit, and George E. Nichols, of Ionia, Mich. Many of the 135 men indicted are expected to have their individual attorneys, but Senator Newberry, it is said, had offered the services of his attorneys to all the defendants. Attorney Martin this afternoon also announced that defendants who need assistance in arranging for bail will be aided.

A number of deputy United States marshals are expected to be occupied all of this week, from Lake Superior to the Ohio border, serving the bench warrants for those cited

No Comment by Newberry.

Washington, December 1.—Senator Newberry, of Michigan, who arrived here today from Hot Springs, Va., for the opening of congress, would not comment on his indictment in Michigan. He said he expected to receive copies of the indictment and other documents from his counsel in a few days, and might have a statement to make at this time.

As Senator Newberry entered the chamber shortly before the senate convened, republican senators crowded to his side and shook hands with him.

Simultaneous with the legal proceedings at Grand Rapids an effort will be made in the senate to hasten action on the resolution of Senator Pomerene, democrat, Ohio, for a senatorial investigation of the Ford-Newberry contest in Michigan.

Although it was said no definite decision had been reached, the general prediction tonight was that the expenditures committee, to which the resolution was referred, would bring in its report within a day or two.

Senator Pomerene's resolution covers the primaries as well as the senatorial election itself, and contemplates inquiry into the campaign expenditures and practices, both of Senator Newberry and of Henry Ford, his democratic opponent.

GETTING 'HEP' TO THE GOOD EATS

"Gosh! I never knew before how good these little pork sausages were." Thus says the man who thought his stomach was gone for all time but who tried the simple expedient of a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after eating. And with this for a starter, he goes in for a cheese sandwich, a piece of hot mince pie, eats ham and eggs—in fact, he forgets his stomach and thinks only of the energy and good feeling that follow eating the foods that make most people ravenously hungry even to think of them. And all of this without sour risings, no gas, no belching and none of that drowsy heaviness that so often follows indigestion. Try these tablets after eating. They are used extensively wherever good eaters are found, and are on sale almost everywhere in the United States and Canada.—(adv.)

an "impossible condition for the city." Estimates on the third section, from North avenue to Peachtree street, have not been completed.

The county commissioners stated plainly at the time they promised to pave Spring street several months ago, and they have at various times repeated this notice since, that they would grade and pave the street free of cost to the city, but that they would not expend one cent for damages to property, nor would they assume the burden of changing water pipes, sewer pipes, manholes, or readjusting buildings.

Objection Comes Monday.

City council enthusiastically accepted this proposal, and until Monday afternoon when Chief of Construction H. L. Collier presented a report to the street committee containing the engineer's figures no objection had risen to obstruct an early beginning of the project.

Mr. Collier stated that his object in making a report to the committee was to acquaint them with the magnitude of the undertaking so that the necessary financial arrangement may be perfected before any actual work is begun or material contracted for. Whatever the city has to pay, he said, must be placed in the city treasury before the work is begun, for once having commenced it would be out of the question to stop.

"It will not do for the county authorities to take up the old pavements, which will be the first step until the city is ready financially to see the job through to completion, either to Carnegie way or to North avenue," said Mr. Collier.

"The county commissioners have agreed to take up and remove the old paving on Spring street and cross streets affected; the curbing and sidewalk paving; do all grading and remove and repave the cross streets with the old pavement taken therefrom, and to pave Spring street and Carnegie way with a concrete pavement, and to relay the old curb."

What City Must Do.

The city, according to Mr. Collier, is expected to build all retaining walls, adjust water pipes, catch basins, manholes, sewer pipes, and readjust all buildings when absolutely necessary to change grades, and to remove all trees.

What the property owners are expected to do is to give the property needed to make the street a uniform width of 60 feet and to waive damages for change of grades on Spring street and cross streets affected; bear the expense of new sidewalks and such new curbing as may be needed and such new sewers as may be required.

Should it be declined the mayor and general council to relieve the property owners of the amount assessed in the estimates of the construction department, Mr. Collier said that the city's share of the cost would be $267,006.93.

LADY ASTOR TAKES SEAT IN COMMONS

As the time approached for Lady Astor to be sworn in and take her seat, she was joined at the bar by her sponsors, Premier Lloyd-George and Arthur J. Balfour. At 3:55 o'clock, the new member, between her male escorts, Lloyd-George, starting a few seconds too soon, walked gracefully up the green-carpeted floor of the house to the clerk's table, bowing three times to the chair first from the bar, secondly halfway to the table and lastly, on reaching the table.

Takes Oath.

There she was met by the chief clerk of the house, who handed to her a black bound gilt-edged testament, and a large card, bearing in big type the words of the oath of allegiance.

The scene was most solemnly impressive. At the of the historic chamber, high above the speaker's chair, is the reporters' gallery, and standing upon tip-toes one had a comparatively good view of the unprecedented event in its setting of oak-carved panelled walls. Owing to the extreme darkness of the day, very little light came through the tall stained glass windows upon which are memorial bearings of parliamentary boroughs.

The magnificent carved oak walls, green upholstered new-like benches, stained glass windows and the glittering mace resting on the end of the table between the dispatch box combined to give to the interior of the chamber, suffused with indirect light from overhead, something of the appearance of a miniature cathedral. Every space upon which a member could stand or sit was occupied. The ladies' gallery above the reporters' gallery was crowded with wives, daughters, nieces and sweethearts of members. The strangers' gallery, at the other end of the house, also was packed with a mixed assembly, including Lord Astor, who is not yet eligible to sit in the peers' gallery. Many women who are American wives of titled Britishers were there to see their kinswoman break the ice of the Westminster bisexual club.

Completely Composed.

Lady Astor was dressed in a sombre black costume and hat without feathers and looked radiant, facing the ordeal with complete composure, throwing one triumphant glance in the direction of her husband as she took her turn at the table. At the table Lady Astor was deserted by her sponsors and stood—a woman long in epoch-making grandeur—beside the hewir-ed, black-robed, austere-looking clerk.

She recited the oath in a clear but subdued voice, then passed with queenly grace down the left side of the table, almost brushing against the ministers on the front bench. Midway down the table the clerk escort stopped handed Lady Astor a quill pen and pointed to the space on the roll of parliament where she wrote her name, Nancy Astor, without a tremor—the first woman's name to be entered in the quasi-sacred book.

Continuing, Lady Astor was formally presented to the speaker on the step of the dias by the same bewigged clerk. The speaker warmly shook her hand while the whole house broke into enthusiastic applause.

Observes Old Custom.

Following the usual custom, Lady Astor passed out of the house by a door behind the speaker's chair, where she was overwhelmed with congratulations by ministers and members of all parties. Later, Lady Astor quietly returned to the house at 4 o'clock and took a corner seat above the gangway behind the front bench on the government side of the house. Premier Lloyd-George's seat, when he attends, is almost within arms reach of her place. The seat was allotted to Lady Astor by courtesy of the male members. There is keen competition in any new parliament for corner seats, and by custom of the house, seats claimed on the first day of a new parliament remain in undisputed possession of the first claimant.

Countess Georgiana Markievicz, who was elected member of parliament from Dublin last year, but who refused to take her seat, owing to her Sinn Fein affiliations, was in London over the week-end and her presence created curiosity as to whether she meant to forestall Lady Astor in taking a seat in the house of commons by making a dramatic appearance there. The countess, however, went today to Manchester, and it is understood she had no intention of returning to divide attention with Lady Astor.

The Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, of New York, intends to become a candidate for the first suitable vacancy in parliament, she has been a member of the London city council since last tyear.

Atlanta Police Force May Soon Be Supplied With Steel Helmets

Don't be surprised if you see members of the Atlanta police force answering riot calls in the near future equipped with steel helmets, such as were worn by the doughboys "overseas."

Monday morning Police Chief Beavers received a communication from the war department stating that there was a surplus of perfectly good trench helmets on hand, and it suggested that they might come in handy if worn by police on strike or riot duty—helmets that have warded off shrapnel would prove a good shock absorber for bricks and billies, also bullets.

Chief Beavers was impressed with the proposal, and will submit it to the police commissioners with the recommendation that sufficient helmets be purchased for use of the force.

The helmets weigh two pounds each, and are lined with leather. They are offered to the city at $2.10 each.

The great forest resources of Siberia have been exploited to only a very small extent. The development of the timber industry is essential for the future, if the normal trade of the country is to be restored. It is estimated that there are 810,000,000 acres of timber land in Asiatic Russia, two-thirds of which is accessible for commerical purposes.

IF YOU SUFFER THE TORTURES OF BURNING ITCHING SKIN DISEASES

It's Possible You Can Secure Permanent Relief by the Use of This Prescription Treatment.

When your skin itches, you just must scratch and rub, although you well know that the irritation caused will then but make it more and burn like coals of fire. In addition to the suffering and torture, the glands of the inflamed skin will throw off a watery pus that makes the trouble all the more unbearable.

Mussy and greasy external applications may stop the itching for a while, but as this diseased condition of the skin is usually caused by an impure state of your blood, a real purifier is necessary, for no real relief can be expected until the blood is thoroughly purified—the poisons, that are causing the unbearable skin disease, eliminated entirely.

As a red blood purifier, Plough's Prescription C-2223 has been used for years and years with great success in the treatment of those conditions of the skin due to an impure state of the blood. This concentrated liquid treatment contains certain medicinal ingredients well known to the medical profession which eliminate the poisons causing the trouble, purify the blood and make the skin clear and healthy.

In taking Plough's Prescription C-2223, it is very necessary that the liver be active. A very mild cathartic and liver stimulant is prepared especially for use in connection with the liquid prescription treatment—2223 Liver Pills. Three pills a week are all that will be found necessary to keep the liver and bowels in a healthy condition, thereby assisting the treatment in throwing off the poisons.

Plough's Prescription C-2223 can be found at all good drug stores at $1.50 a bottle; the Pills, 25c a package; or the 2223 Laboratory, Memphis, Tenn., will send both postpaid, on receipt of $1.75.—(adv.)

AMERICAN CHEMISTRY IS RIVALING GERMANY

Washington, December 1.—Indications that the United States soon will be independent, not only of its former enemies, Germany and Austria, but of all other foreign countries in the matter of dyestuffs, synthetic medicinals, optical and window glass, and other commodities were given in the annual report today of the tariff commission.

American manufacturers now have a large output of these goods, all of which were imported before the war, and most of the domestic trade is being satisfied through home production.

The commission recommended appointment of customs officials by the secretary of the treasury instead of the president; freer use of bonded warehouses, and establishment of a system of foreign trade zones to aid American foreign commerce.

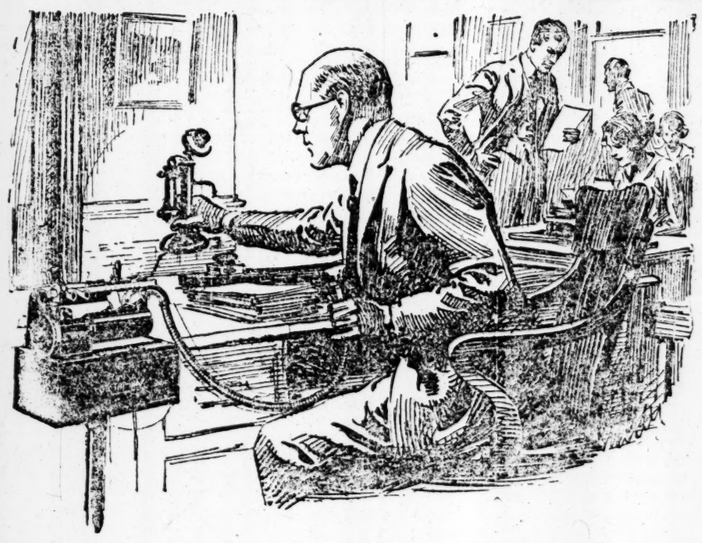

It also urged that in passing tariff and tax laws congress make the measures retroactive to the time they were completed and reported by the house ways and means committee. Such legislation, the report said, would prevent loss of revenue to the government by the wholesale withdrawal of merchandise from bonded warehouses as soon as the character of pending tariff and revenue legislation became known.

With regard to commercial treaties and trade agreements, the report said "the United States should ask no special favors and grant no special favors," and recommend legislation giving the president wide power to penalize countries which refused equality of treatment in trade.

SPRING STREET.

With the county ready to proceed with the work, council has not yet acted on the offer of the county board to regrade and repave Spring street free of cost to the city.

The city is hanging back, hesitating to assume the expense of the necessary preliminary work, and through fear that possibly some close property owner might set up a claim of damages to his property.

The unquestionable benefit to all abutting property by reason of this proposed improvement will be so great that the city has nothing to fear from damages.

Rarely has a property owner been sustained in a claim for damages lodged against the city under similar circumstances.

There have been instances of attempts to collect such alleged damages, but almost invariably they are thrown out of court.

When the Forsyth street viaduct was constructed the owner of a parcel of abutting property claimed heavy damages and brought suit against the city for it. The court held that even if the plaintiff's property was damaged in one way, it was enhanced to many times the extent of any possible damages by reason of the improvement of the thoroughfare.

Damages cannot be collected when it is shown that the claimant's injury is offset by benefit derived by the effect of the process that occasioned it.

But even if there were a reasonable likelihood of the city's having to pay damages to a contentious property owner here and there, it could well afford to assume the liability, because the taxable increase in the city's property values by reason of the improvement would immeasurably exceed the aggregate of the cost of such damages.

The extent to which an improvement project such as that of Spring street enhances property values is indicated by the records covering similar ones in the past.

Taking the Forsyth, Luckie, Ivy and West Peachtree improvements as being typical of what may be expected from the Spring street improvement, the effect upon abutting property valuations was as follows:

Forsyth St.: Increased value of buildings alone, as a direct result of the improvement	$3,125,000.00
Increased value of ground	2,650,000.00
Total increase	$5,775,000.00
Luckie St., from Forsyth St. to Cain St.: Improvements alone	$1,485,000.00
Increased value of land	2,000,000.00
Total increase	$3,485,000.00
Ivy St.: Total value of new improvements	$1,165,000.00
Increased value of land	2,000,000.00
Total increase	$3,165,000.00
West Peachtree: Just begun in 1919. Improvements now going up and contracted for	$1,250,000.00
Increase in land value in twelve months	1,000,000.00
Total increase	$2,250,000.00

The Spring street project means more to the city as a whole than any other street improvement that could possibly be made at this stage of the city's development.

It contemplates the widening, regrading and paving of the street, and eventually the construction of another viaduct over the railroad yards and connecting Spring street with Madison avenue, thus forming a continuous bisecting thoroughfare paralleling Peachtree-Whitehall, Broad, Forsyth and West Peachtree streets, and very materially relieving the congested condition that now prevails in the downtown sections of the city.

The work the county has offered to do is of such vital importance, and means so much in the enhancement of property values in the city and toward the improvement of traffic conditions, that it is unthinkable that council will jeopardize the development by refusing to accept the county's liberal tender.

Instead of hesitating and straining over a question of safeguarding against possible damage claims—and of haggling over the cost of preliminary expenditures, the city should eagerly grasp at the county's generous offer and waste not a day in making arrangements to give the signal "go ahead!"

TIME TO ACT!

While congress, our "constructive" congress, has spent six months making faces at the president and erecting every possible barrier to prevent the ratification of the peace treaty, the country has become honeycombed with nests of anarchists and reds busily engaged in undermining the very foundations of our government.

Some arrests have been made, but the proper machinery for the handling of these menaces to society is missing.

The department of justice is helpless.

On June 14, 1919, Attorney General Palmer appeared before a subcommittee of congress, at its request and outlined the conditions that confronted the country. He recommended that legislation be passed which would make sedition and seditious utterances and publications a crime, whether committed by an individual or by two or more in conspiracy.

Such legislation has never been enacted by congress.

The following startling classes of radical activities, according to the highest legal authority in the United States, cannot be checked by any provisions of the law now on the statute books:

"(1) Those who have assisted to bring about the forcible overthrow of the government of the United States have committed no crime, unless their acts amount to treason, rebellion or seditious conspiracy. This is defined in sections 1, 4 and 6 of the criminal code above quoted.

"(2) The preaching of anarchy and sedition is not a crime under the general criminal statutes of the United States.

"(3) Advising the defiance of law is not a crime under the general criminal laws, whether the same be done by printing and circulating literature or by the spoken word.

"(4) Nor is the advising and openly advocating the unlawful obstruction of industry and the unlawful and violent destruction of property a crime under the United States general statutes."

So surprised were members of congress to learn of the inadequacy of our legal machinery to deal with the defiant group of alien reds and native-born anarchists who are now boldly attacking the spirit and ideals of Americanism that some seventy bills bearing upon the situation were introduced.

But congress has been too all-absorbed in undoing the work of President Wilson and devitalizing the peace treaty to concern itself with happenings at home. So nothing has been done to curb the reds.

There are 22[illegible] radical newspapers published in foreign languages in this country at the present time, and 105 radical newspapers published in the English language. In addition, 144 radical newspapers published in foreign countries are received and distributed to subscribers here.

The I. W. W. now circulates thirteen papers printed in the English language and nineteen papers printed in foreign languages.

The figures on deportation make clear the inadequacy of existing laws. Since February, 1917, only sixty of the seven hundred aliens taken in deportation proceedings have been sent out of the country.

Out of sixty-four alien I. W. W.'s who were arrested in the west last summer and sent to New York, only seven have been deported.

For want of a proper law to prevent it, with the attorney general pleading for help, with seventy bills before it for consideration, will congress continue to dawdle away its time while the enemies within our midst preach their damnable and seditious doctrines undisturbed, and breed nests of poisonous serpents to strike at America and Americans?

THE NEWBERRY CASE

So long as the corrupt practices charges against Truman H. Newberry, United States senator from Michigan, remained in the status of merely personal accusations by the senator's recent opponent at the polls the public paid little more than casual attention to them.

But now that a federal grand jury, after going into them fully, has found indictments, not only against Senator Newberry, but also against 133 of his active co-partisans, charging corruption, fraud and conspiracy, on from two to a dozen different counts, it becomes a matter of nation-wide interest, and one demanding thorough investigation and adjudication by the courts.

The grand jury, whose findings were predicated upon evidence gathered by United States officials, has charged Senator Newberry with having procured his election by corrupting the ballot-box—in short, of having bought, by the expenditure of large sums of money, in violation of both state and federal laws, his seat in the United States senate.

The charges are either true or they are false.

If true, then Mr. Newberry, and all who are charged as being confederates of his in the perpetration of a gigantic conspiracy against public morals, political decency and the democratic form of government, should be punished in a manner befitting the offense. Certainly they should not be left in positions of responsibility or of public confidence, either in the United States senate or anywhere else.

If the charges are not true, then that fact should be established beyond the shadow of doubt, and the character and integrity of those falsely accused should thus be vindicated.

The matter has gone so far now that nothing short of a thorough airing of the whole affair and a fair trial for the accused can satisfy the American public which is interested only in seeing that absolute and impartial justice is done.

Senator Newberry and his co-defendants can reasonably ask nothing more than that; and American public opinion will be satisfied with nothing less.

The perpetuation of the United States government and of the institutions of our democracy is dependent upon the purity of our ballot-box and the integrity of our courts.

Both are involved in this case; and only a fair, clean-cut, open and above-board hearing of the whole affair will be acceptable to the people.

For all the storm, and all the strife
That make the skies seem drear,
Love's standing at the Door of Life
And bids us enter there;
And still sweet memories of Life's spring
Makes all the winter firesides sing.

:: Bits of New York Life ::

By O. O. McINTYRE

New York, December 1.—There are many strange slants to so-called prohibition as it prohibits in New York. For instance the news went zipping up Broadway from Thirty-fourth to the Circle the other afternoon that at 5 o'clock one might secure a famous brand of Scotch for 75 cents a drink. And surely enough the place—a barroom—was jammed. No one was refused and the Scotch was the genuine article. At 6 the sales were stopped.

Why? No one seemed to know. Nobody feared revenue agents or the police for the hour. Two or three times a week the Tenderloin is bristling with these tips and as a result patrons who used to take a drink a day get artistically ossified once, twice or even three times a week.

There is another back room of a saloon I am told where one may get a certain brand of gin only. Gin drinkers crowd the place certain days each week. Why certain days no one seems to understand. But that is the way it is worked. Away up in Harlem there is still another saloon where, the rumor goes, one may get beer of more than the masonic 2.75 per cent.

So it is that the man who really and truly knows his New York is in great demand. He may pilot a party from old-fashioned beer places to those ornate little private apartments on select streets where champagne is opened at $60 a throw. O yes! A champagne party is a cinch in Manhattan if you have a bank roll with a big bulge.

People who think life is drab without [illegible] getting [illegible] they want just now. If graft comes that is a different matter. Many are even planning for that eventuality by selling their homes and household effects preparatory to removing to Cuba or France. Auction salesrooms are jammed with rare bargains and the auctioneers declare they belong to people who believe that existence would be utterly futile without liquor.

Mr. "Jimmy" Montague, editorial writer for The Illustrated News in New York, resigned the other day. The next day The News began advertising for a new editorial writer. Says the ad: "Our editorial writer has resigned and on account of the war and immigration laws editorial writers are hard to get this year and terribly independent. There was a time when help of this kind was glad to get $9 a week and do all their work contentedly in a little coop under the iron stairs between the third and fourth floors. But those days are gons forever. May the gods blow this appeal into the hands of the man we are looking for. Address W. H. Field, The News, 25 City Hall Place, New York City."

At the Ritz the other day over a luncheon table a naval officer told a corking story about Admiral Sims when he was in command in English waters. It was a heavy, foggy night. Every boat was fog bound. About midnight there came a wireless to the admiral from a ship's officer reading:

"Am fog-bound. Shall I proceed to next port or return?"

The admiral, being fog-bound himself, could not help but smile at the stupid message. So he sent this reply: "Yes."

In a short while this message came: "Think you misunderstood my message. Am fog-bound. Shall I proceed to next port or return?"

To this the admiral replied: "No."

Some writers have all the luck. Arthur Somers Roche, after completing two novels and some movie scenarios, took a part of the spoils and left on the Adriatic with Mrs. Roche for a sojourn in London and Paris. On the boat was George Broadhurst. Around the bridge table one afternoon Broadhurst suggested that Roche write a play for him. Two days later he handed Broadhurst the synopsis. Broadhurst in turn handed him $11,000 advance. And a movie magnate on board gave a $500 check for the movie rights—thus defraying Mr. Roche's steamer expenses both ways.

Last Night's Dreams; What They Mean

Did You Dream of Children?

Nearly all those who claim to be versed in the affairs of Dreamland declare the dreamchild to be a blessing. There are others—a few old cynics—who seem to look upon dream-children from the viewpoint of a modern landlord of the actual world. According to the majority it is a good omen to hear or see many children laughing and playing about the house of dreams. The little ones will bring you success and if you join in the play there is much happiness in store for you, especially if you have no children of your own. To the childless married and to the unmarried the dream-child brings all the happiness and good fortune which actual children ought to and frequently do not bring their parents. Girls are thought to be a luckier omen than boys, but both mean good fortune—and be sure to play with them if possible.

It is not necessary, however, to dream of seeing children in order to be fortunate; though for a generally all-round good luck dream there should be many of them. To dream of a single child means, if you are married, that one is soon to be born to you. If the child is pretty, great pleasure and considerable good fortune await you. If the child is ugly the omen is not so favorable.

If you have a child and dream of seeing one in illness it is a warning to you to look more carefully and with better judgment after your child's health. This is the generally accepted rule regarding dream-children.

The old grouches on the other hand say that to dream of talking with a lot of children means losses and to see a child at its mother's breast, illness if you are not more careful of your health. However, the lovers of the dream-child are in a great majority.

"MOTHER O' MINE."

I have been thinking about the great unrest in the world. And I have been believing that a lot of it would be cured—if only a great crowd of new mothers might be imported into the world!

For, you see, a mother is able to cure most everything.

From the little tot who bumps his head and gets a great big fat "tiss" that immediately heals it, to the strong man who goes to his work in life, after the benediction of a mother's kiss, so does this marvelous influence mold and make worth while every effort that a human being is able to perform.

It's the "Mother o' Mine" thought that embodies the noblest impulses of which we are capable.

I have in mind a wonderful mother, who sent her boy out into the world with these words: "My boy—come back somebody!"

Through the winding paths and ways of strife and pain and sorrow, as well as of joy, does the spirit of a mother follow and lead. A mother never runs out of love or forgiveness—or anything that is helpful.

Long years ago did my mother go away. But she comes back with the opening of every day—to tell me what to do. And all that I am of wisdom or of good, I feel that I owe most to her.

"Mother o' Mine"—you look so beautiful to me—where you are! The stars keep telling me about you.

Says Senator Smith Presents Sorry Spectacle

Editor Constitution: Thousands of Senator Hoke Smith's former supporters feel humiliated at his ugly record since the United States entered the war.

With no influence with the democratic administration or his democratic colleagues, he now presents the sorry spectacle of crossing over to the republican camp and intriguing against the party that has honored him.

Senator Smith has been unfaithful and the great body of his former friends keenly feel and regret it.

AFTER THE STORM

I.

It came—the Storm—and swept the earth
With awful fury, ceaseless strife;
Strength me tstrength in combat fierce;
A storm composed of human life.
But, suddenly, the storm-winds broke,
The fighting force away was hurled,
A hush descended on the earth—
A peaceful calm upon the world.

II

The Tempest past, the workers come
A world anew to build and plan;
Upon the broken wrecks and ruins
To build a structure that will stand.
Why do we doubt? Why do we fear?
Why are we idle now so long?
Does not the God who sends the storm
Send builders, too, to right the wrong?

III

On broken ruins great cities rise
Still greater than the past they are
From broken lives great men emerge.
No ruined past their lives to mar.
Then let us face the light ahead
And work that doubts away be hurled.
A God is in the universe
From ruins to build a brighter world.

Charles D. Walcott, who has been elected an associate of the French Academy of Science, is well known in scientific circles in America as secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, a position he has held since 1907. Dr. Walcott's international eminence rests on his research and discoveries in the field of geology and paleonthology, carried on while serving the United States government in various responsible posts. Thus he entered the geological survey many years ago, and, step by step, rose to be its head in 1894. For a time he was in charge of the National museum and secretary of the Smithsonian museum. From 1902 to 1905 he served as secretary of the Carnegie institution, with its headquarters in Washington. When the federal reclamation service was being organized and made operative he was put in charge. He has received degrees from many universities at home and abroad and has been honored with membership in the great learned societies of the world.

If the Spiritualists Really Think They Can Bring Back Departed Spirits

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

The Barber Surgeon.

Long centuries ago we barbers were all doctors and we doctors were all barbers—barber surgeons. We doctors knew just as much as the barbers knew about the treatment of the ills flesh was to become heir to later in history. We bled people for everything. Today we still bleed them for nothing more than a shave or a prescription, as the case may be.

A barber's wife takes me to task for picking on the barber and ignoring those doctors who neglect personal asepsis and the sanitation of their offices and homes.

The woman's wrath is righteous there.

I mean to pick on the barber surgeons of today.

A barber cuts your hair or shaves your jowl and he is all through. A barber surgeon young or old to treat you for baldness, dandruff, eczema, cancer, "ingrowing hair," furuncles, syphilis, warts, herpes or whatever he thinks is the matter with you is always has a remarkably efficacious remedy at hand for just such cases as yours—if you look good to him.

Soap in the form of lather is a pretty good antiseptic which stands between the barber's hands or implements and your face. Nothing better as an antiseptic application to the face or scalp than lather. One need have little fear of a barber's shave provided——Provided the barber keeps hands and implements off your skin when he is through shaving. When he yearns to dig for what he calls an "ingrowing hair" or "wild hair"—though of course there is no such thing—you are in danger. If you let him try his barber-surgeon skill on you, there is a big chance that you will develop septicemia—blood poisoning. Makes no difference whether he "uses anticeptics" or not.

And this is the vital point.

A man had a number of small wart-like papules on his cheek and neck. A barber-surgeon got him one day. Snipped off the largest of the warts, and then applied a stick of caustic—such a dangerous practice that it is prohibited by law in at least one state. A week later the poor victim was in serious condition from septicemia.

The readiness with which people entrust their physical welfare to barbers, hair dressers and self-commended beauty experts is amazing to anyone who knows the risks involved. It seems difficult for some minds to comprehend that the cutting out of a corn or a wart or any trifling opening of the skin armor is far more likely to permit infection and subsequent septicemic poisoning than is a large, bleeding wound.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Leave the Wax in the Ear.

Kindly tell me the proper way to care for the ear, how to remove the ear wax, and how often. I read your articles and answers regularly with the greatest interest and instruction. (C. J. A.)

ANSWER—Do not attempt to remove the wax from the ear. Never insert anything in the ear canal. Wash the ears externally as you wash your face. Should ear wax become hard and plug the canal, causing deafness (perhaps suddenly after water enters the ear in bathing), ear noises, harsh brassy irritable cough, unexplained dizziness or inflammation, it becomes a task for your physician to remove it. The only effort safe for the victim of such a condition to make is syringing, using a fountain or similar gravity syringe, directing a stream of comfortably warm water in the ear canal, but not inserting the nozzle in the canal. A tablespoonful of saleratus dissolved in the water aids in softening and loosening the plugs of ear wax. If the syringing fails to bring away the plug in one mass or large fragments, do not dig at the ear. Serious injury and painful suffering are likely to follow if you do. That is a doctor's job.

The Wassermann Blood Test.

Is a Wassermann blood test a certain test for syphilis? Might a negative result be obtained where the person really has the disease? If the Wassermann test cannot be relied upon, is there a test that can? (P. O. R.)

ANSWER—The Wassermann test is not a certain or infallible test, merely corroborational of the doctor's opinion. A negative reaction is often obtained in a case of undoubted symphilis, especially after a course or vigorous treatment. The Wassermann test is the most nearly infallible test we have, other than the opinion of the physician, which is always the important criterion. One would be very foolish to rely upon the Wassermann test alone, without regard for the opinion of the physician who knows the history of the case and the patient's present condition. The Wassermann test may be positive in conditions other than syphilis, although the patient's physician would rarely have difficulty in ruling out other conditions.

The Immortality of the Unknown

BY NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS

Long ago Sir Thomas Brown raised the question as to whether history is just in making much of a few men, and ignoring many others. There is a kind of iniquity in the oblivion that overtakes some of the most useful persons who have ever lived. This author even thinks that persons have been utterly forgotten who are just as wonderful in their gifts and achievements as those who receive a large space in the history of their time. The progress of the world owes much to unrecorded acts, and to the fidelity of multitudes who sleep in unvisited graves. Some say that no Shakespeare ever grew up, but has been heard from. But Sir Thomas Brown is certain that many a youth who was bit with genius was "fettered, cabined and confined," injured in health and broken in spirit, and went toward the grave full of undigged gold. We, too, have known unfulfilled prophesies.

Carlyle explained human progress by great men. He held "the great man theory" of history. Each new epoch was ushered in by a new hero. This was the way Carlyle explained the fact that the early peoples made gods of their great leaders. The old Testament story put the whole philosophy in a nutshell. When the city was besieged and the enemy threatened the walls, and the people were in terror lest the town be looted, David was about to go forth into the battle. But the people stood around him, and shouted "Thou shalt not go forth. Thou art worth 10,000 to us!" The occasional man counts. Nothing is lost by confession that we are inferior to Paul and Dante, Shakespeare and Cromwell. Find fault with these leaders as you may, the simple fact is that they led by sheer force of personality; they blazed the trail through the wilderness, and actually reached the promised land.

Society is built cell by cell after the fashion of the coral reef. Each living cell leaves its deposit behind. Slowly the coral rises out of the depth of the ocean. Wonderful as it may seem, towns and cities rest upon, as it were, the bones of these tiny little creatures. Long ages came and passed, and still the coral reef wears its garland and crown of green, and becomes the home of men and cities. Not otherwise were built the pyramids, though the name of kings and architects and contractors, with all the workmen, have perished in a common grave. The founders of the old cities of today are unknown. Who can mention the name of the man who invented the alphabet? Who gave us the ten digits? Who discovered the arch? What blacksmith invented the damascus blade? Who found out the mariner's compass? There are 10,000 other achievements just as wonderful, but we do not know to what name we are indebted for the wonderful gifts. Life has been kept sweet and sane and made worth while by an innumerable company of unknown heroes. What would one not give to be able to thank the literary masters—Wadsworth, Ruskin, Burke, Macaulay—for their gifts? But we have thousands of gifts and we know not to whom we should send our gratitude. Socrates had his dream about entering the court of genius, and, in leaving, meeting all the good and the great. He looked forward to the long evenings of good talk with Homer and Hesiod, with Ulysses and Thesius. There were a thousand questions he wished to ask them. Sometimes the voices of the great boomed in his ears like the statues of rare holiness, and one of the first things Socrates intended to do after dying, was to see the author of the one and the sculptor of the other. Some immortal deeds are anonymous, but all noble achievements are memorable. Soon or late the soul will receive the freedom of the universe, and flare forth in search of its own. Fame here, therefore, is a trifle, and reputation is a bubble, but all good work beyond will shine as the stars, and be memorable forever.

13th Are You Superstitious?

By IMOGENE BURCH

Superstitions of the Movies.

They are most superstitious about their baggage. An actor who loses a piece of luggage that has been shipped to the section of the country where a particular picture is to be taken is certain that the picture will be a failure. An amusing incident is told of a well-known group of cinema actors who had packed all their personal effects in trunks and were bound for the upper mountain regions not far away from Hollywood, Cal. One of the actresses made a trip to the baggage car to feed a pet collie which she was taking with her when she noticed that one of the trunks belonging to an ingenue of the company had a rope around it. Now a rope around a trunk is considered the essence of bad luck to movie folk. There was nothing to do but to break the malignant charm. So the trunk was moved to the door of the baggage car and very unceremoniously pushed off the train.

Ethel Clayton is extremely superstitious about a certain rug which she brought with her from Japan. After she had bought the rug the merchant who sold it to her had a prick of conscience and warned her that he had sold her an evil rug and urged her to beware. When she returned to her Hollywood home she was in the midst of settling her abode when her family and servants were startled by a loud crash. When they arrived on the scene the star was prostrate on the floor. The fall had broken her nose in two places. And the cause of it was the "evil rug," which had been rolled up in the corner of her living room, and which she claims rose up and properly tripped her. Probably she merely fell over it, but however the method of approach, she is still superstitious about the "evil rug."

Another moving picture actress who is exceedingly superstitious is Theda Bara. Producing companies say that she has never signed a contract without first consulting a medium.

AMERICAN OFFICERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Tonight citizens of Atlanta and vicinity who were commissioned officers during the war will meet at 8 o'clock in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce to perfect the organization of a local chapter of the American Officers of the Great War. All ex-officers, whether members of the society or not, are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

This society of officers, the national headquarters of which are in Detroit, Mich., is the only nation-wide officers' organization which includes officers of every branch of the army, navy and marine corps who served in the great war.

Tonight is the time set for the organization of chapters in practically every important city from coast to coast, and tomorrow will see the "American Officers," as the society is commonly known, firmly established on a national scale and taking its place in the fabric of our nation alongside the other two great societies of American officers—the Society of Cincinnati (revolutionary war) and the Loyal Legion (civil war).

Broad Principles.

Many civilians and, indeed, some officers, are now hearing for the first time of this great national society. The American Officers is founded on such broad principles of Americanism and patriotic service and holds such potential usefulness both to its members and to the country that its membership has already swept the whole country until there remains hardly any semi-important town or city which is not represented on its roster.

The American Officers brings the members into closer social contact with each other.

It provides a means of concerted efficient action on a national scale in regards to the many important matters concerning which ex-officers are most familiar and are best fitted to advise. It is the clearing house through which 300,000 of the most highly trained, intelligent men of our nation may express the consensus of their opinions upon matters of national, state or local importance.

Stabilizing Influence.

This organization will be a stabilizing influence at a time when the business interests of the country are most in need of such forces.

The American Officers is likened to the Society of Cincinnati, formed in 1783 at the close of the revolutionary war. George Washington was the first president of that society and held office until his death.

A large attendance is expected at the meeting tonight and the committee on arrangements reports that there is now no doubt that a sufficient membership will be obtained tonight to enable the local officers to make application for a chapter here. Every ex-officer of the army, navy and marine corps who served during the great war is cordially invited to attend.

ONLY ONE ESCAPED PRISONER IS TAKEN

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Only one of the seven convicts who escaped from the Roff Home camp last Monday has been recaptured and he gave himself up voluntarily. That the convicts had outside air is pretty well established, according to Superintendent T. A. Wimbish, who says he has evidence money was paid to some outside party and that the iron doors through which the seven men escaped were unlocked from the outside. All of the prisoners wore shackles and they could not have gone far without assistance. All of the escapes were negroes and two of them were serving long sentences for felonies.

KHORASSAN PRINCE LAUDS CITY'S GROWTH

"I had no idea that a city could change so much in a few years as Atlanta has," exclaimed Henry W. Nice, imperial prince of the Knights of Khorassan, who is in Atlanta on an official visit in connection with the order. "The statement that Atlanta is the New York of the South is certainly true beyond a doubt."

Mr. Nice arrived in Atlanta Monday morning and will leave today for Cincinnati. He plans to be in Baltimore, his home city, in time to spend Christmas.

This is the first visit Mr. Nice has paid to Atlanta in sixteen years. On his former visits there was only Mr. Nice, but now there is also Mrs. Nice, formerly Miss Edna Amos, of Atlanta, and she is also quite loud in her praise of Atlanta's growth.

Mr. Nice's southern trip has included cities in Florida, Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina and he reports a wonderful interest in the work of the Knights of Khorassan, which is the shrine of the Knights of Pythias. He is very enthusiastic over the ritual of the order and says that it is beyond doubt the finest thing which has come to his notice. In addition to being the highest officer in this organization Mr. Nice is at present the state's attorney in Baltimore. He has been quite prominent in republican politics in his home state and was a candidate for governor in the last gubernatorial election. The democratic majority in Maryland is between sixty and seventy thousand and the election returns showed that Mr. Nice had been defeated by a majority of one hundred and sixty votes.

Mr. Nice was met at the Peachtree station by a reception committee from the local lodge and escorted to the Piedmont hotel, after which he was taken for an auto ride over the city which ended at the Capital City club, where he was entertained with a luncheon party. Monday afternoon was spent in driving through the Druid Hills section and Mr. Nice expressed his amazement at the growth of this section of the city from time to time.

"When I was here before," he said, "there was no such thing as the Druid Hills section. This was all open country and to see those fine homes and apartment houses certainly does speak well for the industry and growth of your city."

Mr. Nice addressed the members of the Kibla Temple at a special ceremonial on Monday night, following an initiation of a class of forty members. Mrs. Nice was the guest of the wives of several prominent Atlantans at a theater party on Monday. They will depart today for Cincinnati.

MACON TO RESIST ORDER OF 48-HOUR WEEK IN FACTORIES

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Macon business men in conference here this evening decided to enter a vigorous protest against the section of the regional coal committee's order which limits manufacturing concerns to a 48-hour week. Telegrams were sent to Senators Smith and Harris and Congressman Wise asking that the matter be taken up with the proper authorities with a view to having the order rescinded.

All other features of the order will be observed and an ordinance will be passed at the meeting of city council tomorrow night making the terms of the order a city law. Objection to the section of the order limiting manufacturing plants of the southeast to forty-eight hours each week is based chiefly on the fact that Macon has nine cotton mills employing 6,000 people, 1,200 of whom will be thrown out of work entirely and serious curtailment of the pay of the remaining 4,800 will result.

Responsibility for the carrying out of the terms of the committee's order in Macon has been placed on the shoulders of the Macon Railway and Light company, the company being expected to report violations of the order under penalty of having its coal supply cut off. The company now has only a month's supply on hand. It is understood S. C. Dusenbury, agent for the Central of Georgia railway in Macon will be appointed fuel administrator for this city.

Curtailment of passenger train service is imminent this week, it is understood. Less important trains will be taken off. The Central of Georgia has only twenty five days supply of coal on hand. Mayor Woodruff will go to Atlanta tomorrow to take up with the regional committee the matter of modifications of the committee's order.

AMERICANISM

"BUILD, BUILD, BUILD!"

Over the terraces of history there has rolled downward to the people of today the crystal globe of truth that every country's period of solid development—building—has been its era of national power and happy peaceful citizenship. Internecine strife always has followed an interruption in the process of building, where that process had reached a stage of grandeur. Splendor is a thing of discontent to the common people—who multiply constantly—unless they be kept busy increasing that splendor for their own wholesome glory and comfort. Theories are worthless in the face of this unyielding rule of history. Defying the great truth nation after nation has been crushed into earth as the crystal globe has rolled onward. Prosperity in its worst form is no more dangerous than a long interruption in the program of development.

That principle is the main artery of this narrative.

A MODEL

This story of Troup County in the World War is offered for the approval of the people of Georgia, with the hope that it will awaken sufficient public interest to enable the author to complete a similar history, in essential substance, for the state at large and all of its counties. Extracts from wide editorial comment:

The value of such a record, preserved in historical form, would increase with age. . . . The enthusiasm, ability and well-known resourcefulness of Mr. Jones, etc.—Atlanta Constitution.

A compilation in the proper way, by men skilled and earnest in their work, of all this state has done in war work and war contributions of every sort will be invaluable. If it is necessary in some way to subsidize it there will be found men patriotic and ready enough to help out in that respect.—Macon Daily Telegraph.

Such a work is, or will be, needed in order that a valuable record of Georgia's part in the great war may be preserved.—Telfair Enterprise.

TROUP AND TRIUMPH

A narrative of patriotic service, showing how a faithful people—capitalists and laborers, hand in hand—through abundant sacrifices gained those happy conditions of peace and progress, industrial and otherwise, to which the discordant world aspires. "This war means more than the destruction of Prussian autocracy; it means the CONSTANT CONSTRUCTION of a greater America. A nation's greatness is measured by its own people."

"The high ideals of advanced civilization have made America prosperous. God's natural sunshine has made America's fields to blossom, but God's sunshine of Democracy has made fruitful the minds of the men who cultivated them. So with the channels of commerce and the wheels of industry."

"This is a Land of the Free—but, too, our forefathers have called it the Home of the Brave. The lowest of us must recognize the truths that blessings should inspire gratitude; that freedom is a duty to the extent that it is a privilege; that government is a responsibility equally great; and that liberty demands the highest obligation in the blood and life of her people."

Mme. Schumann-Heink To Draw Large Crowd At Recital on Monday

The audience which is to hear Ernestine Schumann-Heink at the Auditorium-Armory next Monday evening will rival that which attended the recital of Fritz Kreisler recently, if the opening sale of seats which began Monday morning at the Cable Piano company, is to be used as a criterion.

Hundreds of music lovers, eager to hear again this most marvelous figure in the whole concert world, thronged the ticket booth during the morning securing early reservations for the concert. The unwavering popularity of the artist was witnessed on every side by those who waited for seats to hear her.

The inclusion in her program of several songs which are known to all her admirers, as announced Sunday, met with their especial approval, while many were eager to hear such songs as "When Pershing's Men Go Marching Into Picardy," which the prima donna has sung hundreds of times in the cantonments to inspire the men who were in training for service overseas.

The presence of Frank LaForge as accompanist and piano soloist is also creating much favorable comment, since many music lovers consider this American pianist of such importance and to hear for his own art alone.

The concert is given as the third in the civic concert series of the Atlanta Music Study club. The popular prices which have ruled in the Hempel and Kreisler concerts will be continued for Schumann-Heink. There are a thousand balcony seats at 50 cents.

DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR--- LOOK YOUNG

You may feel young, but that gray, faded, stringy hair betrays you. Most folks judge by "looks," and that is the reason you have been shunned my the younger set. They think you are too old for them.

Nothing makes you look old and haggard like lifeless, thin, faded or gray hair. You might have the best of health physically, but your gray hair robs you of enjoying it because it puts you in the old folks' class.

You don't have to go through life with this disadvantage by being gray haired. Q-Ban (pronounced Ku-Ban) Hair Color Restorer is making thousands happy by bringing the beautiful dark color of their youth back to their hair; and making it full, evenly dark, long and soft. Not a sign of gray shows after they use it a few days. You then look young and attractive again.

"Q-Ban" Hair Color Restorer is a clean liquid that any one can easily apply to their hair and scalp in the privacy of their room. Absolutely harmless, no dye, no trouble, already fully prepared. You can stop all other hair color restorers and use Q-Ban as it is the best and is healthy for scalp and hair. Stops dandruff and falling hair. Directions with each bottle. Do Suffragists Waltz Well?

By Isma Dooly.

"I approve of the principle of woman's suffrage and for my part I hope to see women given the right to vote on all political questions, but I hope they won't try to bring the suffrage spirit into waltzing," was the rather remarkable statement made by a well known clubman at a ball recently.

"I think women are being better posted nearly every day day on public questions," he continued. "They co-operate splendidly with men in their every undertaking, and they take the initiative in many things and carry it on successfully, but there is just one thing they cannot lead in and 'put it over' successfully and that is the round dances, in which we indulge when we are out on pleasure bent.

"When a man and a women get out on the ballroom floor togther, it makes no difference how well either one of them dances, one must take the lead and certainly it seems to me the logical thing is for the man to do.

"He has the position of protector and leader, and she connot possibly lead without making it awkard for both.

His position gives him the guiding movement and it is only if she follows his lead and moves with him, that the harmony of the dance is possible. If she begins to try to lead him her way, or draw him into some step, she thinks is the best, there is going to be confusion then and there. He will be unable to protect her against the people dancing around them, and the result will be that neither he nor she will enjoy the dance or even dance correctly."

No man or woman who knows the art of dancing can doubt the philosophy of this argument.

Even if a man is behind in the new steps; even if he cannot do the little new steps; and even if he does not hold a woman in the latest fashion, the ballroom floor is not the place to give him a lesson. Just let him have this little performance his own way; try to follow his lead, and keep in time with the music; then and then only can the pleasure of the occasion be even partically realized.

When a woman tries to lead in some new step, she makes a man feel he is behind the times. He is not dancing to give a performance either of his dancing or ihs physical grace. He is dancing for pleasure, and he knows the way he has learned and dancing that way, he knows that he can at least protect his partner, even if he can't give a benefit performance with her. The philosophy, as the man says, is not to bring suffrage into the waltz; when it comes to taking the lead or taking the perogative in this little matter of protection.

Women have more time to learn the new steps, than men have and they are more ambitious about knowing the art, but the only way to get men similarly interested, and to get them to learn to dance the new things is not to make a "bug bear" of it, but to get them into classes when they are not "on parade," and when their short comings are not going to be exploited.

Beauty Chats

BY EDNA KENT FORBES

Hairdressing

Some of the hardest questions that I have to answer are those about new and becoming ways to dress the hair. It is almost impossible to advise a girl how to dress her hair when there is nothing to go by but a vague and general description.

All I can ever do is to give a few general directions and perhaps describe some new style of combing the hair. The first rule, of course, would be to avoid exaggerated styles. The second rule is, unless your features are classically perfect, comb the hair away from the face so that the lines of the hair do not droop.

Concerning the finishing off of the hair, a safe rule to go by is to make a soft loose knot, neither too large nor too small, and placed on the back of the head about as you see it in the picture.

There is a new way of combing the hair which has attained great popularity recently among fashionably dressed women. The hair should be very slightly waved to get the best effect. Part the hair at the left side and brush smoothly back over the shoulders. Take a small amount of hair from the very back of the head and twist into a firm little knot to act as a foundation; then comb back the hair on the left side of the head, covering the knot in back, turn under the ends and pin firmly to your "foundation." Comb back all the hair on the right side of the head, keeping it loose enough to bring over the forehead and the cheek so as to make a soft outline; bring all this over the knot in back, turn under the ends and pin firmly. As a finish, comb through the hair lightly with the fine-tooth end of the comb; this gives that smooth, "tailored" finish which professional hairdressers attain.

The marriage of Miss Georgia Briggs and Mr. John E. Oliver, which took place in New York on Saturday, will be of great interest to their host of friends.

The ceremony was solemnized at high noon; only the members of the family and close friends of the young couple were present.

Miss Briggs was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Matt Briggs, and Mr. George Brown, Jr., of Atlanta, was Mr. Oliver's best man. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver left immediately after the ceremony for a short trip to the middle west.

Mrs. Oliver is a brunette type of unusual attractiveness and charm, and was always one of Atlanta's most popular young women, as well as a favorite at Lucy Cobb, where she attended school and graduated.

Mr. Oliver is a graduate of Georgia university, a member of the Chi Phi fraternity, and a member of the Georgia Savings and Trust company.

After December 10 Mr. and Mrs. Oliver will be at home with Mr. Oliver's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Oliver, on Peachtree street.

Local Hotel Men To Attend Annual Meeting in Macon

More than twenty hotel men from Atlanta will attend the thirteenth annual meeting of the Georgia Hotel Men's association, which will be held in Macon Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Most of the delegation will leave Thursday morning at 7:50 o'clock on the Central of Georgia railway, and return Friday night. The meeting opens with a reception and registration at 9 a. m. Thursday, eastern time. This will be held at headquarters at Hotel Lanier. At noon a complimentary luncheon will be given at Hotel Lanier by T. W. Hooks, manager, and following that, the opening session will be held.

W. C. Royer, of the Piedmont hotel, of Atlanta, is president of the state association, and Fred Houser, of Atlanta, is secretary-treasurer. C. A. Creighton, of the Ansley, as chairman of the executive committee, has one of the most responsible positions in the association.

Among Atlanta men who have announced their intention of going are the following: H. A. Tisdel, W. C. Royer, C. A. Creighton, J. N. Couch, J. Lee Barnes, James F. DeJarnette, J. E. Raley, Bruno Bukofzer, A. R. Mocdonough, Galvin, C. L. Dinkler and Fred Houser.

The annual address of the president, W. C. Royer, will be given Thursday afternoon. At this session J. E. Raley, of Atlanta, will appear on the program in an address on the sugar situation in Georgia, and Charles Loridans, president of the Southern Ferro Concrete company, of Atlanta, will talk on hotel building. Charles A. George, manager of Hotel Dempsey, will be host at the annual banquet Thursday night.

"Relationship of Good Roads to Hotels," will be the subject discussed at the Friday morning session by Frank Reynolds, secretary of the Georgia State Automobile association, of Atlanta. Following this, J. Lee Barnes, southern states director of the Hotel Men's association, and manager of the Piedmont house, of Atlanta, will speak. The last address of the morning will be made by Fred Houser, vice president of the state of Georgia. Complimentary luncheon will be given the men at Killkare farm, the country home of Lamar M. Rossign, manager of the Macon hotel, where an oyster roast will be held.

Leyden Appointed.

Anniston, Ala., December 1.—(Special.)—Judge Charles F. Leyden, advertising manager of The Anniston Star, has been appointed by Governor Kilby as a member of the state board of public accountancy, and has accepted the appointment. Judge Leyden will continue his duties on The Star, as the state position does not require his removal from Anniston. Judge Leyden managed Governor Kilby's campaign in Calhoun county.

The Rug s the Thing

As an accompaniment and setting for the beautiful old-fashioned furniture which we all secretly crave, whether we admit it or not, I don't know anything else that gives just the quaint atmosphere that an old braided rag rug affords. Or a new braided rag rug, for that matter. And the reason I say "new" is because they are quite easily made at home, out of the odds and ends of gingham denim, chambray, cotton poplin and other materials left from the summer frocks or hangings, or, if silk is wanted, from the remains of old silk suits and coats, draperies and curtains. That these scraps, helped out perhaps by a few yards of solid colors of some sort, can be turned into a demure round or oval mat that wrings an exclamation of delight from every one who enters the room is only another of the little miracles of home-making.

Truly, the rug s the thing in a room of this sort—filled with soul-satisfying mahogany. And here is the way the rug is made: Cut the material into bias strips about an inch or an inch and a half wide, sewing them together to form a long piece as long as needed. If smooth edges are wanted the strips must be sewed together into a flat tube, but if the rough "raggedy" edges are preferred the strips are left open.

After these lengths are finished braid them together as flat as possible with either two or three strands in the braid, according to the color scheme chosen and the thickness of the strands. When the braids have been completed they can be basted to a large sheet of heavy manila paper and sewed together at the sides, care being taken to keep the braided strips flat. In a "hit or miss" rug all the colors and patterns are braided in together with a sort of regularity, however so that the color is evenly distributed [illegible] ated material or [illegible] stripes, plaid gingahams and seersuckers are blended with solid blue linen, black serge, yellow chambray in an all-over design that is amazingly lovely. Plain unbleached muslin may be dyed to just the color needed if there are no pieces to be had for the solid colors.

A rug braided in round or oval concentric rings is made in the same way except that braids of solid color are sewed together. Black, dull blue and "hit or miss" strips in figured material make attractive stripes. These stripes should be of about the same width surrounding center spot of solid color.

The Further Adventures of Jimmie Dale

And then, besides, there was another reason for [illegible] Colonel Mirford and his wife would probably be at dinner now, and that left the upstairs part of the house at his disposal, since, apart from the elderly couple, the household consisted, according to the Tocsin, of only a single maid. He went over in his mind again the plan the Tocsin had drawn. Yes, she was quite right, there should be no danger, the whole matter as far as he was concerned was almost childishly simple and easy—if he were only in time. He shook his head a little impatiently at that, also, as he saw that they were approaching his destination, consulted his watch. It was exactly twelve minutes after seven.

The car rolled up to the curb in front of the fashionable family hotel. Jimmie Dale alighted.

"I shall not need you any more tonight, Benson," he said.

He walked quietly into the hotel, through the lobby, down a corridor, and out of the entrance that gave on the cross street—then his pace quickened. He traversed the block, crossed the road, turned the corner, and a minute later was approaching the house she had designated. It was one of a row. His pace slowed to a nonchalant stroll again. It was still quite light, and he was by no means the only pedestrian on the street, a moment's preliminary, even a cursory, examination of the exterior would not be amiss. Counting the numbers ahead of him he had already located the house. He frowned a little. A light burned in the upstairs front room. There was a light in the lower hallway as well, but that was to be expected. Why the one upstairs? Had the colonel and Mrs. Mirford already finished their dinner?

Jimmie Dale [illegible]ed the house—and casually, without hesitation, mounted the steps—and quite as casually, all in pretense of finding the electric bell, opened the unlocked outer door, stepped into the vestibule, and, without a sound now, closed the door behind him.

He tried the inner door tentatively. It was locked, of course—but it was locked only for an instant. From the girdle under his vest came a little steel instrument; there was a faint, almost inaudible, protesting snap from the interior of the lock, and, his fingers turning the knob with a steady, silent pressure, he opened the door lightly.

Crouched there, he listened. And then, a shade of relief flickering on his lips, he pushed the door open, and slipped into the hallway. The explanation of the light upstairs was that it had probably been left burning inadvertently. They were still at dinner, for he could hear voices from the dining room at the rear of the hall.

As silent as a shadow now, Jimmie Dale, closing the inside door, moved across the hall, and went up the stairs. On the landing he paused; and then advanced cautiously. The light streamed out from the open door of the front room, and there was always the possibility that—no, a glance from where he stood close against the wall at the edge of the door jamb, showed him that the room was unoccupied.

He entered the room quickly, crossed quickly to a quaint old escritoire against the opposite wall, and stooped beside it. The lower right-hand drawer, she had said. The little steel instrument with which he had opened the vestibule door was still in his hand, but he did not use it now! Indeed, with a low, dismayed ejaculation, as his fingers ran along the drawer edge, he dropped on his knees for a closer examination—and his lips closed tightly together.

He was too late! The first finger touch had told him that, and now his eyes corrobrated it. The drawer had been forced by a jimmy of some sort, judging from the indentations in the wood. The lock was broken, and he pulled the drawer open. Inside lay the steel bonding box, its lid bent back, and wrenched and twisted out of shape. The box was empty.

Without disturbing the box, Jimmie Dale mechanically closed the drawer again and stood up, looking around him. In a subconscious way, when he had entered the room, he had been cognizant of a certain strangeness in its appointments, but then his mind had ben centered only on the work in hand; now there seemed a sort of pitiful congruity in the surroundings themselves and in the old heirloom that had been stolen. It seemed as though the room spoke to him of past glories. The furniture was out-of-date, and, too, a little in disrepair. It [illegible] clung about it the pride and station of other days, a station that it was finding it hard to maintain in these. And he thought he understood. It was a fine old family, that of the Milfords of Louisiana, a very proud old family in the way that its sons were gentlemen, proud of its loyalty to its own traditions and standards, a pride that neither condition nor adversity could mar. And now the diamond pendant was gone! He could well understand how they had clung to that, and——

He started suddenly. Was he a fool, that he had wasted even a moment in giving play to his thoughts! Voices were reaching him now from below, footsteps were sounding from the lower hall, there was a creak upon the stairs. They were coming!

He had hardly any need for the quick, searching glance he flung around him—the plan that the Tocsin had drawn was mapped out vividly in his mind. He stepped backward softly through half-opened folding doors into the room in the rear. From this room a door, he knew, opened into the hallway. His escape, after all, need give him little concern. He had only to step out into the hall after they passed, and make his way downstairs. A woman's voice from the stairway came to him:

"Unless it was you," a man's voice answered in good-humored banter. "You were the last one in the room."

"But I am sure I didn't!" the feminine tone asserted positively.

The steps passed along the hall, and from behind the folding doors Jimmie Dale saw an elderly couple enter the front room. Both were in evening dress—and somehow, suddenly, at sight of them Jimmie Dale swallowed hard. The old gentleman, kindly, blue-eyed, white-haired, was very erect, very straight in spite of the fact that he must have been close to seventy years of age, and with the sweet-faced, old-fashioned little lady, with the gray hair, who stood beside him, they made a stately pair—for all that their clothes, past glories like the furniture, were grown a little shabby, a little threadbare. But with what a courtly air they wore them! And with what a courtly air now he led her to a chair, and bent over her, and lifted up her face, and held it tenderly between both his hands!

"How well you look tonight in your dress," he said, and his blue eyes shone. "I am very proud of you."

She stroked the hand against the cheek.

"Do you remember the first time I ever wore it?" She was smiling up at him.

"Oh, yes!" he nodded his head slowly. "It is strange, isn't it? That was a long time ago when our friends were married back there in the old state, and tonight again way up here in New York, they have not forgotten us on this their anniversary."

Silence fell for a moment between them.

Then he spoke again, a little sadly:

"Would you wish those days back again, if you could?"

She hesitated thoughtfully.

"I do not know," she said at last. "Sometimes I think so. We had John then."

"Yes," he said, and turned away his head.

Her hand, as Jimmie Dale watched, seemed to tighten over her husband's; and now, though her lips quivered, there came a little smile.

"But we have his memory now, dear," she whispered.

Agitated, the old gentleman moved abruptly away from the chair and Jimmie Dale could see that the blue eyes were moist.

"That is true—we have his memory." The old colonel's voice trembled. And then his shoulders squared like a soldier on parade. "Tut, tut!" he chided. "Why, we are to be gay tonight! And it is almost time for us to be going. We, too, shall celebrate. You shall wear the pendant, just as you did that first night."

"Oh, colonel!" There was mingled delight and hesitation in her ejaculation. "Do you really think I ought to—that it wouldn't be out of keeping with our present circumstances?"

"Of course, I think you ought to!" he declared. "And see"—he started across the room—"I will get it for you, and fasten it around your throat myself."

Washington Seminary Notes.

The seminary is a director of the Needlework guild. The girls have always given generously, but this year when the announcement was made that there were more than two hundred and fifteen garments and over fifty dollars in money there was a spirit of elation quite perceptible. The thirty garments made by the boarders were particularly attractive. The six sweaters for men certainly looked warm. This donation is the form which the Thanksgiving offering of the school takes.

The seniors during their freshman year and those succeeding have tried to add to the pleasure of the crippled children on special days. A committee from the class carried a box of oranges to the inmates of the hospital on Wednesday afternoon.

These same seniors are still enjoying the memory of the Georgia Products dinner. The big yellow chrysanthemums in a basket with bows and streamers of blue tulle made an effective centerpiece in the school colors. The hand-painted place cards was the work of Rebecca Harrell, a member of the class.

The sophomores gave Wednesday afternoon to aiding the ladies in charge of the children of the Home of the Friendless. This class helped last year to make the nursery of this worthy institution more attractive. They intend to substantially aid the nursery again this winter.

The newly organized freshman class has decided that their interest shall center in the annex of the Y. W. C. A. Home for Young Women. They expect to furnish a Washington seminary room there similar to the two furnished by the juniors in the Buford home, which they still maintain.

The "French picnic" of the sixth grade was a great success. Several automobiles full of happy children went to Cascade Springs. Mademoiselle Caluso taught them French practically while they ate lunch, and later while they played games.

V. The Theater Party

"Oh, Nan, who do you think just called up?" I asked my charming guest as she came in from a walk.

"Why, my dear, I haven't the slightest idea—who was it?"

"Herbert Kendall."

"Oh," said Nan, blushing slightly. "What did he have to say?"

"He has invited all of us to go to the theater with him this evening."

"But——" hesitated Nan.

"Oh, I accepted for you, my dear," before she could object, "I knew you would love to go."

Never did Nan look prettier than on that evening as she came down the stairs to join us. Her handsome gown—her corsage bouquet (Herb's offering)—her glorious brown hair set off to perfection her sparkling eyes and beautiful complexion. She was truly bewitching.

"Jove——" I heard Herb exclaim under his breath as he caught sight of her on the landing. And his eyes never left her the rest of the evening.

Throughout the entire evening Nan's complexion remained fresh and velvety. It was because she used Hagan Magnolia Balm—that fragrant liquid powder. So easy to apply—never comes off and cannot be detected. One can get it from dealers for 75 cents, or post paid from the Lyon Manufacturing Co., 100 So. Fifth St., Brooklyn, N. Y. Three colors—white, pink and rose-red.

"I wonder——" said I to myself as I dropped off to sleep."

The Testing of Julia Grant

BY HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.

Lucy States Her Claim to Dan. READ THIS FIRST.

Julia Grant is about to be married to Dan Carson when he jilts her for another woman. When the other woman jilts Dan in return he comes back to Julia and she promises a second time to marry him. But things are not as they were and after Julia has given her promise she discovers that she has given her love to Dr. John Norville, head surgeon at the hospital where she has gone to study nursing. Julia is oppressed by her conscience and she feels that she cannot break her promise to Dan. Then she discovered that Lucy, her younger sister, has fallen in love with Dan, and she feels that the time has come to tell Dan the truth, which she does. However, he refuses to release her and then as though fate had interfered purposely, a few days before the wedding Lucy has a bad fall.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LIV.

If Julia had imagined that Lucy, in her days of convalescence, would be in a mood for confidence, she was mistaken. Lucy's first hours with a clear brain showed a change in her, and, strange to say, she was cold, almost hostile to Julia. Julia thought at first that her attitude was the result of her illness, that she was merely querulous, but after a time Julia was forced to admit that Lucy was deliberately unfair, but she shrank away from any touch of Julia's hands, and often Julia would catch Lucy's gaze fixed on her from across the room, an unfriendly, distrustful look that was unmistakable.

One day Julia turned suddenly and met Lucy's eyes full. She crossed over to the bed and sat down on it. "Lucy, what is it? Won't you tell me why you hate me so?"

Lucy twisted her lips into a smile. "I don't hate you," she denied.

"You don't love me," Julia returned sadly.

"I suppose you want me to fall on your neck because you nursed me through this thing," Lucy sneered.

"O, Lucy!"

Lucy turned her head away on the pillow and a few minutes later when Julia returned to the room, she saw that Lucy's eyes were closed and that tears were rolling down the thin white cheeks.

When Dan came to see her she forced every bit of energy there was in her to the surface. Her cheeks would blaze with color, she would call for her most becoming negligee, and Julia would arrange the thin blonde haird becomingly under a lace cap. Then Lucy would preen before Dan, would demand things coquettishly, would speak sharply to Julia reproving her for carelessness quite openly, would adopt, in fact, the airs and graces of a very much spoiled young person. Instead of repulsing Dan, this attracted him, it appealed more than ever to his sense of portection. He liked the feeling that swept over him warmly when he overheard Mrs. Grant tell the doctor that he was the only person who seemed to have any influence over Lucy.

One day when Julia was sitting by the window sewing, and Lucy was turning over the pages of a magazine idly, the younger girl spoke.

"Julia, do you still think that Dan Carson loves you?"

Julia put down her sewing and did not answer for a moment. Lucy went on, hurrying her words.

"Do you?"

Julia had an utter distaste for discussing this thing with Lucy. It sounded so cheap and melodramatic Dan did not love Lucy, he had said so, and Lucy seemed to have so little pride in disguising her own feelings. She confessed her love in her coquetry toward him. If she had not been ill, and if every one had not spoiled her terribly, it would have been pitifully apparent to anyone.

"I don't want to talk about it."

Spots of color flamed in Lucy's face. She was becoming unduly excited. "But I do!" she returned, hotly.

Julia hastened to pacify her. Lucy was still weak, any excitement might bring back the fever. She must be humored. Nevertheless Julia was determined not to talk the thing over again in its sordid details.

"I don't see what there is to say," Julia began, and then, "Lucy, how can you want to talk about it? Don't you see that the whole thing is up to Dan?"

"I know you think I have no pride," Lucy flung back. "But I don't care. I've watched you and Dan together and I know that it's your strength that he admires. He feels that he must live up to it, but with me he has nothing to live up to. I lean on him, I depend on him and I think he likes it better than your strength."

Julia was looking at Lucy in amazement. Was this her little sister, this woman who talked this way? Was this Lucy, Lucy of the blue eyes and the blonde hair and the childish, simple ways? This woman was owning up to having played a game for a man's love. Lucy was confessing that she had studied Dan, that she had given thought to her carefully considered moves, and that she believed she would win. It was astounding, and she was so sure of herself that Julia was convinced. Even though Dan Carson was sure he wanted one thing, he was not so strong that he could not be persuaded that he wanted another. Julia had been through one experience with him. She knew!

But what if he were wobbly, could Lucy be sure that she would keep his love for any length of time? That was the question.

Music Study Club Meeting.

It has been found necessary to indefinitely postpone the "Peer Gynt" program which has been announced for Tuesday evening of this week, but the chorus rehearsal and regular program of the Atlanta Music Study club will be held as usual at 10 o'clock for the rehearsal and 11 for the program, Wednesday morning, at Egleston Memorial hall, corner West Peachtree and North avenue.

BY MRS. M. A. WILSON

Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution

The old world custom of entertaining during the holidays was extremely popular with the housewife of yesterday. Of late years we have let this splendid way of keeping alive old and kindling new friendship fall into disuse. Now that we are free from the strain of the late war, let us turn our thoughts to friendly little evening affairs in our own homes.

The mother of a family, with growing children, can use this means to meet the children's chums, her husband's friends and return the pleasures that she has received from her own friends and neighbors.

The young wife may make this a means of having a neighbor or a friend or two in for the evening, while to the young bride, this will be a splendid opportunity to gain poise and real matronly honors.

Some housewives like to select Friday and Saturday evenings for these little affairs for the reason that if the guests linger an hour longer, it will not cause a strain on the family the next morning, as usually an extra hour or two on both Saturday and Sunday evenings can be permitted to the family for recreation.

In a dear old knickerbocker home in New York state, where the mother is housewife and maid, the family consists of three growing children; the father and mother have instituted a custom of having their friends and neighbors three nights a month for tea, cards and a dance. Surrounding this charming home are thousands like it and yet the mother has taught her children the true meanings of hospitality. Mother has the tea, father the cards and the children have the dance.

It has long been the custom of the old Dutch housewives of New York to have tea with a friend about 7 o'clock, and chat and knit for a while, then return home to see the children returning about 9 o'clock.

The mother of the home has followed the ways of her old, long-forgotten ancestors and she usually entertains her friends the first Friday of the month with tea. Two daughters help her to serve.

Jack and father usually have their meal served in the spotlessly scoured kitchen. Father has a few buddies over on the second Saturday evening for a game of pinochle and son Jack assists father. The young people have a dance on a last Friday of the month and mother and father usually lend a hand to see that things go smoothly.

Mother plans inexpensive menus and usually serves a salad with her tea.

For six or eight people. Place in a mixing bowl:
One teaspoon of salt,
One level tablespoon of baking powder.

Sift to mix, then rub in one-half cup of shortening and mix to a dough with one-half cup of cold water. Divide into eight pieces and roll out about one-quarter inch thick. Now look over and see from bits of shell about thirty-two oysters.

Drain well and add
One-half teaspoon of paprika,
One-half cup of finely minced celery,
One tablespoon of grated onion,
One tablespoon of finely minced parsley,
One teaspoon of salt,
One teaspoon of paprika,
One-half cup of fine bread crumbs.

Mix thoroughly then divide into the prepared pastry. Wet the edges of the pastry with cold water and press firmly together. Now make a tiny opening in the top of crust to allow the steam to escape. Place in well-greased pan and bake for twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with cream sauce.

MRS. M. N. CULLUM RESIGNS POSITION TO GO TO BELGIUM

Mrs. M. N. Cullum, chief clerk in the school department at city hall, announced Monday that she will resign her position in the system to accept a place with the American embassy at Brussels, Belgium. Mrs. Cullum has cabled her acceptance, and will sail as soon as she receives word to embark.

At the embassy she will assume charge of the coderoom, a place carrying with it considerable responsibility. The offer came to her through Mr. Armour, charge de affaires.

Mrs. Cullum was during the war connected with the southern division of the Red Cross as assistant director of the bureau of chapter production. On June 15 last year, upon recommendation of Superintendent W. F. Dykes, she was elected by the board of education as chief clerk in the school department. She resides at 49 East Fourteenth street.

Mr. Dykes has not yet selected her successor.

C. B. PARKER, OF M'RAE PASSES INTO UNKNOWN

McRae, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—C. B. Parker, financier and prominent business man of McRae, died this morning at 1 o'clock at the age of 83. He was trustee of Mercer university for 20 years and one of the founders of Brewton-Parker Institute. His philanthropy found expression in large gifts to Mercer, Brewton-Parker, Bessie Tift and other institutions.

For a number of years he was prominently connected with the naval stores business at Savannah, and at the time of his death was president of the Merchants' Bank of McRae. His funeral will be conducted from the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon.

SAVANNAHIAN SIGNS BIG MOVIE CONTRACT

Savannah, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Savannah was interested today in news that a Savannah boy, Larry Semon, has just signed a contract with the Vitagraph people for three years at a salary reported to be $1,200,000 a year. Semon started in as a cartoonist and is now a star comedian. As a lad, he did sleight of hand strunts and painted window signs in Savannah for the fun of the work.

COLEMAN POST WILL HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

William B. Coleman post No. 51, of the American Legion, will hold a meeting tonight in the main dining room of the Ansley hotel at 8 o'clock. There will be an interesting program. All members and ex-service men are urged to attend.

MRS. MARY KENNY DIES AT HOSPITAL; SERVICES TODAY

The funeral services of Mrs. Margaret Mary Kenny, 67 years old, who died Sunday night at a private hospital, will be conducted this morning from the Church of the Sacred Heart at 10 o'clock. The Rev. John Guinan will officiate.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Kenny was Miss Margaret Bloomfield. She was born and reared and had lived all her life in Atlanta.

Mrs. Kenny is survived by her husband, P. J. Kenny; three sons, John P., F. DeSalles and Dr. Edward C. Kenny, all of Atlanta; four daughters, Mrs. S. A. Griffith, of Savannah; Mrs. Isabelle Keeling, of Atlanta, and Misses Monica and Claire Kenny, who live at the family residence, 43 East Twelfth street, and a brother, P. J. Bloomfield, of Atlanta.

FELDER GETS VERDICT OF $2 AGAINST HOTEL

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Thomas S. Felder, former attorney general of Georgia and one time candidate for the United States senate, was awarded a verdict for $2 in the Macon municipal court today, in his suit to recover the value of a box of candy from the Dempsey Hotel company.

Mr. Felder presented his own case and the judgment was rendered by Judge Chambers, sitting without a jury.

Mr. Felder claimed he sent a box of candy to a Georgia Normal and Industrial college senior several months ago when the young woman came to Macon with members of her class and stopped at the Dempsey. She failed to receive the candy and the hotel refused to reimburse Mr. Felder. Manager Charles Gonder, of the Dempsey, stated tonight the case would not likely be appealed, as the incident developed before he took charge of the hotel.

HOUSTON DISTRICT FAR EXCEEDS QUOTA

Cordele, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Reports coming in from the various churches of the Houston Baptist association up to noon today show a total of $163,000 to cover a Seventy-five Million drive quota of $150,000 for the association. Reports from several churches of the association are yet to come. With but few exceptions, every church reported went considerably over the amount allotted. The Cordele church went $20,000 over its quota of $60,000.

So far as giving goes, yesterday was the greatest day in the history of Baptists throughout this section, and those in charge of the campaign are more than pleased with the results and are fully confident that when all reports are in the total amount subscribed will reach $200,000 for the Houston association.

LIONEL A. MOORE DIES IN GRIFFIN ON MONDAY

Griffin, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Lionel A. Moore, 45 years old, of Griffin, widely known commercial salesman for a local wholesale house and one of the most prominent citizens of this place, died here today of double pneumonia after only a short illness.

He is survived by three brothers, T. H. Moore, vice president of a Griffin wholesale concern, and J. T. and R. J. Moore, also of Griffin, and a sister, Miss Ennia Moore, of Griffin. The funeral will be held Tuesday.

CHEMISTS ARRIVING FOR SAVANNAH MEET

Savannah, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—A number of prominent chemists and scientists from various parts of the United States arrived in Savannah today for the annual convention of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, which meets Wednesday for a two-days' session.

Darkness Shrouds Office Buildings And White Lights

Elevator Service Immensely Curtailed—Restaurants Maintain Twilight Sort of Illumination.

No, it was hardly a Stygian darkness, but Atlanta was much darker than usual Monday night—and will be tonight.

The lights of the supposedly gay white way had ceased their fitful glimmering, thereby removing one of tradition's most popular temptations from its melodramatic and baleful effect on the hapless rustic youth who is supposed to be lured from pastoral innocence into urban guilt by their incandescent and soul-wrecking shimmer.

Office buildings are no longer tall shafts, myriad-eyed with nightly lights. They are just tall shafts. Save that here and there along their high, gray sides, peeps out a gleam of light signifying that in some half-lit nook an essentian deed is being perpetrated.

Curtail Elevator Service.

Elevator service has been immensely curtailed. In some buildings, possessive of offices judged by the federal government to be essential, one lone elevator cared for the total of passengers after the hour of 4 in the afternoon. Other edifices were entirely devoid of elevator service after the zero hour, and many a lone individual traced his weary feet patriotically down to the street from an office that had held him a wee bit too late.

The stores closed as per schedule. There was probably a tiny element of dissatisfaction on the part of some grocers, who unfortunately did not learn of the new regulation that allowed them to remain open until 6. But every place that was supposed to shut its doors did so.

Soda fountains quit decorating marble slabs with receptacles replete with luscious potions promptly at the hour of 4. Cigars and cigarettes found their way into smokers' eager hands before the witching hour, or else remained unsmoked in varied emporiums until 9 o'clock this morning.

Restaurant Twilight.

Restaurants maintained a twilight sort of an illumination. They were, most of them, careful to abide by the 50 per cent darkness proviso of the fuel regulation, and didn't seem to suffer in patronage.

Atlanta, as a city, is taking its necessary medicine with its characteristic spirit of willingness. Cooperation with the federal government has always been one of her tenets, and still is.

Growlers? Yes.

Atlanta, above all things, is a human city. And unless every procedure in this old world was met with the grumblings of a certain element that has lived to growl so long that it now must growl to live—sign painters would be hired to paint a great big "Utopia" on each side of the Terminal station, and crapshooters and yeggs would start attending prayer meeting.

SCOTTISH RITE MASONS HOLD BIG CONVENTION

The fall convocation of the Scottish Rite Masons in the valley of Atlanta will begin this morning at 9 o'clock, when the 210 members of the Douglas Barnes class will assemble in the class room of the Masonic temple. The convocation will continue four days, during which time the degrees from the fourth to the thirty-second will be conferred.

The first day's session will be devoted to the degrees from the fourth to the fifteenth, together with the investiture of knights of commander of the court of honor. This event will take place at 6:30 p. m. when the Masons elevated to that rank by the supreme council in October will be given their patents and insignia of the rank.

Dinner will be served in the banquet hall every evening, and a large attendance of the brethren is expected. The degree staff of the Scottish Rite bodies and the Scottish Rite choir of Atlanta consistory are both famous throughout the southern jurisdiction and many come from distant cities to witness the degrees, which are made doubly impressive by the excellent incidental music of the choir.

AERIAL MACHINE GUN USED IN RECRUITING

The navy recruiting station in the Federal building is exhibiting a Lewis aerial machine gun, similar to those that were mounted in all airplanes used by the United States forces during the war.

Lieutenant Matteson, formerly of the naval flying corps, and now stationed at the recruiting station, brought the gun here. He is also exhibiting several small bombs similar to those used by bombing planes.

6TH DISTRICT MEDICO BODY MEETS IN MACON

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—The fall meeting of the Sixth District Medical society will be held at the Hotel Dempsey in Macon Wednesday of this week. There will be two sessions, the first at 11 a. m. and the second at 3 p. m. At 2 p. m. there will be a luncheon at the Dempsey for the members.

Dr. Edward C. Jones, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia Medical society, will be present. A number of papers on important subjects of interest to the medical profession will feature the meetings. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at the afternoon session. Present officers are, president, Dr. C. L. Ridley, Hillsboro; vice president, Dr. A. F. White, Flovilla; secretary and treasurer, Dr. I. H. Adams, Macon.

HELD FOR RUNNING "GAMING" DEVICES DURING CARNIVAL

H. W. Allingham was bound over to the city court under a $100 bond by Judge Johnson, of the recorder's court Monday afternoon. Allingham, who operated the country store at a carnival recently held under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World on Marietta near Hampton streets, was charged with conducting several "gaming" devices in his establishment.

Allingham was represented by C. Don Miller, who had subpenaed as witnesses to the trial several members of the board of police commissioners.

The defense put up by Mr. Miller was that police authorities allowed the Southeastern fair and the Red Cross in their recent drive to use so-called "gaming" machines.

J. W. Maddox, chairman of the board of police commissioners, was sworn in and questioned about allowing gaming at the fairs previous to the closing of those at the carnivals.

It was brought out in the trial that Allingham, after being told by detectives to close down his place or it would be necessary to make a case against him, told the detectives to go ahead and he would make a "test" case of it.

After the trial Mr. Miller, attorney for the defense, made a statement that he would prepare charges against Chief of Detectives Lemar Poole and Chief of Police J. L. Beavers to be brought up at the next meeting of the board of police commissioners. It was stated that partiality and failure to enforce the law on previous occasions would be charged.

LAURENS WILL RAISE BAPTIST DRIVE QUOTA

Dublin, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Dublin and Laurens county Baptists are still at work on the remainder of their quota of the $75,000,000 campaign. Dublin had raised about $72,000 of her quota of $80,000 by tonight and committees were still at work. Reports from about half the churches in the county showed $54,000, about $3,000 more than the total quota of these churches. Indications are that the balance of the fund will be raised, and that Dublin and Laurens county will go over the top before the drive ends.

SAVANNAH COMPLIES WITH RULES ON FUEL

Savannah, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—The stringent rules promulgated by the fuel administration for the conservation of fuel were being generally and thoroughly adhered to in Savannah this afternoon and tonight. Nowhere, perhaps, has there been such large conversion of apparatus from coal to oil as in Savanna hindustries, utilties and business houses; but the oil-burning establishments are complying with the rules as readily as the coal-using ones.

JUST HURT ALL OVER

Couldn't Sit, Stand or Lie With Any Comfort—Sister-in-Law Gives Good Advice and Cardui Does World of Good.

Holland, Texas.—Mrs. Nannie Messer, of this place, states: "About three years ago I was in a very critical condition. I had been suffering for some time. To tell how I hurt would be impossible.

I just hurt all over.

I couldn't sit, stand or lay with any comfort, my back, sides and head all gave me a great deal of trouble.

I was especially bothered with a light swimming in my head. My people were very uneasy about me and sent me to my relatives to see if a change would do me any good.

I stopped at a sister-in-law's and she being a great believer in Cardui, asked me why I didn't use it. I decided to try it . . .

I had only taken a few doses when I felt it would do me good. This gave hopes and I used it right along and it did me just a world of good, since which time I have never ceased to praise Cardui."

Cardui is recommended for simple female complaints and womanly pains and has been found to benefit in thousands of such cases when not due to malformation or that do not require surgical treatment. Try it. —(adv.)

To Have Smooth, White, Soft Skin All Winter

Does your skin chap or roughen easily in this weather, or become unduly red or blotchy? Here is a quick, easy way to overcome the trouble and keep your complexion beautifully white, smooth and soft the winter long. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at the nearest drug store and use a little before retiring, as you would apply cold cream. Upon rising, remove the coating with sudsy water. The wax, through some peculiar attribute, flecks off the rough, discolored or blemished skin. The worn-out cuticle comes off just like dandruff, only in almost invisible particles. Mercolized wax simply hastens Nature's work. Used as required, it keeps the face constantly free from devitalized scarf skin and only the healthy, young-looking skin is in evidence. It's the best treatment known for weatherbeaten, aged, muddy, freckled, pimpled and all unbeautiful complexions.—(adv.)

New Discovery Makes Superfluous Hair Leave

(Roots and All Depart Instantly.)

As hair or fuzz on the face is such an embarrassing thing, every woman so afflicted will welcome the information that these disfigurements can now be completely removed—roots and all—in the privacy of one's own home, without the assistance of an expert.

The new method will astonish and delight you. You never saw or heard of anything like it before. It's not depilatory and not electrical. Just get a stick of phelactine from your druggist and follow the simple directions at home. In a jiffy you have removed the offending hairs completely. With your own eyes you see the roots come out. Phelactine is absolutely harmless, non-poisonous and perfectly odorless.—(adv.)

For the Holiday Season We Have Made Many Sharp Reductions in the Price of LINENS

With a full realization of the importance of Linens for the table during the Holiday season and the knowledge that it is hard to replenish the Linen chest with prices as they are at present, we have gone carefully through our stock of Cloths for the Table and Napkins to determine just what we could do in the way of price reduction. The result will astonish you, and please you, too, for we have seldom been able to offer values as decidedly good as these, and another thing, please remember these offerings come at a time of tremendous shortage of material in the hands of manufacturers.

Georgia Tech Plans Basketball Outfit For Present Season

Coach Alexander Calls for Candidates and Announces That Gold and White Will Have Team in Field.

By George C. Griffin.

That Tech will put a basketball team on the floor during 1920 was finally decided Monday when Coach W. A. Alexander announced that a meeting of prospective candidates would be held at the Tech Y. M. C. A. today at 1:30 o'clock.

This is the first time that the Jackets have had a team in this branch of sport in six years, the last team appearing on the floor for the Jackets in 1913.

While basketball has been played at the school during these years no attempt was made to put out a representative team there was no question that the Jackets could have put out a winner, as was shown by the informal team organized at the school in 1917, and who played several games under the name of the Tech Y. M. C. A., managing to win a majority of their contests. The team was made up of such stars as Strupper, Guyon and Spence.

The authorities do not expect to put a team in the field that will sweep the south or anything of the sort, but will depend this year on laying the foundation for the future when the basket game at Tech will take its place among the other major sports at Tech.

Little is known of the material on hand and it is going to be a terrible handicap to the coaches with the short time to practice and the fact that the government has taken over the Crystal palace, which was used as a court before the war, for an automobile school.

The preliminary practice will be held on Grant field, where the Athletic association will construct an outdoor court until some arrangements can be made about a regular court where the team can get in some real practice.

Of the all-class material of past years Meadth, the manager of the 1919 football team, is the only man on hand. He is an experienced player and hails from Columbus, Ga., which has produced more good basketball players than nearly any other city in Georgia.

Gibby Fraser, former Tech High star, is another good player, while Staton, of football fame, is no mean player himself; Smith, sub-fullback, comes from G. M. C., where he made quite a name for himself as well as Mayer, another football man; Jenks and Sheffield are also two good men. About 15 men are expected to report for the first call, and it is certain that many men unknown to Tech athletic fame will be brought to light.

The different companies have been issued football equipment and Grant field is a swarm of khaki every day at noon with the different teams getting ready for their first games which take place Saturday, starting at 12:30 o'clock. Three games will be played every Saturday, admission free, and good hard football will be played with every team using many kinds of formations, as each team has a coaching staff consisting of two or three varsity men, and it is going to be a merry fight to see who will triumph.

The Tech cross-country team, which leaves Friday night for Birmingham, were issued suits today and led by Fouche and McClesky these lads will give a good account of themselves when the tie-up with the University of Alabama and Mississippi A. & M. hill and dale artists.

RIVERSIDE TEAM PLAYS TECH HIGH

State Title Will Be Definitely Decided When the Gainesville Eleven Meets Atlanta Outfit on Grant Field Saturday.

By Roy E. White.

There has been a great furore raised in the state, and particularly in this part of the state as to the championship prep eleven of Georgia. After the game of last Saturday, when the Tech High team trounced the Boys' High crew, the question was much doubted, but the problem will be definitely and positively settled to the satisfaction of all concerned when the Riverside Cadets of Gainesville, and the Tech High squad of Atlanta, the only two undefeated elevens in the state, tie up in mortal combat next Saturday afternoon at Grant field.

The teams seem to be evenly matched in all positions, and there is little doubt that the affair will furnish many thrills. This will be the final game seen on the stamping ground of the Tornado this season, and this fact, coupled with the assurance that the game will be extremely close and exciting, should bring a large number of fans to the field.

The Riverside team was in the stands last Saturday, as witnesses to the battle for the city prep title, but if they gleaned any inside knowledge of the workings of the Tech High formations and plays they are welcome to use it in the coming game. The Tech High players believe that they can lick the stuffing out of the Cadets if the latter have all their plays, and they are going into the game to do that very thing.

Earlier in the present season, the two teams, so soon to mingle on the field, played a scoreless tie here, and it was this game that caused the state championship title to hang in air. After the tie, the two teams went through the season without a defeat, and this post-season game is the only way to settle the much-discussed question.

The Riverside team has many new tricks up its sleeve that it is expecting to uncork against the High school lads, but the locals have also been working on new formation and plays and they will be ready for anything that the Gainesvillians can uncover.

Coach Champion has had great success attending his first attempt at coaching a Tech High football team, and the men are working harder than ever before to make his season an entire success from every standpoint. Coach Turner has also done some good work in the drilling of the backfield, and both the mentors feel very gratified at the showing made by the team.

The game will start at 2 o'clock, and the admission price has been fixed at $1.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR STATE LEAGUE

Macon President Plans Sending Letters to the Principal Cities of State With Regard to Organizing Georgia Baseball Association.

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Plans for a Georgia State Baseball league are rapidly whipping into shape and President Louis M. Rossignol, of the Macon Baseball association, yesterday expressed his intention of mailing letters to every city in Georgia, calling a meeting for Macon on January 15 to complete the work of organization.

Letters already have been received from numerous towns indorsing the plan and expressing a desire to send delegations to the meeting. Griffin, Valdosta, Dublin, Eastman, Brunswick, Moultrie, Cordele, Americus and other towns are ready for the organization meeting and state that the necessary funds to guarantee support of a team can be raised within a few hours after the call is received.

When Macon enthusiasts attempted to organize a first-class league the past season, several towns were invited in. The fans took up the matter, held one preliminary meeting and decided to enter. A committee was appointed in Brunswick to raise $5,000 with which to start the season. The committee spent just two hours soliciting, had $2,000 subscribed when information came that one or two of the cities which were supposed to compose the circuit had thrown up the sponge and decided not to enter the league.

Consequently league baseball talk disappeared, but when it is revived the towns are always interested. It is believed if the movement had been started last fall, rather than late in the spring, when other leagues were almost ready to begin the season, the undertaking would have been a success.

Some of the cities selected for their circuit did not have ample time in which to make the necessary arrangements and consequently the league failed to organize.

With the cities of Savannah, Macon, Albany, Brunswick, Americus, Cordele, Jacksonville, Columbus, Waycross, Valdosta all within reach of each other it does appear ot local fans that a fast six or eight-club class circuit could be organized for the 1920 season.

All of the cities mentioned are good baseball towns. They have all previously had professional baseball and know just what it is. Therefore, local fans would like to see the movement started right away with each of the cities mentioned invited to send representatives, and the matter could be discussed and some decision reached, thus not waiting until spring, when all other leagues have their managers and players signed and all arrangements made for the season.

Jacksonville, Savannah, Macon and possibly Columbus no doubt take the position that Brunswick, Albany, Waycross, Valdosta, Americus and Cordele are too small to be in a league with them, but it has been proven in many Class C leagues that the smaller cities turn out just as many fans as the larger ones. Interest is always keen in the city of between 10,000 and 20,000, and if properly managed they can go through the season with a good ball club without a financial loss. But few cities, except those of the larger leagues, expect to make any money out of professional baseball; therefore, the city under 100,000 population that can go through a season and come out even has made a success of the game.

The old Georgia State league, composed of the cities of Americus, Brunswick, Cordele, Thomasville, Waycross and Valdosta, went through three seasons and it was considered one of the fastest Class D organizations in the country. Finally one club and then another went over the salary limit with the result that is sure to follow that practice and the league went by the wayside, but not until the outbreak of the war, and even then the season was concluded.

Colleges Will Hold Annual Road Races On Coming Saturday

Big S. I. A. A. Event Is Scheduled for Birmingham, Under Auspices of Slagtown Athletic Club. Tech Has Team Entered.

University, Ala., December 1.—(Special.)—Now that football is only a matter of history, the next sporting event that is focusing the eyes of Alabama supporters is the annual S. I. A. A. road race to be staged at Birmingham next Saturday under the auspices of the Birmingham Athletic club. Judging on paper, Alabama has a team of champion the team—four old stars—either pionship caliber. There is a number of whom wodld uo credit to any team in the southland.

Alabama's track team, in charge of Captain Henry Beatty, has been practicing each afternoon for over a month for the big event in the Magic City. The members of the "Thin-Clad line" recently chosen in a competitive tryout are: Captain Beatty, of Birmingham; Walter Jones, of Birmingham; Otto Kirchner, of Mobile; M. J. Thompson, of Perdidio Station, and two new men, Pickens and Brown.

The record of Jones is pretty well known throughout the south. He has run the Birmingham road race two or three times, and has won the race each time except the year before Fleet-Footed Scott retired from the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical team. Kirchner has a record behind him, having run in a number of events at Mobile and New Orleans. Thompson is the other member of the "Big Four" that is going after the cup in Birmingham next Saturday.

According to reports coming to Alabama, the team from Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical will be the dark horse in the running. The Sterkville institution has always been strong in track work, and has been Alabama's chief rival. At present Alabama has the silver cup in her possession that is offered to the team winning the race for three successive years. Alabama has won the cup two years already, and is anxious to catch the award in the coming event Saturday.

The athletic association has recently ordered new suits for the track team so that when it appears in Birmingham it will be freshly bedecked in the abbreviated regalia of the Crimson and White. The association has also furnished the Marathons with a training table, where they may more methodically work themselves into shape for the great event which they hope to win in the Smoky City next Saturday.

THE BARNARD BOYS, FOOTBALL TWINS

Presenting the Barnard boys, Lester and Chester. Lester and Chester are the only living twins playing on the same football team, at least playing the end positions on the same team. They challenge anybody to produce a parallel case. Being twins, they are the same age. They do their studying at Northwestern university, Illinois. There is no way of telling from the picture whether, in the cradle age, Lester wore a pink ribbon or a blue one.

TECH HIGH ELEVEN HELD PEP BANQUET

The Junior Golden Tornado, more commonly known as the Tech High football team, was honored last night by a dinner given them by the Athletic association, at Ruse & Cason's, in the Kimball house. The meeting was a regular get-together football affair solely for the purpose of keeping the men keyed up for the game that is to be played Saturday with Riverside.

The first thing in order was a swell dinner, which was enjoyed by everyone, closely followed by speeches from noted speakers of the faculty and members of the football team. Mr. Sutton, principal of Technological High school, was the first speaker to address the players. He made an excellent talk on the purpose of the meeting, and related some few instances that have occurred during the season. Mr. Turner, one of the coaches, was the next speaker, and he told of the experiences of a coach and the time that he had had during the practices. Mr. Lewis, one of the most popular members of the faculty, gave a talk on the team as an eleven and the duty of each man toward his fellow player. Captain Jordan was also called upon for a short address.

New Star Arrives.

A new team has sprung into the limelight in prep circles in south Georgia, namely the Moultrie High school team, coached by J. H. Saxon, of Emory university.

This team, while one of the lightest playing in prep circles, has won every game played this year by substantial scores, while keeping their goal line uncrossed. Albany High, Valdosta High and the other teams of that section going down before the dazzling speed of this light aggregataion.

J. H. Saxon, superintendent of the Moultrie public school system, is their coach. Mr. Saxon, while not playing intercollegiate football himself, was picked as member of the All-Emory team several years and made quite a name for himself as a footballer at the Methodist institution.

Sharkey to Meet Wilde.

Jack Sharkey, the New York bantam, will be Jimmy Wilde's first opponent in this country, when he meets the little Briton for ten rounds at Milwaukee next Friday. Sharkey, at the direction of his manager, Joe Wagner, has been training in Milwaukee for the past three weeks for the mill.

Sharkey is an aggressive, rugged little fellow without much science, but a knack of hitting with force. He can be counted on to make things interesting for Wilde all the way.

Wilde has been taking part in bouts at Detroit and St. Paul and the Pacific coast, where he boxed one or two 4-round bouts before coming back to prepare for his match with Joe Lynch that will open the International Sporting club in February.

Alabama Challenges Any Title Claimant To Post-Season Game

AUBURN'S COACHES PLAN BASKETBALL

Plainsmen Should Have Strong Contender for Southern College Honors With All But One Last-Year Player Back.

By Gene Hinton.

Auburn, Ala., December 1.—(Special.)—Although the football heroes of the 1919 Auburn Plainsmen who captured the southern title through a miraculous victory over the Golden Tornado are not by any means forgotten, football is put from the minds of the followers of the destinies of Auburn athletics, and they are now turning their attention to basketball.

Last year, the Auburn quint captured the gonfalon in the college basketball league, and showed some wonderful basketball all the season through. This year prospects are decidedly bright for a repetition of this feat, as but one man is lost from the regular five of last year, and there is a wealth of new material.

The only man lost from the squad is "Hungry" Floyd, forward on last year's team, and one of the most brilliant goal shooters in this part of the country. His loss will be keenly felt, not only for the fact that he excelled in every department of play, but for the fact that he instilled into his co-workers an inestimable amount of pep and fight that was partly if not mainly responsible for many Auburn victories.

The remaining four regulars are Barks, forward; Hahn, center; Wade, guard, and Trapp, guard. The first three named are veterans of the Orange and Blue, and have been under fire on the basketball court for several years. They have all three proven themselves to be performers of the highest caliber. The last named guard, who distinguished himself this year on the gridiron, took his first fling at basketball last year, and his work improved by leaps and bounds.

It is very probable that "Hub" Hahn, the center of last year's team, will be shifted to forward to fill the vacancy left by Floyd. Forward is Hahn's first love, and he has been playing center but a comparatively short time.

McFadden, a substitute guard of last year's five, is also on hand, and if Hahn is forced to play center, it is probable that he will be given a chance at the goal-shooting job. He can shoot baskets with the same ease that he guards his opponents, and he should fit in nicely with the rest of the team.

It is thought that several of the football team will be out in uniform in a few days, and if they do, they will make a strenuous fight for a place on the quintet.

It is likely that most of the work of coaching will fall this year on the shoulders of Phillips, a former gridiron and court star at Vanderbilt university. Mike Donahue will also be on hand, however, and will help as much as possible for the limited time he has for coaching these days.

More interest in basketball is being taken this year than ever before at the "Lov'liest Village," and from all standpoints it seems that this will be a great season for the indoor sport. Plans are already being laid for class basketball, and several teams among the co-eds have been organized, and quite a few very interesting games have been played.

Coach Scott's Warriors Feel They Have Won Southern Championship and Are Ready to Fight It Out With All Comers.

By George H. Watson.

University, Ala., December 1.—(Special.)—As a result of the Thanksgiving gridiron clashes, Alabama is claiming the championship of the S. I. A. A. So convinced is the athletic association that premier honors of the south should go to Alabama that a challenge has been issued to any team disputing this claim for a post-season game, to be played at any time within the next few weeks that the rival contestant sees fit.

Alabama is one of the "Big Four" colleges of Dixie that has been defeated only once at the hands of a southern college. The "Thin Red Line" ran up a total of 280 points for the season, which is a comfortable lead over 257 points registered by Tech. Auburn, which apparently by her defeat of Tech, is Alabama's chief rival for the S. I. A. A. championship, has rolled up only 141 points, are a shade more than half of Alabama's record. The total score indicates that Coach Scott had the greatest offensive team seen on a southern gridiron.

When it comes to defense Alabama again holds the record for a small number of points scored on her. Vandy chalked up 16 counters against the Crimson Tide, while A. & M. got away for one touchdown, making a total of 23 points. Even the much-touted air-tight defense of the Plainesmen has been pierced for 33 counters.

The Mississippi A. & M. team perhaps furnishes one most impartial comparison of the two Alabama teams as the Maroons were played at about the same time of the season and on the same territory at Rickwood Park, Birmingham. McGugin's eleven defeated the Maroons by a touchdown which resulted from an Aggie back fumbling the oval behind his own goal line. According to critics of the game, Auburn was clearly outplayed.

On the other hand Alabama defeated the Maroons 14 to 6 or 1 point better than the defeat registered by the Plainsmen. The records will show that Alabama made more first downs, gained about twice as much ground as the opponents and netted 89 yards around end, while the Maroons did not gain an inch around the extremities.

Figuring on a percentage basis, Alabama has played seven S. I. A. A. games and lost one game. This would give the Crimson eleven a percentage of .857. Auburn has won five out of six S. I. A. A. games, which means an average of .833 per cent.

As to the showing of the two teams against Vanderbilt the results prove that the two teams broke about even. Vandy was outplayed by both squads, but she got the breaks and won by a small margin over each team. Alabama's offensive ability proved the better by registering two touchdowns against the Commodores on a muddy field. The Auburn defense made the better showing by holding Vandy to a lone touchdown. So it was a toss up.

Be the argument as it may, Alabama alumni and students have great faith in the ability of their team. They believe the team merits the championship, and furthermore the athletic association has signified its willingness to defend the title against any opponent. The rival claimant has only to set the date, and then and there will be settled the mooted question.

SHOVE OFF, SAILOR

Young America has done its dead level durnedest to smear its features over the landscape in the football seasen which has so gloriously passed into history, and now we have, standing on the threshold of the door to public interest, the game of basketball, which is going to come into its own this season as far as Atlanta is concerned with the national championship tournament here at the Auditorium in March.

The course of human sporting events is pretty well ordered. Starting with baseball, we rock along for three months until the time for the football season and then on into basketball, with all other sports in the trick bag getting their share of the fun as the three major ones progress.

It is safe to say that the cage game is just beginning to occupy the place intended for it in the program of colleges and athletic organizations.

The growth and development of the game during the last several years has been excellent although not quite in proportion to that in other sport fields because it was not one of the big games.

Now, however, it can be called one of the big three as far as any city or college is concerned and from present indications will occupy far more interest after the season which soon opens.

Basketball, contrary to the opinion and beliefs of those fans of others sports who do not know, is a rougher game than football, requires more of a trained athlete to play it and serves to develop a player in all ways more tahn any other sport.

To play basketball an athlete must have perfect wind, must be quick and agile and must have a stamina and stick-to-it-iveness seldom required in the other sports to such a degree.

From the blast of the first whistle until the last the cage game requires every player to be on his toes every second of the game and strength combined with agility and the ability to think quickly in playing.

Atlanta is fortunate in more ways than one with regards to the coming basketball season.

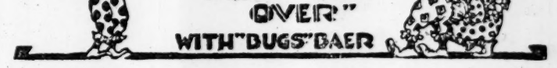

Not only is the biggest sport event of the kind coming here in March when the basketball championship is to be held at the Auditorium, but practically every school in the city, girls included, will have a team.

The preparatory schools will be represented strongly and a girls' league, comprising most of the largest girls' high schools of the city and section, has already been organized.

Major interest for Atlantans will center in the five men who are to represent the Atlanta Athletic club as the record which they have made in the past has placed that organization at the fore in the sport for the south.

Joe Bean, who coaches the Atlanta Athletic club team, is probably one of the best qualified coaches on the subject to be found anywhere in the south.

Coach knows the game both inside and out and has the ability to impart his knowledge to others in such a way that they profit by everything he tells them.

PARCEL POST-MORTEMS.

THE REAL BEVEL-EDGED BLUNDER of the Yale-Harvard game wasn't Kempton's fumbling, although I think Yale would have done much better if the ball had handles on it. The fattest mistake wasn't Yale's moss-covered tactics. The thickest boot wasn't the failure of the Yale backs to adopt that orphan fumble.

KIP HERRING.
(Picker of the all-Eskimo football elevens.)

THE YALE MEGAPHONE HOUNDS called for the wrong cheers. Yale didn't have any signals for touchdowns. Callahan made a big mistake in not throwing the forward passes backward. Yale should have won, but, as Tammany chirps, it's only the votes you count that count.

BOLO PASHA.

WHY BLAME DOC SHARPE? You may have little football elevens of your own some day. Besides, when you blame the doc you forget that one dumbbell doesn't make a gymnasium.

DOC SHARPE.

THERE ARE TOO MUCH PENALTIES for the play that the gringo calls the off-side. I like myself to raid across the beautiful Rio Grande, but the miserable Yankee pig shoot me in the east as I am galloping west.

FRANCISCO VILLA.

TODAY IS THANKSGIVING. I will follow Yale's plunging tactics and attack the center of the line between the white meat and the wishbone I know my opponent's right and left wings are weak, but I prefer to make my gains where the meat is heaviest. There will be no tackles around the neck. Our best player is out of the game. I am referring to old Mince Pie, who was ruled off by the faculty down in Washington.

THE PUBLIC.

LESS THAN A YEAR AGO I WAS LEADING my noble army down to Paris to eat the Thanksgiving dinner and enjoy the indigestion in peace. Although we did not get to Paris, we achieved the ambition. We have the indigestion and the peace. Today we are in Holland, and I am thankful that Germany only gets the beating from the democratic administration. If that had been the republicans the beating would have been much worse. Therefore, I give thanks, but not in habit-forming quantities.

THE KAISER.

FORCES OF KOLCHAK IN RAPID RETREAT

London, December 1.—The forces of Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian government, are retreating with such rapidity they are unable to construct defensive works, of which there is none west of Irkutsk, says a wireless dispatch from the soviet government at Moscow today.

Partisan bands continually harass Kolchak, who has formed a body guard of 3,000 to protect himself, the dispatch adds.

BOLSHEVISTS CONSIDER GENERAL ELECTIONS

Washington, December 1.—Advices from Paris today state that information received there from Russia indicates that the bolshevist leaders are examining the question of general elections for a constituent assembly. They are also trying to conclude an alliance with the more moderate revolutionary parties and to arrange for the formation of a new government which would include Tchernoff, Zenzeroff, Bluski and the menchevists, Martoff and Dan Has.

The program includes the purification of the extraordinary commissions and the offer of peace proposals to Kolchak and Denikine. Some reservations ought to be made, it is stated in well informed quarters here, in accepting this outline in its entirety, but it is added that the bolshevsts have exhibited an inclination to alter their policy in order to placate the allies.

SPORTS

Fraser Hale.

The subject of this little sketch is one of the best of the younger golfers in the country. It was his misfortue to appear a little after the famous group of Chicago boy golfers who had things mostly their own way for a while and made it very hard for the one who came immediately after them.

Fraser Hale has played golf all over this country and in England and France and everywhere his showing has been creditable. From the very start he has had to work against seasoned players, and always he has put up a good fight.

He had a good beginning at golf. His father was a charter member of the Skokie club of Chicago and Fraser played from his earliest years. His first instructor was Jimmie Watson, at that time one of the most famous golfers in the country. Then, too, there is the story of a Scottish grandfather, J. G. Darling, who was a distinguished golfer in the old country.

Was Valued Member.

Fraser was a valued member of the Mid-Western team that played in the Pacific northwest in the early spring of 1913. That year playing in the western championship, he carried Warren Wood, the eventual winner of the event, to the 39th hole. In the natitonal at Garden City that year the slender, 20-year-old stripling fought the veteran Travis to a standstill, finally losing by a small margin.

In 1914, Fraser Hale was ono of the Americans who played in the last British championship. He went over later by several weeks than Travers and Ouimet, and a week or so earlier than I. He employed his time before the tournament in playing over leading English courses and made friends everywhere. He was defeated in the second round of the tournament by Ivo Whitton, the Australian champion.

In both of these rounds he was up against first-class players. Contrasting his game with the leading two eastern players, he shows more than favorably. Ouimet was defeated in his second round by a fairly good player, and his opponent in the first round was a man of 60, or thereabouts, who had been playing in Manila where good courses do not abound. Mr. Travers was defeated in the first round by a truly first-class player, who was temporarily playing very badly. I mention these facts because I do not think that Fraser has ever quite received the credit that his really good game deserves or that it has ever been properly compared with that of others. He has won many trophies, however, and won the Glen View cup the last year it was played.

Has Played Little.

But since 1915 Fraser Hale has played little golf. In the summer of 1916 he enlisted in Batty C, up to that time a rather ornamental social organization. After a little preliminary training it was sent to the border, where the Mexicans had been making trouble. There he got a bit of training and came back a corporal. Soon after his return he took an examination for a commission as second lieutenant. Then he entered the first officers' reserve camp at Fort Sheridan, and earned a first lieutenancy. He was almost immediately assigned to service abroad, but before going he played in a Red Cross match at LaGrange with Clark Griffith, Bob McNulty and the writer. He played very well, and he said: "I do not think that I have ever known one who really loved golf more than I do."

When Fraser arrived in France he went at once to an artillery school taught by French officers, and when that course was finished towards the end of December he rejoined the Rainbow division, 67th brigade, 151st regiment, battery B. On January 8, 1918, he was transferred to the aviation section to train as an aerial observer for artillery fire, and shortly after began viewing the fighting from a box seat. His golf training was valuable in his new work. A golfer, of all men, ought to be able ot judge how near shots are dropping to the objective.

Army life agrees with him marvelously, and he writes that his health could not be better. He is still in the army, a captain in aviation at Langly field, Virginia.

MAY I NOT
. . . call attention to the fact that the Nations' League Debaters' association has started its second session, and is going strong?

"Big" Bill, Not "Tiny" Bob.

A football enthusiast sat in the Yale Bowl during the recent contest against Princeton, watching the game with rapt attention. He was a Yale man, and every good move made by the Elis this enthusiast cheered wildly. But in the final period, when the Tigers started, he changed his mood. He charged on the penalties inflicted by "Bob" Maxwell, and complained of everything. Finally, he said: "No wonder that Princeton is getting all the best of the breaks, that's "Big" Bill Edwards refereeing."

One of the party produced a program and discovered the official in question was none other than "Tiny" Bob Maxwell. He apprised the first rooter of the fact, but it made no impression. "I tell you it's 'Big' Bill. I know Tiny Maxwell, and he's a little fellow beside Bill," was No. 1's rejoinder.

Sharkey vs. Bob Fitzsimmons.

Tom Sharkey won on foul from Bob Fitzsimmons in the eighth round at San Francisco on this date in 1896. This victory of the Sailor over the lank Australian aroused wild enthusiasm among Uncle Sam's tars, who looked upon Sharkey as their special hero, and it also put a damper on the enthusiasm of Fitz's backers. After whipping Dan Creedon in 1894, Fitz, although still a middleweight, announced that he proposed to go after the heavyweight honors then held by Jim Corbett. In 1896 he went to the Texas border and knocked out Peter Maher, the Irishman, in the first round. Bob then proceeded to the coast and took on Sharkey, in order to demonstrate his right to fight Corbett. Tom had fought a 4-round draw with Corbett and had knocked out Joe Choynski and other good men. While the result of the bout was disappointing, it did not interefere with the plans for the Fitz-Corbett fight, and in the following March Ruby Robert met and conquered the Californian at Carson City.

Class in Sportography.

Answer—The size and weight of the present-day baseball bat were first regulated in 1858. In games prior to that year a batter could use any style of bat he chose. It could weigh a ton and be a mile long and if he could handle it, he was privileged to use it.

When did the first American baseball team visit Cuba?

Pastor Installed.

Americus, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Americus Presbyterians yesterday installed Rev. Frank P. Anderson, of Greenville, S. C., as pastor of the Presbyterian church here. Rev. Leroy G. Henderson, pastor at Albany, and former pastor here, presided, and delivered the charge to the pastor. The charge to the congregation was delivered by Rev. R. L. Benn, of Cordele. Rev. Anderson has been acting pastor here during several weeks past.

ILLITERACY EXPERT ARRIVES IN ATLANTA

Professer M. L. Duggan Will Devote Remainder of the Week to Normal Work.

Professor M. L. Duggan, field supervisor of the state department of education, and an expert in teaching grown-up illiterates, arrived in Atlanta Monday night to devote the remainder of the week to illiteracy normal work.

He will assist local teachers in organizing classes throughout the city and in the county. In Habersham county, 1,200 were taught to read and write through the efforts of Professor Duggan and local assistants.

John A. Manget is chanrman of the Fulton county illiteracy commission, and he stated Monday night that, in addition to the four white and four negro city schools which will be operated by the board of education, all the other public schol buildings, heat and light furnished, are offered absolutely free to the Fulton county committee, and additional classes will be organized just as fast as teachers and pupils can be obtained.

Each room can accommodate a separate class; thus it is possible to teach a hundred or more each evening in every schoolhouse. Each class will have lessons two evenings a week, and in this way one schoolhouse can serve thdee sets of classes at night and three sets in the afternoons.

"It has been suggested," said Mr. Manget, "that the women's classes be held in the afternoons, and the men's in the evenings. In this way we ought to bring down our illiteracy tremendously. In like manner the county schools will be organized and operated."

Iowa—Native white, 10 years of age and over, nine-tenths of one pet cent.

Ohio—Native white, 10 years of age and over, one and seven-tenths of one per cent.

Massachusetts—Native white, 10 years of age and over, four-tenths of one per cent.

New York—Native white, 10 years of age and over, eight-tenths of one per cent.

Georgia—Native white, 10 years of age and over, 8 per cent.

HE RENOUNCES TITLE AS INFANTE OF SPAIN

Madrid, December 1.—El Sol announces today that the Infante Antonio of Bourbon-Orleans, by an acknowledgment signed November 20 renounced his title as an Infante of Spain and the privileges attached to this title. The newspaper adds that he also relinquished his Spanish nationality and severed family ties with the Spanish royal family.

Antonio of Bourbon-Orleans sometime ago by decree was ordered to reside in Madrid and not to leave the capital. Nevertheless he surreptitiously quit the country and proceeded to Italy, where he has great landed interests which several years ago were put under the administration of King Alfonso owing to the alleged prodigality of the infante.

LUXURY BUYING IN FULL SWING AND PRICES SOAR

New York, December 1.—Despite the various campaigns to bring down the high cost of living the average advance in the price of the principal necessities of life during November was given at 1½ per cent today by the second district federal reserve district board.

Reports from the retail trade indicated that "luxury buying" was in full swing, and the "repressive effect of the war on personal expenditure" had disappeared completely. "Never has there been as much spending, such a demand for expensive articles and such disregard of prices," said the report. There is an unprecedented demand for jewelry and diamonds have advanced in price 100 per cent in the last six months.

Watch the Little Pimples; They are Nature's Warning

Unsightly and Disfiguring Signals of Bad Blood.

Don't close your eyes to the warning which nature gives, when unsightly pimples appear on your face and other parts of the body.

Not only are these pimples and splotches disfiguring, but they lead to serious skin diseases that spread and cause the most discomforting irritation and pain. Sometimes they foretell Eczema, boils, blisters, scaly eruptions and other annoyances that burn like flames of fire, and make you feel that your skin is ablaze.

When these symptoms appear on any part of the body, take prompt steps to rid the blood of these disorders. And the one remedy which has no equal as a cleanser is S. S. S., the purely vegetable blood medicine, which has been on the market for more than fifty years. It is sold by druggists everywhere.

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disease, do not expect to be cured by lotions, ointments, salves and other local remedies, as they cannot possibly reach the source of the trouble, which is in the blood. Begin taking S. S. S. today, and write a complete history of your case to our chief medical adviser, who will give you special instructions without charge. July	31.20	31.69	30.95	31.60	31.30

New York, December 1.—The feature in the cotton market today was the strength of December deliveries, which sold up to 38.60, or $3 per bale above the closing prices of Saturday, and established a new high record for contracts here, not only for the season, but since the beginning of trading in futures at New York.

Other months were influenced by the advance of the near positions, with January selling to 36.45, and the market closed steady at a net gain of 18 to 52 points.

The market was nervous and unsettled during the earlier trading. Liverpool did not fully meet expectations; private crop estimates were a shade higher than looked for, while the failure of over Sunday news to show any improvement in the Mexican or coal situations was probably disappointing to buyers of late last week.

The labor troubles at Fall River were also a disturbing feature, and after opening 15 points higher to 35 points lower active months soon sold 23 to 42 points below Saturday's closing. At this decline offerings seemed to have been pretty well absorbed, chiefly by Liverpool buying of January, March and May to cover the short end of straddles, and the market turned much firmer on covering.

Easier exchange rates promoted realizing on advances, but there were only moderate setbacks, and the demand for December became more urgent in the late trading, with shorts showing increased alarm over the failure of cotton to move in this direction for delivery and the comparatively small number of sellers. March sold up to 34.40 and May to 32.50, or 30 to 38 points net higher, and the close was within 10 or 12 points of the best.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

NEW ORLEANS RISES TO NET ADVANCE

New Orleans, December 1.—While the cotton market opened at the decline today there were recoveries before the trading went very far and finally net advances, which persisted to the close, which was at net gains for the day of 23 to 33 points.

Buying was for both accounts, and once it started was met by a poor supply of contracts.

Initial prices were lower because of the Fall River strike and a local crop estimate of 10,642,000 bales. At the decline the market acted somewhat oversold as well as sold-out and professional traders started buying, apparently on the theory that a reaction upward was due. The upward trend of the market continued until the active months were 26 to 34 points higher than the close of Saturday. The decline at its lowest amounted to 13 to 32 points below.

Late in the session there were small recessions from the highest under a private bureau crop estimate of 10,732,000 bales, but these declines were not well maintained.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, December 1.—Spot cotton steady, 25 points up. Sales on the spot, 2,346; to arrive, 1,700. Low middling, 33.25; middling, 39.25; good middling, 41.00. Receipts, 3,752; stock, 429,656.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, December 1.—Cotton, spot quiet; prices irregular. Good middling, 26.28; fully middling, 25.28; middling, 24.38; low middling, 22.23; good ordinary, 20.78; ordinary, 18.78. Futures closed irregular; December, 23.62; January, 23.17; March, 22; May, 20.92; July, 20.07; October, 18.30.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, December 1.—Cotton seed oil was irregular, nearby deliveries being heavy with lard and for want of trade demand, while forward months were firm. A large part of the day's turnover was in the way of switching. Final prices were 27 points lower to 5 points net higher. Sales, 12,000. Prime crude, 19; prime summer yellow, spot, 20.15@21.50; Prime winter yellow ...; summer white, nominal.

The market closed steady. Prime summer yellow, 20.30; December, 20.15; January, 21.06; February, 21.03; March, 21.50; April, 21.40; May, 21.61; June, 21.60. Sales, 12,300.

BRITISH EXCHANGE SMASHES ALL LOW RECORDS MONDAY

New York, December 1.—All previous low records for British exchange in this market were exceeded today when cables on London fell to $3.99¼ to the pound, while checks or demand bills were quoted at $3.98¾. The lower rates were made after the close of the regular market when dealers reported an absolute lack of inquiry for these remittances.

The decline caused no surprise among international bankers, predictions of new minimum quotations having been quite general after the close of last week's heavy markets. A committee of local dealers which organized recently to devise measures for satbilizing foreign exchange met today, but made no report for publication.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, December 1.—(Special.)—The arrival of cotton from this side is beginning to have some influence in Liverpool, as the offerings on the spot there become more free. As a consequence that market was lower than expected this morning. Our market opened slightly under Saturday's close and sold off quickly under the influence of the labor situation in Fall River and New Bedford. Private advices, however, indicated that some compromise would be preached, probably today, so that prices quickly rallied. The Commercial-Appeal, of Memphis, estimates the crop at 10,541,000 bales. These figures are larger than those which the trade had expected some weeks ago; in fact, larger crop ideas have become more prevalent.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, December 1.—(Special.)—There were a number of conflicting reports as to possibilities of textile workers going on strike in the Fall River and New Bedford districts. Nothing definite was announced, however, and prices advanced quickly on recovering and some trade buying, chiefly of near positions. Were it not for the unfavorable economic and political situation here and abroad prices would undoubtedly be much higher at this time.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, December 1.—(Special.)—Thus far nothing definite has come out of the Fall River conference over wage demands. Reports today were to the effect that New Bedford operatives continued at work, but reports about Fall River were conflicting. Locals sold the market down early in the session on this news, but with Liverpool buying and some spinners calling the market recovered its loss and registered higher prices for the day. The afternoon's advance was largely on covering. Private crop estimates are running from about 10,600,000 to 10,750,000. After the early setback the undertone was generally good.

ORVIS BROTHERS & CO.

NEW ORLEANS LETTER.

New Orleans, December 1.—(Special.)—There were declines on the opening of the cotton market today as the result of the Fall River strike and The Times-Picayune crop estimate of 10,642,000 bales, but the market soon recovered and went to net advances as the result of buying from both accounts. Small sags in the afternoon greeted the Watkins bureau crop estimate of 10,732,000 bales, but the close was well up toward the top. The situation is more than usually uncertain because of Mexican politics and the reopening of congress.

DUGGAN & BOUDEN.

New York, December 1.—(Special.)—No new price-making factors appeared today. While there is nothing in this world absolutely certain but trouble, death and increased taxes and no speculative transaction can be reduced to mathematical certainty, for that certainty can be obtained in that science only, far-sighted operators are buying July and selling March on the theory that by June all the good cotton will either be owned by domestic or foreign spinners and there will be none left to tender on contracts. Strict middling cotton is selling at 400 points on January landed New Orleans.

CLARK & CO.

New York, December 1.—According to Dow-Jones News agency, favorable developments in connection with the foreign exchange situation are expected in the near future, plans being under way for stabilizing exchange. Exports today crossed the two million mark against a little under 1,300,000 last year. That the spot situation is exceptionally strong is attested by the fact that the December contracts made new high records for the season today. As far as the general situation is concerned it cannot be said that there are any unusual optimistic developments today.

The strength of the near months and the spot situation are not only causing shorts in the distant months considerable apprehension, but are likewise attracting investment buying. Barring any temporary reaction, we consider the distant months a very good purchase.

SEE-SAW MARKET IN STOCKS MONDAY

New York, December 1.—Trading on the stock exchange today continued to emphasize in variable degree the many adverse conditions which hang over the financial and industrial markets of the world.

Market opinions, as voiced by leading banking and brokerage interests touched upon the many important questions to come before congress and the unwieldy trade balance in favor of this country resulted in further depreciation of exchange on London and Paris.

The status of the coal strike, textile labor disturbances and tense Mexican situation and uncertainty respecting the outcome of important litigation now before the supreme court were included among the other issues which contributed to the market's irregular trend.

Occasional rallies in speculative shares were attributed to technical conditions, rather than actual demand, while the sluggishness of representative rails and industrials attested to the absence of public interest.

General Motors, Pierce-Arrow, Crucible Steel and some of the high-priced oils, in all of which an extensive short interest is believed to exist, rose and fell within a radius of 5 to almost 12 points.

Intermittent strength was shown by shippings, sugars, leathers and kindred specialties, but only in a few instances did prices hold at the end, even though call money dropped from the opening rate of 7 per cent to 6 on unusually free offerings.

Several of the Liberty and Victory issues rallied from early low levels, but the general domestic and foreign bond list was heavy. Total sales, par value, were $23,700,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Heavy Selling Prevails On an Irregular Market

BY R. L. BARNUM

(The Constitution-Philadelphia Public Ledger Service. Copyright, 1919.)

New York, December 1.—There was irregular opening this morning, followed by a recovery up to noon of from 1 to 2 points in many stocks, with even larger gains for some of the very active specialties. Around noon, however, the higher prices brought on a renewal of selling. During the closing hour there was much irregularity.

Beyond question a large part of the selling which had been seen in both the bond and stock market for several days past has been for the account of investors who are establishing losses to be deducted from this year's income tax payments. Last year this same selling was postponed largely until the last week of the year. And then, after selling many investors immediately turned around and bought back their bonds and stocks at fractional losses. This year the buying orders are not being given, according to information obtained today in reliable banking circles. The conclusion drawn was that many people expected to buy back their investment holdings at lower prices.

Not Confined to Individuals.

It was also learned today that the selling of securities, especially United States government war bonds, to establish losses to be deducted from income taxes was by no means confined to individuals. It was stated in the same banking circles that many institutions and corporations were also selling.

Last week's trading in Liberty Bonds amounted to $106,000,000, against $90,000,000 for the week ending November 22, $85,000,000 for the week of November 15, and $72,000,000 for the week ending November 8. For the month of November trading in bonds in stock exchange houses broke all high records for any month of any year amounting to $358,000,000, against $256,000,000 for the same month of last year, and $97,000,000 for November of 1917.

Announcement was made by the National City bank today of default of interest on the $25,000,000 Russian 5½ per cent bonds maturing in December of 1921. Both interest and principal was defaulted on the $5,000,000 Russian 6½s on June 18 last.

Wall Street Gossip.

There are three different Russian bond issues traded in on this market. First, there are the external 5½s. These bonds, which have sold as high as 98, were quoted today at 34 bid, 38 offered. Interest on these bonds was defaulted today. Next comes the external 6½s, selling around the same price as the 5 1-2s. Interest and principal both were defaulted last June. At one time these bonds sold above par. Next comes the internal 5½s which have a face value of $520. At one time this issue sold here above $300. Today the price is $35.

A short interest is again being built up in some stocks, especially United States Steel, common. Professional traders who are selling this stock argue that there is no reason to fear investment buying in these shares for the reason that the income return even at today's low prices is less than on United States government bonds and far less than can be found on many gilt-edged railway bonds. It is likewise added that there is nothing to fear from speculative buying becuse the stock is facing a very poor earnings statement as a result of the steel and coal strike.

Delaware and Hudson Breaks.

Delaware and Hudson was one of the railroad stocks that were sold today to establish losses to be deducted from income taxes. That stock broke 8½ points up to noon. At that price the income return offered nearly 10 per cent. More railway stocks have been sold by investors to establish losses for tax payments than any other kind because it is in the rails that investors have very much the large losses.

Compared with last week, there was less selling pressure today on the stock market. Tomorrow's message from President Wilson to congress may decide whether or not for the time being the stock market has become oversold.

Cash Ratio Low.

Last week's statement of the Federal Reserve bank has set the financial district to wondering whether the board will not soon be forced to take additional measures for the conservation of credit. The ratio of cash to notes and deposits, 45½ per cent, is the lowest on record. Bill holdings of the central institutions include $107,000,000 last week, with an additional $62,000,000 lent against government paper. The banks issued $35,100,000 additional notes and lost $27,700,000 in gold. At New York the cash ratio is down 41.9 per cent, while Philadelphia holds less than 40 1-4 per cent in cash against notes and deposits combined. Some of the western banks are still in strong position, but it is a question how long the reserve board will continue to sanction the transfer of the load from the east to the west.

How hard the general public was hit in the recent smash on the stock exchange is attested by the statements of brokers that among the stocks coming on the market now are some of the fine old investment issues that have been kept in family strong boxes as a reserve not to be tampered with except in case of extreme need. Railroad issues with long record for dividend payment are being forced out, and it is said there are not many bidders. This is a good deal more than speculative liquidation, and incidentally, Wall street is beginning to talk about liquidation in commodities. A short time ago the opinion was that there could be no liquidation in goods because "shelves were bare."

Looking Backward.

November of 1917 is a month which went down in the history of the stock exchange because in this month, which was in the height of the panic of that year, call money on the exchange got as high as 125 per cent. The same is true of November of 1919. In this year, however, there was no panic and call money did not get above 30 per cent, but still, even 30 per cent is a high rate. And it will be remembered because of the heavy decline in prices. The range for call money during November was 2 and 30 per cent. The 2 per cent rate was registered on the first business day of the month and was only temporary. From that level it gradually worked higher until on the 12th, when the 30 per cent rate was reached. Since then the rate has been lower. The range last week was 10 and 6 per cent. Today the rates were 7 and 6 per cent. These comparatively easy rates for call money has created the impression in some quarters that the money market will not be a factor in the stock market for the balance of the year, and that on the turn of the year lower rates will rule.

This, however, is a matter of conjecture and those who are willing to argue the point call attention to the time money market. While rates for call money are being posted at 6 and 7 per cent it is very difficult to obtain time money at even such a high rate as 8 per cent. What little business is being done in the time money market is confined mostly to renewals and bankers are reluctant to extend funds for any stated period. And for this reason it is believed that the real money stringency is not yet over. This unwillingness of the banks to extend funds over the year end is said to be due to preparations being made for the end of the year requirements which are expected to be exceptionally large this year.

SHORTAGE OF COAL GIVES CORN BOOST

Belief That Movement Will Be Restricted Leads to Advance—Oats Gain and Provisions Vary.

Chicago, December 1.—Increased anxiety regarding coal shortage did a good deal today to give an upward swing to the corn market.

The close was unsettled at 1¼ to 3⅛c net higher, with December $1.38¼ to $1.38⅜, and May $1.32¾ to $1.32⅞. Oats gained ⅞ to 1⅞c. In provisions the finish varied from 17c decline to a rise of 22c.

Corn traders showed an evident disposition to anticipate that as a result of coal strike developments the movement of corn to primary centers would be more restricted than has heretofore been deemed probable. The fact that there was no corn delivered here today on December contracts tended to focus attention on the smallness of the stock of corn in Chicago, and so, too, did the comparative scantiness of receipts and offerings.

Besides, hog values were sharply higher and weather conditions unfavorable. In the last hour, though, the advance of corn was somewhat checked by announcement that one of the chief industrial buyers of corn had withdrawn from the market.

Provisions averaged higher with corn and hogs, despite talk by packers that the winter cost of hogs would be less than $12 a hundredweight.

Quotations for Santos 4s and 5s said to range from 26 to 28 cents, London credits, and Rio 7s were quoted at 18 cents, London credits. Offers based on American credits included Santos 4s at 23 and Rio 7s at 15.50.

The official cables reported a further advance of ⅛d in the rate of Rio exchange on London, which is now quoted at 18 9-16d. The Rio market was 150 reis higher, and the early cable reporting an advance of 200 to 400 reis in Santos futures was followed by a further advance of 150 to 450 reis. Brazilian port receipts, 24,000; Jundiahy receipts, 8,000. Santos reported clearances of 67,000 bags for the United States.

Securities Sales Company Will Move Early in February

The Securities Saes company will move from its present offices in the Grant building about February 1 to the building at 64 Peachtree, now occupied by the Kinney shoe store and the Munn Sign company. The investment securities concern recently acquired the property fronting on Peachtree, Poplar and Broad streets, where the Kibler & Long clothing establishment is located, but this site will not be available for occupancy until 1921.

Extensive alterations are planned for the newly leased building, which the Securities Sales company will occupy. One of the most recent financial transactions announced by the company was the reorganization of the Nunnally company.

Sugar.

New York, December 1.—The local market for new crop sugar was quieter today and while no new business was reported, the undertone was firm, with prices well maintained. Old crops were unchanged at 7.28 for centrifugal to the refiner. The board reported no purchases.

In refined there was nothing new reported, with the demand still active and in excess of the supply. Prices were unchanged at 9 cents for fine granulated.

Urges Extending Long Commercial Credit to Europe

Delay in Treaty Ratification Leaves the United States Nominally at War and Production Is Hindered and Indemnities Delayed.

Delay in the ratification of the peace treaty has served to handicap those endeavoring to find the solution of the European credit problem, according to the current issue of American Goods and Foreign Markets, the semi-monthly foreign trade bulletin published by the Guaranty Trust company of New York. Under the circumstances, the review urges that manufacturers and exporters assist the temporary situation by extending as long commercial credits to the responsible European buyers as circumstances permit.

"As matters stand today, the United States is still technically at war with Germany, and has no consular representation there. Spanish consular officials are offering what assistance lies in their power, which is necessarily limited. American business men, seeking to buy goods or expedite the delivery of raw materials, are hedged about with restrictions and many times more onerous than will be those of business men of other nations after their governments have deposited their ratifications with the supreme council. The same difficulty holds true in what remains of Austria. The consequence is that suffering and unrest continue in both these countries. Production is hindered, indemnity payments are delayed, an the remainder of the world bears the burden.

The Edge bill was to have supplied a means for making American investment in Europe a matter of broad concern. That bill failed of passage, along with the peace treaty, and for the time Europe will have to do without the assistance that its provisions would have offered.

Difficulties Increased.

The difficulties of the situation are thus enhanced all along the line. If a general scheme of European finance is to be worked out in the near future, it will have to contend not alone with the handicaps which actual physical destruction and unparalleled expenditure have produced, but also with the uncertainty and lack of homogeneous opinion that capital would be available for enlargement to meet increasing demands abroad or for foreign financing will find it difficult to persuade those with surplus funds to purchase securities, either domestic or foreign. Employment of funds for speculation, which would seem to be a possible result of this combination of causes, will serve to continue prices on an insecure basis, when a true basis might be obtained by a more reasonable development of legitimate industry and trade.

Long Commercial Credits.

"Under these circumstances and handicaps, and others equally trying, the American manufacturer and expotrer can help the situation best by generosity in the matter of commercial credits. In addition to the European need for funds, which would make it a matter of humanity as well as good business to afford all accommodation in this matter that the expotrer can afford, the state of transportation in Europe must not be lost sight of.

"The shortage of coal is as great as ever. The strike here and the lessened production of British mines means that when the railroads of the continent can get coal at all, they must often use inferior kinds, slow of combustion and of low power. Under these circumstances the maintenance of normal schedules is impossible. Add to this the shortage of rolling stock, the general deterioration of roadbeds, aggravated by the lack of labor, and it can readily be understood that shipments of all kinds to interior points are subject to unpredictable delays. The port of Havre is even now congested with cotton shipped from America to supply the mills of Alsace and the Lille district.

"Lacking raw material, these mills, and those engaged on other commodities, cannot resume operations, though every wheel be ready to turn. The driblets which come through enable some of them to work, but only on a part time basis. The conversion of raw material into finished products, is, under such conditions, a long task. Distribution of manufacturers is subject to the same delay. It may very well be months, therefore, before the European manufacturer and merchant sees money in sight to replace that which he has laid out for the original Aemrican shipment. It is small wonder that the demand for credit is insistent."

SENATE MAY SPLIT ON NEWBERRY CASE

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, December 1.—Although in session but a few minutes today the senate gave ample indication that the treaty of peace with Germany would not be awakened for several days from the slumber into which it was sent at the close of the last session.

Two issues which gave every evidence of overshadowing any resumption of the treaty fight were the declaration of Senator Cummins that he intended to keep the railroad bill before the senate until it had been acted upon, and the fight which is likely to develop as the result of the indictment of Senator Truman H. Newberry for fraud in connection with the Michigan elections.

The entrance of Senator Newberry on the floor of the senate today was the signal for a demonstration on the part of his republican colleagues who crowded about him and gave him many expressions of their sympathy and support.

The possibility that the right of the Michigan senator to his seat may be made the subject of a strictly party fight was shown through the very definite and emphatic statement of Senator Lodge that Senator Newberry would continue to serve as a member of the senate, and the intimation from conferences on the democratic side that his eligibility to esrve would be questioned before very long.

May Undertake Recount.

Senator Lodge said that it was possible that the senate might undertake a complete recount of the Michigan election, but did not believe that it would be willing to conduct an investigation that would only conflict with the proceedings carried on in Grand Rapids, and would necessarily prove useless, as the decision of the court would be final in any event.

The sentiment was advanced by several democratic senators that a movement would be started in a short while to convince Senator Newberry that his presence on the floor during the time that the charges against him were pending was poor taste, and in such an event the entire matter is certain to be made the subject of bitter partisan struggle.

There is a decided conviction among republican senators that the prosecution of Senator Newberry is more of a political matter than anything else, as similar charges of impropriety in the Michigan elections were made against the democratic workers for Henry Ford, and so far there has not been even a hint that prosecution would be brought against them.

No Allusion to Case.

There was no allusion to the Newberry case during the brief proceedings on the floor of the senate. Senator Newberry answered promptly to his name when the quorum call was made, and again when there was a roll call on the motion to adjourn. He explained to friends that he knew nothing more abont the proceedings against himself than they did. He had received no official notification whatever of the indittment, and was informed only as others were who had read the newspapers. Concerning his future course he was not prepared to make any statement whatever.

The opponents of the treaty speaking through Senator Lodge, were confident in their statements that Senator Hitchcock offer of compromise, made last week, had little or no effect in altering the lineup which resulted in the defeat of the treaty and league at the last session of congress. Senator Lodge said that reports that he had received during the recess were in support of the position of the republican majority. He said that he had no reason to believe the treaty would come up for early debate, as he expected the president to withdraw it and determine on a new course of action before any such step was taken.

Senator Hitchcock today reiterated his belief that a compromise could be affected, but said the position of the administration senators still hinged on the wishes of the president, and that he had no idea when he would have a conference with the chief executive.

Foresees No Split.

When asked about the effect his statement making the treaty an issue in the 1920 campaign would have upon national politics, Senator Lodge said that he was very sure there would be no split in the republican party over that question. He said that he talked over the political and treaty situation with Will H. Hays, chairman of the republican national committee, the day that he issued the statement, but had not shown the statement to Mr. Hays before its issue.

The senate followed precedent in adjourning so that the president might be notified that congress was ready for business, but not until Senator Cummins, of Iowa, had urged the senate to proceed without this formality so that a start might be made on the mass of business before it. He notified the senate that he should tomorrow take up at once the railroad measure, and would urge that it be kept under consideration until disposed of.

Faces Big Docket.

"The senate faces an enormous docket of business," declared Senator Thomas, of Colorado, "and must make every day count if we are to dispose of it." He protested against the adjournment, and insisted that in the circumstances there would be no discourtesy to the president if the senate went on with its work.

Senator Curtis, of Kansas, hoped the senate would go on with its business, and Senator Thomas poinfed out that there was no necessity, in view of the senate being fully organized, and having a calendar of business awaiting it, to await the president's message. Senator Cummins said he was ready to do business, and would be pleased if the senate would determine not to adjourn.

But Senator Loge insisted on his motion, pointing out that the president is ill, and that any suggestion of disrespect would be regrettable. He insisted on his motion, and the roll call was demanded. It resulted in adjournment, thirteen senators, however, voting against it.

A Troubled Conscience.

"Yesterday," said Johnson, "I refused a poor woman a request for a small sum of money, and in consequence of my act I passed a sleepless night. The tones of her voice were ringing in my ears the whole time."

"Your softness of heart does you credit," said Mabson. "Who was the woman?"

"My wife."

PRINCE OF WALES REACHES ENGLAND, AFTER VISIT HERE

By Raymond G. Carroll.

London, December 1.—(Special Cable.)—Under a black and dripping sky and with the streets from the railroad station to Buckingham Palace a mighty concourse of umbrellas, the Prince of Wales returned from America and Canada to the royal arms of his family. Tanned by the wind and weather, a merry smile playing about his mouth, Britain's prince stepped out of the special train from Portsmouth at Victoria station and received his welcome home.

Very smart, very trim in his naval uniform, he stood at salute before his father the king. King George held out his hand and father and son indulged in a hearty handshake. Then the king drew his boy to him and kissed him on the cheek. There was Queen Mary, too, dressed in handsome furs, with a purple and gold brocade toque, waiting to greet her son. The prince kissed her on both cheeks.

Wearing her seventy-five years with as much grace as she wore the wondrous silvered cloak in which she was clothed, with ropes of pearls and a toque of purple, Queen Mother Alexandria smiled affectionately as she pressed forward to embrace her grandson, his safe return being her finest birthday gift.

Then the prince greeted his aunt, Princess Victoria, and his sister, Princess Mary. Prince Henry was there also in military uniform and he gave a cheerful, boyish welcome. Prince Albert, who had met the Prince of Wales at Portsmouth, stood at salute while the affectionate family reunion was taking place, but now he followed into the throng of notabilities. The Queen of Norway was standing a little behind the immediate royal family. The prince greeted her warmly.

Tonight the prince is the guest of honor at a dinner given by the king and queen at Buckingham Palace. His word on America is:

"I have come back greatly impressed with the value of constant personal intercourse with the new world across the Atlantic. I hope no one here will ever miss the opportunity of visiting Canada and the United States."

UNION LABOR AGENTS BARRED FROM PANAMA

New York, December 1.—C. Howard Severs and Anthony Stair, representatives of the American Federation of Labor, who sailed a few weeks ago for Cristobal to hear the grievances of 9,000 organized canal zone workers, returned here today aboard the steamship Tivives, asserting that Governor Chester Harding, without giving them any explanation, had refused them permission to land.

Severs, who is assistant to the president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employees and Railway Shop Laborers, and Stair, general organizer of the brotherhood, said permission to land at Limon also had been refused them by Provisional President Francisco Aguilar Barquero, of Costa Rica.

The two labor men said they could assign no reason for the action of Governor Harding and President Barquero, for in addition to passports signed by Secretary of State Lansing they carried credentials from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Senator Edge and Representative Hutchinson, of New Jersey. Immigration officials here found their papers correct and permitted them to land today.

The only reason which the labor men, both of whom live in Trenton, N. J., said they could attribute for Governor Harding's action was the fact that on a voyage down the coast they had become involved in a disagreement with a fellow passenger, who they added had lodged complaint with boarding officers at Cristobal.

On reaching Limon, they said, President Barquero stated he had been notified to expect their arrival and that he felt he could not allow them to land as this privilege had been refused them by their own country.

Sever said he had organized 9,000 of the 15,000 canal zone workers on a visit lasting from last March to May.

"I presume that a strong feeling resulted from the fact that I organized the negroes in the zone who had never been organized before," said Sever.

Washington, December 1.—Officials at the war department said tonight that no word had been received from Governor Harding concerning his reported refusal to permit two representatives of the American Federation of Labor to land at Cristobal.

Officials of the federation said that Frank Morrison, the secretary, had protested to Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti, but in the absence of Morrison no one seemed acquainted with the details. Commissioner Caminetti said the protest would be considered soon.

Cleveland, Ohio, December 1.—The heads of three railroad brotherhoods, Warren S. Stone, of the engineers; W. G. Lee, of the trainmen, and Timothy Shea, of the firemen, left here tonight for Washington at the head of the committee of chief executives and general chairmen named at the joint convention here last Thursday of the four organizations, to confer with Director General of Railroads Hines regarding details of his offer of time and one-half for overtime in slow freight service, provided all "arbitraries" and special allowances are eliminated.

NEGRO MAN LYNCHED IN WILKINSON COUNTY

Dublin, Ga., December 1—(Special.)—Meager details of a lynching just across the line of Laurens, in Wilkinson county, reached here this afternoon when parties coming to Dublin brought news of a negro's body hanging by the road near Big Walnut church. Their information was that no one seemed to know his name, but that he had been lynched some time during Sunday night by a mob after he had shot and wounded a young white man name Rosier, a son of Hansel Rosier, one of the best known men of that section.

Rosier was not seriously wounded, although shot in the face and breast. There was no excitement in the neighborhood or in any other section of the county. Few people in the county knew anything of the lynching, and it was not until late this afternoon that the news became known in Dublin.

ALFRED H. ALFRIEND, AUTO VICTIM, BETTER

Alfred H. Alfriend, Atlanta real estate man, who was run over by a speeding automobile on Forsyth street Sunday night, was resting nicely at Grady hospital late Monday night, according to reports received from attending physicians. Early in the night he took a turn for the worse, causing quite a bit of uneasiness on the part of his doctors, but his condition was greatly improved at minnight.

ANNOUNCE SALE OF ARMY MEATS

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, December 1.—Approximately 34,215,000 pounds of frozen beef, which represents the entire surplus of beef held by the war department, is offered for sale by the surplus property division of the quartermaster general of the army. The department will attempt to dispose of this beef exclusively through those established trade channels which sell directly to the ultimate consumer until January 15. If, at the expiration of that time, any portion of this surplus stock remains unsold, the department will attempt to dispose of the remaining surplus to the best advantage of the government.

The beef is offered for sale to any municipality, community buying organization, municipal, county or state institution, hotel or restaurant, retailer, or other buyer who purchases for immediate domestic distribution or consumption.

The beef will be sold at 20 per cent less than Chicago quotations on dressed beef, medium steers, delivered f. o. b. to any point within the territorial limits of the United States which has railroad connections. The purchaser will be billed at his option, either at the price prevailing on date of delivery, or at the price prevailing on the date on which order is placed. Preference must be stipulated at the time the order is placed, and a deposit to insure acceptance must be made. The purchaser will be billed collect on delivery for the remainder of the purchase price of his order.

Since the beef, being frozen, must be transported in refrigerator cars, no order for less than a minimum carload lot of 30,000 pounds will be considered.

The war department, however, will notify the small buyers who desire to place a bulk order for a minimum carload lot, and will attempt to fill by carload shipment, orders placed by several communities located in the same section of a state and on the same transportation line.

Orders for this beef and inquiries relative to sales conditions should be addressed to the zone supply officer, Transportation building, Atlanta.

38,000 MILL WORKERS WIN WAGE INCREASE

Fall River, Mass., December 1.—The textile council tonight accepted an offer of 12½ per cent advance in wages for all textile operatives in this city, thus bringing to an end the strike which started this morning. The operatives will return to work tomorrow.

The men had asked an increase of 25 per cent. Thirty-eight thousand operatives were affected by the strike.

New Bedford, Mass., December 1. Union textile operatives here, who threatened last week to strike today to enforce wage demands, remained at work pending further negotiations with the cotton manufacturers.

ARMY ORDDERS

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, December 1.—By direction of the president, First Lieutenant Rufus C. Harris, infantry, U. S. A., is honorably discharged from the service of the government to take effect at Fort McPherson.

Captain John Holtman, Philippine scouts, retired, will proceed from San Francisco to Charleston, S. C., and report to the commanding officer Charleston general ordnance depot for duty as finance officer.

First Lieutenant John A. Sterken, quartermaster corps, will proceed to Atlanta and report to the zone supply officers for duty.

WAGE ADVANCE GIVEN STOCKYARD WORKERS

Chicago, December 1.—Unskilled laborers employed by stockyards and packing firms in Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Denver, Omaha and other western cities are granted an increase in wages of about 10 per cent by an award made today by Federal Judge Samuel Alschuler, arbitrator. The increases are effective beginning today and affect about 75 per cent of packing house

CONGRESS TO TAKE DRASTIC ACTION

Decisive Steps Taken in Both Houses to Enact Legislation to Put a Stop to Activities of Radicals.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, December 1.—Decisive steps were taken today in both houses of congress to place drastic anti-radical legislation on its way toward passage. The house steering committee at a called meeting assured Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the house immigration committee, that precedence would be given any measures that his committee might report. In addition, bills were introduced in both the house and senate to make more stringent the laws against those who are seeking the overthrow of the government by force.

The members of the house committee that have just returned from an investigation of conditions at Ellis Island, will meet tomorrow for the purpose of framing a report based on the evidence they brought out there. Mr. Johnson said today that he had been assured by the department of labor that the sixty-eight members of the Russian Workers union held for deportation at Ellis Island would be sent out of the country speedily. Members of the committee denied that it was their intention to examine officals of the department of labor and the immigration bureau immediately but said that hearings would be held at a later date when Secretary Wilson and Louis F. Post, assistant secretary, undoubtedly would be called.

To Consider Recommendations.

One of the principal subjects to be considered by the committee will be the recommendation of A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general, that the existing deportation law, which is only on the statute books as a war measure, be extended and made more definite in its powers so that the department of justice will have full authority to convict and send to their native shores radicals in the United States.

The committee is also expected to combine the various ideas submitted by the membership as a curb on radicalism into one comprehensive bill. The first measure of this sort to come before the committee will be the bill of Representative Kelley, of Michigan, to define criminal syndicalism.

"The time has come," said Representative Kelley, "when the federal government must take steps to protect itself and the governments of the several states from persons and organizations advocating crime and violence as a means of bringing about a new social, industrial or political order.

Should Be No Delay.

"We have permitted this spirit of lawlessness and anarchy to gain altogether too much headway in this country. There should be no further delay in handling in a most energetic fashion all persons or organizations who teach the destruction not only of our form of government but of all government. We should no longer countenance the advocacy of crime and terrorism as a method of adjusting our industrial or political affairs.

"We have no room in America for those who insist that lawlessness and revolution shall take the place of the ballot. All necessary changes in our social order or in our political affairs can be effected in a lawful and peaceful manner. The widest participation of our adult population in political affairs is afforded in this country and statute, constitutions and officials are subject to changes at the will of the majority.

"Notwithstanding this fact, certain organizations, largely controlled by foreign leadership and inspiration, and teaching and advocating the necessity of revolution and crime as a means of effecting political and industrial changes. Organized terrorism by the few is seeking by force and crime to control the many. There are those among us who believe and teach that the existing social and industrial system of the country should be destroyed. They desire to set up communism to take the place of private ownership of property. They seek to establish class rule instead of a majority rule. To accomplish this purpose, and make way for the soviet system of class control, they urge the destruction of all government by force and crime.

An Effective Bill.

"The bill which I have introduced is designed to strike a deadly blow at all such organizations. It makes it a felony for any person or organization to teach the duty, necessity or propriety of crime, or the overthrow of our form of government by force, as a measure of bringing about a new order in our industrial social or political life, and provides drastic penalties for its violation.

"Congress has full power, in my judgment, to enact legislation of the kind. The federal government not only has the power to protect itself from destructive attack, but under express provisions of the federal constitution a republican form of government is guaranteed to every state in the union by the general government. Prompt action is imperative, and I believe that congress will fully and adequately meet this situation."

King Offers Measure.

Senator King, who announced last week that he would introduce a bill to transfer the immigration bureau from the department of labor to the department of justice, today offered this measure. It provides that:

All powers heretofore conferred on the secretary of labor, commissioner general of immigration and other officers, for regulating immigration and preventing undesirables to reside in this country, are transferred to the attorney general. The commissioner general of immigration, however, retains his authority to keep out applicants for admittance. All pending cases involving deportations will be turned over to the attorney general. In such cases, previous proceedings may be considered, but will have no binding effect.

Allen heretofore admitted by the secretary of labor or commissioner geenral of immigration and holding licenses to reside here, may be reexamined under this act and deported if it is deemed advisable. All records of cases concerning deportations are to be turned over to the attorney general. He is required to appoint necessary agents to gather information as to aliens in charitable and penal institutions, and to inform the officers of such institutions of the laws regarding deportation of such persons if they become public charges.

Griffin Business Vote to Comply With Fuel Circular

Griffin, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—About one hundred of the leading business men, including bankers, merchants and manufacturers, met at the board of trade this afternoon and passed resolutions committing the people of Griffin to complete support of the government by prompt compliance with the circular order issued by the regional coal committee in Aalanta. Beginning at once, all factories will reduce working hours to forty-eight per week, and all stores and banks will open at 9 o'clock and close at 4.

It was recognized that hardship will be worked on some of the larger mercantile plants, but the meeting was anxious that word should g oout that Griffin bows its head to any order of the government, and supports not only its orders but its requests as well. Griffin people will adopt practically the same plans which have been adopted in Atlanta.

UNION LEADERS STOP KANSAS CITY STRIKE

Kansas City, Mo., December 1.—The strike of railway switchmen here, which began Saturday, was called off by the strikers early today.

Calling off the strike, it was announced, followed a vote taken at a mass meeting of strikers which lasted until far into the night. The strikers will return to work this morning.

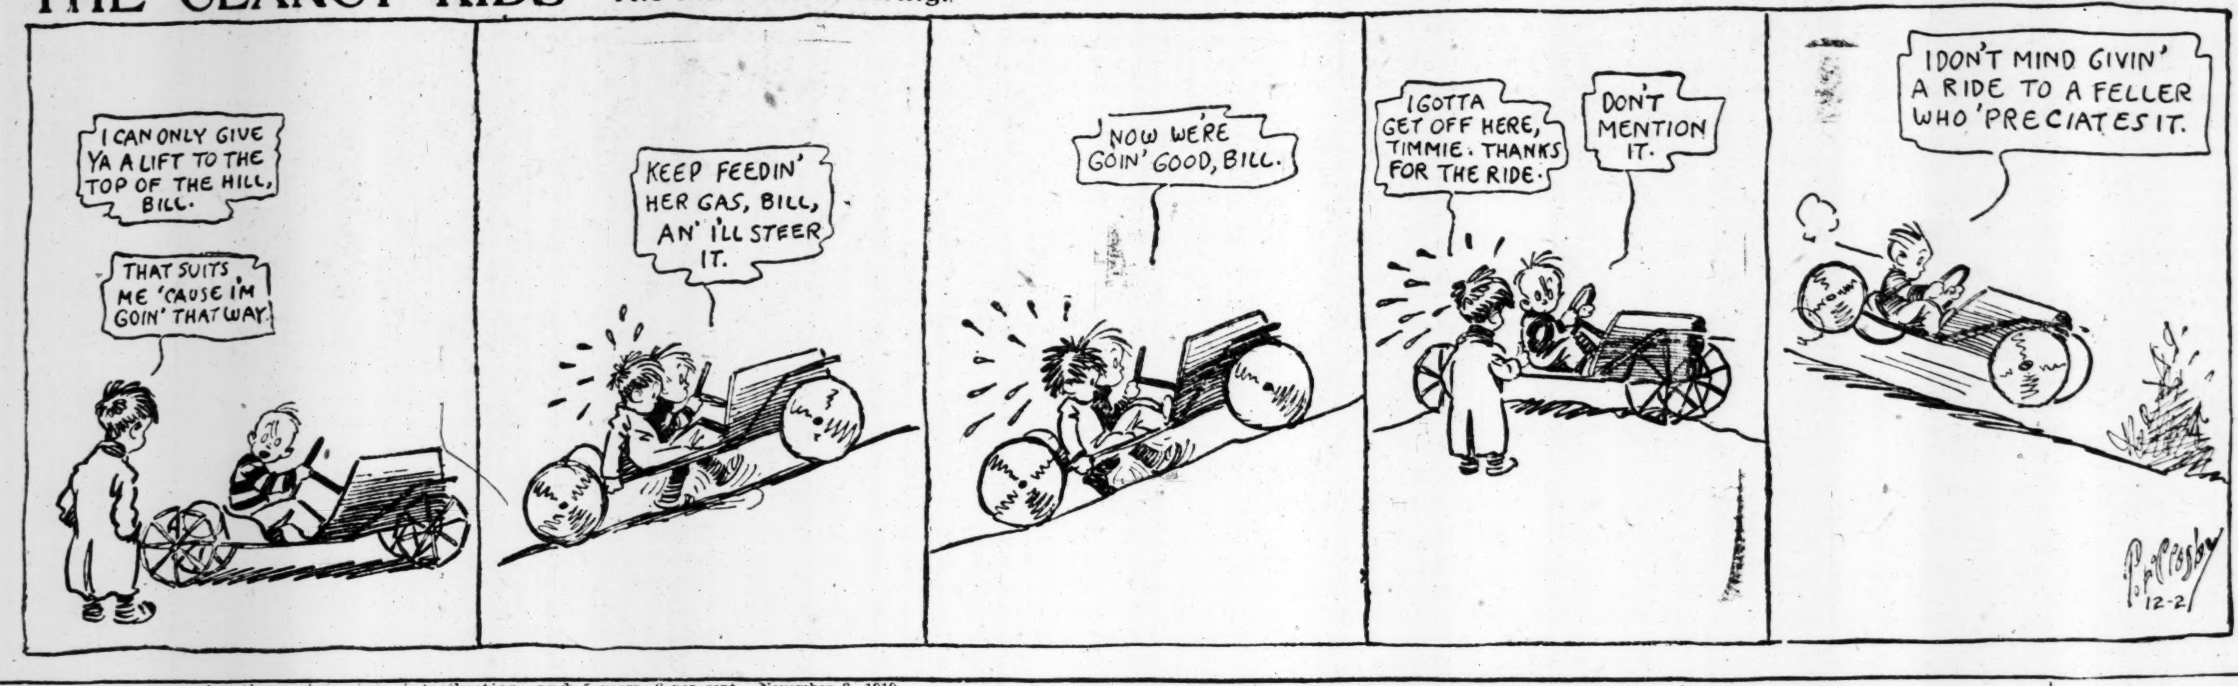

Reasons for voting to call off the strike were not forthcoming, but it was understood an announcement at the meeting by G. W. Anderson, of Cleveland, a vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, that the strike was unauthorized and the strike benefits would be withheld had much to do with the final action.

Dissatisfaction with the present wage scale and with the outcome of the recent conference of national union officials in Cleveland was responsible for the strike, it is said. The two-day walk-out paralyzed freight shipping in the local yards.

Wonderful Dancing Chorus Features "Listen Lester"

"Listen Lester," musical comedy, opened at the Atlanta theater last night for a three-day and matinee engagement, for which, after two weeks of the seventh son of a seventhson, local theatergoers are due to give much thanks.

The show that delighted a good house last night is, in many respects, typical of the modern musical comedy performance. But in many tohers, it is far superior to the regulation output.

The chief claims to distinction undoubtedly rest with the dancing of the entire company and the comedy work of E. Harrison Garrett, in the role of William Penn, the hotel clerk. Mr. Garrett is a comedian whose work never fails to entertain for a single moment while he is on the stage, and some of the lines which his present vehicle provides are both clever in theirfun and refreshing in their newness.

The first curtain opens with everyone dancing. They don't all keep it up all through, but enough of them do dance a great part of the time, and with sufficient ability to make good the claims of the billboards about the "greatest dancing chorus."

Of the musical numbers, probably "Waiting for You" is the prettiest and one whose air will linger longest in the memory. "Feather Your Nest," "I'd Love To," "For You," "Sweet Stuff" and "See Her First," are also splendid examples of the good score throughout.

The principal work among the feminine principals falls to Miss Henrietta Byron, who takes full advantage of a very "fat" comedy part. Miss June Roberts, as A Sweetheart (she is also a wonderful dancer), and Miss Claire Greenville, as A Widow.

OttKerner, while stout, works very hard as Colonel Rufus Dodge, and as a lady-who-sat-close-to-me said, he was "an awf'ly cute, fat man."

All in all, it is an exceptionally good musical show—the lines are unusually witty, the costuming is good, the settings are excellent and the musical is whistleable. What more does anyone want?

Last night the curtain rose at 8 o'clock, instead of 8:30, as is customary. This rule will continue as long as the restrictions called for by the fuel administration are in force. In order to conserve the supply of equal on hand, the theater management is loyally living to every requirement of the fuel board, cutting down on their consumption of fuel and ending the performance before 10:30. To do this, however, it is necessary to start at 8, and patrons are asked to remember this fact for future performances.

During intermission between acts, E. A. Schiller, manager for the Loew Interests in the South, came before the curtain and made an appeal for the Actors' Memorial day benefit, to be given at the Atlanta theater on next Friday afternoon. He explained the objects of the Actors' fund and auctioned the four boxes for the benefit performance, realizing the sum of $100 for the four. He also made a special announcement in respect to the big Revue which is to be staged at the Auditorium at one minute after midnight on Friday—or, should it be said, Saturday?

RALPH T. JONES.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

Something new in the line of magic and of gymnastics is furnished the patrons of the Lyric theater in the new bill of Keath vaudeville, which had its premier here on Monday afternoon.

The feature act, Al Golem company, have a repertoire of entertaining stunts which prove entirely out of the ordinary and most worthwhile to all.

The five actors, two women and three men, who are styled as official entertainers to the shah of Persia, open their program with several feats of magic and then swiftly change to balancing stunts, which are among the best ever seen in Atlanta.

Herbert Brooks shows that there are a lot of things the best poker players don't know about the game and after witnessing his exhibition the chances are all against him being invited to participate in the great American pastime. He seems to know all the cards by heart and provides a very clever and mystifying performance.

The musical Geralds, a man and a woman, in gypsy camp surroundings, offer pleasing selections upon the violin, 'cello, banjo, and finally upon a new instrument, of a ponderous kind, new to Atlanta.

Kelly and Pollock, a man and a woman, are responsible for most of the comedy of the program. They were well liked Monday. "The Love Bugs," two men and two women, complete the program.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

The vaudeville program at Loew's Grand for the first half of the week is one of many entertaining qualities. Perhaps the best offering on the bill is that of Johnson Brothers and Johnson, "A Few Moments of Minstrelsy." This clever trio have a black-face act that is as good as the best of its kind. A three-man first-part minstrel show is given, with bones, tambo and middleman. The jokes are original, the singing and dancing all that you can expect. Monday's audiences were more than generous with their applause.

Dae and Neville offer a domestic comedy sketch, "Any Couple." It was written for laughing purposes only and successfully achieves its mission.

Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese screen star, is again at the head of the picture program, having in "The Illustrious Prince" a vehicle worthy of his unusual dramatic ability.

"Pollyanna."

(Coming to Atlanta Theater.)

"Pollyanna," a comedy by Catherine Chisholm Cushing, based upon Eleanor H. Porter's tremendously popular glad books, will be presented by Klaw & Erlanger and George C. Tyler at the Atlanta theater on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with matinee Saturday.

Over half a million copies of the "Pollyanna" books have been sold, and as publishers estimate that every book reaches ten people, a grand total of something like 5,000,000 readers all around the globe is the result. Of course, it inevitably followed that the glad-girl, and those whom she taught to play the game, must be visualized on the stage. Mrs. Cushing, who has written popular comedies for May Irwin, Henrietta Crossman and Billie Burke, is credited with having very skillfully preserved the amusing and sentimental incidents and cheery optimistic spirit of the stories. There is shown the evolution of Pollyanna from her checked gingham stage into a radiant, highly cultivated maid of seventeen in chiffon. Viola Harper will play the title role and will be supported by George Allison, Garland Gaden, Mary Hampton, Helen Gurney, Katherine Rober, Fanny D. Hall, Gertrude Rivers, A. W. F. MacCollin, Harold McArthur, Master William Blaisdell and Charles S. Turner. There will be a special matinee of "Pollyanna" on Friday for the benefit of the actors' fund of America. Seats are now on sale.

"Blind Husbands."

The first day of its second week "Blind Husbands" drew almost as great an audience to the Tudor as saw it at any time last week.

There are a number of reasons for the popularity of this remarkable photodrama, chief of which is the unusual and sinister fascination which the principal character, Stroheim, "satan of the screen," exerts on the spectators. Stroheim is like no man or woman who was ever seen before in Atlanta in motion pictures: he is in a class by himself when it comes to playing the sort of villain who arouses a hatred and disgust, tempered only by a sheer admiration one feels toward him in spite of his lecherous villainy.

Above and beyond all that, however, "Blind Husbands" is a triumph because it is a first-class motion picture. The plot is strong, the cast is splendid, and from beginning to the end the action goes from denouement to denonement until a thrilling climax is reached with the exposure of his wife's faithlessness to the neglected husband.

Marguerite Clark.

(At the Vaudette.)

The liveliest week the Vaudette has had in a long, long time opened Monday with Marguerite Clark in her delightful Paramount-Artcraft comedy, "Widow by Proxy," which also is to be seen there today. Miss Clark does an awfully reckless thing in this play—she impersonates a soldier's widow, and the troubles she does have! A Bray Picto runs with the feature picture, and tomorrow the perennial Billie Burke will be seen in "The Misleading Widow." Restivo, the "international accordionist," plays at every performance during the week.

Vivian Martin a Hit At Strand Theater in "His Official Fiancee"

It's a queer thing for a chap to have as sweet and pretty a fiancee as Miss Vivian Martin—"His Official Fiancee," too, with a magnificent engagement ring and everything—and not be permitted to kiss her. "Still" Waters did kiss her, at that—and it made her p-e-r-f-e-c-t-l-y furious, because that wasn't in the bargain. Not at first, any way.

You see, Mr. Waters, a cold, reserved "money machine" and business man, required a fiancee to save him—well, he would have been in a pickle without one, to be sure. So he looked over his office force and naturally he picked out Vivian Martin, a typist. You can understand that, especially after seeing the other females. He offers Miss Martin £500—it is a British play, with tea and all that—to take the job. She needs the money for her brother, and she takes the job.

Now, then—here comes this Vandeleur, who loved her previously and considerably; and this French girl whose papa wanted her to marry "Still" Waters, and Mr. Waters takes his fiancee to visit his mother, and a most astonishing mix-up occurs. Especially when "Still" Waters becomes all ruffled and kisses her.

The plot is cleverly worked out and beautifully acted in the new Paramount-Artcraft picture at the Strand. Miss Martin is exceptionally charming, first as the office girl, then as the official fiancee, and then as—well, you go and see her.

Gaumont News and a comedy, "Oh, Susie, Be Careful," on the same bill today and tomorrow.

"Evangeline," Fox's Wonder-Play, Draws Many to Forsyth

Young and old, the spring of youth was in the hearts of those who saw the Fox wonder-play, "Evangeline," at the Forsyth at its opening yesterday—youth, and faith renewed, and tender memories revived by the marvelous picturization of "the world's tenderest love story."

William Fox spared no pains to make his production worthy of the Longfellow poem; in fact, the report of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures stated freely that it was one of the few pictures that lend strength and beauty to the story. Screened on a gigantic scale, the Fox production never for an instant loses the slender, tender thread of undying love and the bright, clear romance that guided two lives to the very end in faith and hope.

Miriam Cooper, as Evangeline, gives the prettiest and most appealing role, and she is ably supported by Albert Roscoe as Gabriel. Spottiswoode Aitken, James Marcus and Paul Weigel are also exceptionally good.

Many of the scenes, like the order for the deportation of the Acadians, are directly historical. The scenic effects are simply bewildering in their beauty and appropriateness, and for the poem itself it would be next to sacrilege to attempt to tell an American audience anything about it. By a curious and altogether charming introduction and conclusion, Mr. Fox has managed, without altering the beautiful story in any way, to leave the audience with a smile while its cheeks still are wet with tears at the tender and tragic reunion of the lovers in their old age.

Norma Talmadge, in "Isle of Conquest," At the Criterion

The new Norma Talmadge production, "The Isle of Conquest," which opened at the Criterion theater Monday, presents the situation of a woman who hates all men and a man who has lost faith in woman being thrown together on a tropical island, there to work out their destinies. The dramatic strength of such a situation has been ably presented by author, adaptors and directors, and the part gives Miss Talmadge full opportunity to score dramatically.

PUT UP IN LIQUID FORM

Mr. W. H. Henderson, of R. F. D. No. 6, Concord, N. C., a farmer by occupation, says: "I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for several years and my whole system was rundown and completely out of shape all the time. I purchased a bottle of Ironized Paw-Paw from the Pearl Drug Co., and almost from the first dose I have felt like a new man. My suffering has disappeared, and I cannot recommend your Ironized Paw-Paw too strongly as my own experience makes me give you this testimony so that others can be benefited."

Your druggist probably keeps it, but if he doesn't, call at Jacobs Pharmacy Co.'s nine drug stores.

PLAN SCHOLARSHIPS FOR FORMER SOLDIERS

Thirty Thousand Correspondence Courses Will Be Given Soldiers and Sailors.

New York, December 1.—Completed plans were announced tonight for a $2,000,000 educational enterprise among former soldiers, sailors and marines by the Young Men's Christian association, as a sequel to its war work. The project originally called for the expenditure of $1,000,000, but that amount has been doubled. It proposed to award 46,200 scholarships, provide educational lectures from those who do not receive scholarships, give free occupational guidance, and promote special work in Americanization.

Work will be started here immediately, and in other cities as soon as local associations announce their readiness to proceed.

Thirty thousand of the 46,200 free scholarships will be for correspondence courses; 16,000 will be awarded in Y. M. C. A. schools, or, where necessary, in other accredited schools, and, in rare cases, foreign university courses may be awarded.

Local award committees will consist of a representative employer, an industrial worker and a former service man.

The instruction to be offered will cover a wide field, including the ordinary acaemic, mathematical, business and language courses, and many specialized courses, such as accountancy, public speaking, automobile and machine tool operating, machine tool design, building construction, gas engine, acetylene welding, vulcanizing, mechanical dentistry, draughting and surveying.

OFFICIALS TO CONFER ABOUT SUGAR POLICY

Washington, December 1.—Department of justice officials will confer with sugar producers and refiners here tomorrow on general policies to be put into effect for the importation, distribution and sale of sugar under the new powers recently delegated to Attorney General Palmer. The whole problem of the sugar shortage, available supplies and sources from which stocks may be obtained will be discussed, according to Howard Figg, special assistant to the attorney general, who is in charge of the work.

Tentative agreements which have been reached between Mr. Figg and producers and refiners, relative to the new scale of prices, probably will be made permanent in order to insure heavy purchases and importation of the Cuban crop. Official said that Cuban stocks appeared to provide the only relief from a sugar famine. They will direct all efforts to obtaining supplies from that source, it was said.

Arrangements for a central sugar distributing committee to sit in Chicago also will be discussed further. This committee, it was said, probably would not function fully until the sugar equalization board ceases to exist January 1.

SIXTY-SIXTH CONGRESS IN REGULAR SESSION

After perfunctory sessions at which the annual appropriation estimates aggregating $4,865,000,000 were presented, both senate and house adjourned until tomorrow, when President Wilson's message will be read and legislative work started in earnest.

The senate was in session 23 minutes, and the house remained technically at work for four hours, but considered only minor bills requiring unanimous consent. Gallery crowds were much smaller than usual.

The president's message, which is to be read separately in the senate and house, went to the printer today and is expected to be brief. Mr. Wilson's illness prevents its delivery in person and also caused a slight change in the opening program. Instead of appointing committees to "wait" on the president, the senate and house had their committees send a note to Mr. Wilson notifying him of the new session. The note was delivered to Secretary Tumulty, who replied that the president would transmit his message tomorrow.

There were no outward developments today regarding future disposition of the German peace treaty and leaders were informed that the president probably would not discuss it in his message. It was understood that upon resubmitting the treaty the president would send a special message to the senate.

Senator Lodge, the republican leader, and chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said he hoped soon to press his resolution to declare the war with Germany at an end, but indicated no immediate action was probable.

The senate will begin consideration of important legislation tomorrow when it takes up the Cummins railroad bill with its anti-strike provisions. Senate leaders will urge prompt action, but much preliminary debate is expected. Initial work of the house is to be confined largely to the annual appropriation bills.

Few news bills were introduced in the house and none in the senate.

The senate democratic steering committee will meet tomorrow to consider routine affairs, but as the immediate legislative program is generally defined no action toward framing a minority schedule is expected.

ARMY OF DENIKINE JOINED WITH POLES

London, December 1.—The war office tonight in a report concerning the situation in south Russia November 25, says:

"General Wrangel' withdrew his line from the west bank of the Volga river, but the bolsheviki suffered heavily. One of their columns was surrounded and destroyed and all its transport and a number of machine guns were taken.

"The bolsheviki have advanced 50 miles south of Voronezh. General Markoff's division counter attacked the bolsheviki on the Kharkov-Kursk railway, recaptured Rlava and advanced to 30 miles southeast of Kursk, taking 600 prisoners and six guns.

"General Denikine's army has now joined up with the Poles, making a united anti-bolshevik front from the Caspian sea to the Baltic sea."

DRY CONUNDRUM BEFORE COURT FOR SOLUTION

New York, December 1.—"When is a drink not a drink?" Another conundrum bred for prohibition was sprung in supreme court here today. The answer is, "When it is taken at meals for food or alimentary purposes at home, hotels and restaurants."

This contention was made by councel for Howard Major, of the city, a stockholder in the American Malt and Grain company, at $13,000,000 concern, in a suit brought against the erstwhile directors combatting their action in selling out at a loss to another corporation. The plaintiff asserted that if they had obtained "competent legal advice," they would have "known" that the words "beverage purposes" in the federation prohibition amendment did not mean "total prohibition."

Major's counsel declared that "by legal, economic and philological definition 'beverage purposes' as used in said amendment means drinking between meals, for tippling purposes and for pleasure only, as at bars and in saloons," and that restaurants will "in a very short time be enabled to sell liquor."

Justice Lazansky remarked that if the definition of the term "beverages purposes" must be gone into, he desired time to do it and asked for briefs.

EX-KING CONSTANTINE DISLIKES PEACE TREATY

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Berne, Switzerland, December 1.—(By Cable.)—A local newspaper has interviewed ex-King Constantine of Greece, who has a great deal to say against the peace treaty, which he maintains has given Bulgaria, Greek territory.

The king refused to believe in a plot against Premier Venizelos, which he thought was a plan of Venizelos to regain the sympathy of Greeks who had grown to dislike him. The king maintained that Venizelos only remained in power by "terrorism, by using martial law against his opponents, of whom thousands already have been shot. Ninety to ninety-five per cent of the people are opposed to Venizelos."

The king then said Greece had suffered herself to be so treated because she was "a peace-loving country," but if there was any truth in the story of an attempt against Venizelos, it would be the expression of the will of the people not to be ruled by force.

Constantine also denied again that he had ever been in favor of the central empires, he said he had only desired to remain neutral, whereas the French distrusted and plotted against him. When the ministers of England, France, Italy and Russia were in his cabinet one day, he declared there was a plan to make him abandon neutrality.

Speaking, "wihout bitterness," Constantine appears to have given the impression that he is still convinced that he will return one day to the throne.

DEPOSED GREEK KING SAYS HE WAS NEUTRAL

Zurich, Switzerland, December 1.—Former King Constantine of Greece today told The Neue Zuricher Zeitung that his policy during the war was neutral. Greece, he said, benefited nothing by sticking to the entente, because what she had gained in Thrace she lost in Epirus.

Constantine expressed the belief that the recently reported attempt to kill the Greek premier, Eliptherios Venizelos, was an invention to gain sympathy. He declared that Venizelos ruled by terror and that nine-tenths of the Greek people were against him.

There Is the Cause of Your Bad Health and Misery—ACID-STOMACH!

Millions of people wonder why they have such miserable health—others why they have so much stomach trouble—suffer from severe attacks of blinding headache, are subject to rheumatism, sciatica, biliousness, insomnia, have spells of mental depression, "the blues," are always tired, wornout and "all in" physically as well as mentally.

Make a careful study of the above picture and you will find the answer. Doctors and food specialists declare that more than seventy non-organic diseases can be traced to acid-stomach, hyperacidity, as they call it. And this doesn't take into account the long list of ailments which are not classified as true diseases but which are also traceable to the same source, ACID-STOMACH.

You see how it starts—with indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour, gassy stomach. You think those ailments don't amount to much—that they will get better in a day or so. Even if they do, they are sure to come back, and the first thing you know they are of daily occurrence.

You see, too, what awful troubles these conditions lead to; and it requires no stretch of the imagination to see what the end will be—chronic invalidism, premature old age, a shortening of your days.

Now, if you are not feeling quite right—if you have any of the symptoms shown on the above chart—you may be sure that an acid-stomach is the cause of your trouble, although perhaps you may not have any aches or pains in the stomach itself. In this respect acid-stomach is something like acid-mouth. The acid that forms as the result of fermenting particles of food lodged in the teeth and gums is absolutely tasteless. You can't detect its presence without a chemical test. Yet it is there just the same—and it is so powerful that it eats through the hard enamel and causes the teeth to decay. And so with acid stomach. You may not feel the presence of the excess acid, you all the while it is sapping your strength, undermining your health robbing you of your vitality and vigor, your energy and enthusiasm.

GET RID OF YOUR ACID-STOMACH if you want to get back your health and strength, banish your aches and pains and live the life worth living!

You can now be free from acid-stomach. A wonderful modern remedy called EATONIC literally wipes it out. It does the work easily, quickly; it makes the stomach strong, sweet and comfortable. It helps you get full strength out of your food, and unless you do get full strength out of every mouthful of food you eat, you cannot enjoy robust, vigorous health.

EATONIC is positively guaranteed to bring quick relief from indigestion, bloat, heartburn, belching, sour gassy stomach, food repeating, etc. See how quickly your general health improves—how much more easily your food is digested; how soundly you sleep; how nervousness and irritability disappear. EATONIC is in pleasant-tasting tablet form that you eat like a bit of candy.

EATONIC is Guaranteed

You know and can trust your druggist. Go to him today and get a big 50c box of EATONIC. If you do not find it the best stomach remedy and tonic you have ever used, take it back. Your druggist will return your money.

If your druggist doesn't keep EATONIC, or if it's inconvenient for you to get to the store, write us and we will send you a 50c box. Use it for five days and then, if results are satisfactory, send us 50c. If not satisfactory, return the box.
